LISTING OF DOCTORAL INTERNSHIP PROGRAMS

- Programs are organized alphabetically by state; by city within state; and by agency within city. Programs outside of the United States are listed last.

- APPIC is not an accrediting agency. Listing in the directory indicates that program applications have been reviewed by APPIC Membership Committees and that the programs as submitted are in compliance with the requisites for APPIC Membership described in the policy section of the Directory.

- The information in the directory listings has been updated online by each program's training director and was correct as of May 2009. APPIC does not take responsibility for information that has been incorrectly entered by training directors.

- APA accreditation status is accurate as the directory goes to press, and may change between this date and the appearance of the directory. Interested readers should contact APA and/or individual programs for information about current APA accreditation status.

Other Application Requirements
We require 1200 total hours of practicum by November 2, 2009. Excessive practicum hours are not valued, particularly if they come at the expense of demonstrated research and academic productivity.

Program Description
Scientist-practitioner model training in clinical psychology in a medical school-affiliated VA medical center. Our goal is to train psychologists to assume positions in public sector/medical center settings. Our graduates are critical consumers and/or producers of clinically-relevant research.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
We take internship training and supervision very seriously, but we also have a LOT of fun along the way! Please visit www.southtexas.va.gov/psychology for more details.

Program Description

At the Barrow Neurological Institute, St. Josephs Hospital and Medical Center, individuals have the unique opportunity to be exposed to a wide variety of patients with neurological conditions. U.S. News & World Report has named St. Josephs Hospital and Medical Center one of the 10 best hospitals in the United States for Neurology and Neurosurgery. Barrow Neurological Institute, the neurological division at St. Josephs, has long been recognized for providing state-of-the-art care for people with brain and spine disease, disorders and injuries. There are over 20 neurosurgeons on staff as well as a large neurology department including a movement disorders and stroke center. The residency program is a two-year program. Residents in clinical neuropsychology are involved in direct patient care in several settings. Those settings may include the Inpatient Neurorehabilitation Unit, the (outpatient) Center for Transitional Neurorehabilitation, the Epilepsy Monitoring Unit, the Outpatient Neuropsychological Consultation Service, and the Inpatient Neuropsychological Consultation Service. In addition, we have a growing number of clinic services within the hospital, including ones pertaining to Movement Disorders, Normal Pressure Hydrocephalus, and Hypothalamic Hamartoma. Our department also participates in a number of ongoing clinical research trials. Our setting is primarily dedicated to patient care, with heavy clinical demands placed on the resident. However, there is a strong interest and support for research and education. We believe this provides an excellent training setting. In return for the clinical services provided by the residents, the staff neuropsychologists in the Section of Clinical Neuropsychology will provide clinical supervision, teaching seminars, and research opportunities.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
The Consortium intends to apply for APA accreditation for its postdoctoral residency program within a few years.

Program Description
The Arizona Psychology Training Consortium is a non-profit subsidiary corporation of the Arizona Psychological Association. The Consortium was developed to create internships and postdoctoral residencies. School psychology, pediatric neuropsychology, psychoanalytic psychology, sex offender treatment, and private practice sites are available. There are no clinical rotations between the training sites. All of the residencies provide advanced training in psychotherapy, cultural diversity, and independent practice. Residents participate in two-day didactic training events each month. There is a considerable amount of travel to the statewide training events. Training opportunities are provided by academicians and practitioners from several Arizona universities, community agencies, and practices. In addition, members of the Arizona Psychological Association serve as mentors to residents to enhance their career development and networking opportunities. There is a selection preference for applicants from Arizona universities and internship programs, but applicants from any regionally accredited Clinical, Counseling, and School Psychology programs are encouraged to apply. Applicants must send at least two complete application packets. One complete application packet goes to the Consortium. Also send one complete application packet to each individual training site of interest. Please review the application procedures described on the Arizona Psychological Association website at www.azpa.org. During the application process, frequently check the website for new Consortium training opportunities.

Program Description

The Counseling & Consultation (CAC) postdoctoral residency is a 2000 hour, 12 month advanced training program designed to provide advanced training for professional and leadership roles in university counseling center settings. It meets the postdoctoral supervised experience requirements for licensure in Arizona. The program uses a developmental-practitioner training model and training activities are focused on developing existing skills through a range of professional activities, training, and feedback. Residents provide individual and group therapy, outreach, consultation, crisis intervention (both daytime and after-hours), and supervise masters or doctoral level advanced practicum students. In addition to consolidating general clinical skills, residents receive training and engage in professional activities in a focus area related to their career interests. Available focus areas include: Counseling center administration/training, residential life consultation/wellness psychology/Besides clinical and focus area training, residents participate in agency staff meetings, staff development programs, and agency committees and teams. CAC has a multidisciplinary staff, including psychologists, counselors, social workers, and psychiatrists. Its mission is to serve a diverse student population, and models and promotes the valuing of human differences on individual, organization, and community levels as well as the facilitation of human potential.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
See detailed training brochures for pediatric psychology and pediatric neuropsychology tracks.

Program Description
Three positions are available. Each year there are two pediatric psychology fellows (each are for one year for 2010-2011). The pediatric neuropsychology fellowship (1 year with option to renew) participates in the Div 40 match program and is available for 2010-2012. Fellows in pediatric psychology receive training in various activities including psychoeducational assessment, developmental assessment, neuropsychological assessment, behavioral assessment, psychotherapy, and hospital consultation. Diverse rotation experiences are offered. Fellows in pediatric neuropsychology receive training with various populations including epilepsy, head injury, neuro- oncology, and various disorders impacting the CNS. TRAINING PROGRAM: The Pediatric Psychology fellowship is part of a comprehensive interdisciplinary training effort in the Department of Pediatrics. Training sites include the J. L. Dennis Developmental Center and Arkansas Children's Hospital (ACH). SETTING: The Department of Pediatrics at the University of Arkansas for Medical Sciences has over 150 faculty members, including 18 psychologists. The Department provides its clinical services through Arkansas Children's Hospital (ACH). ACH is the sixth largest pediatric hospital in the nation and provides outstanding clinical facilities. As the capital city of Arkansas, Little Rock provides many of the benefits of living in a large city without the negative aspects, such as traffic congestion and high cost of living. The population of the greater Little Rock area is approximately 500,000. Little Rock is located in a picturesque setting in the foothills of the Ozark Mountains.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities

Program Description
The goal of the fellowship is to prepare trainees for professional psychology practice at an advanced level of competence in Clinical Psychology with specialty emphasis in Psychosocial Rehabilitation and Post Traumatic Stress Disorders. The fellowship training experiences are determined largely by the learning and training goals of each fellow. The strength of this fellowship lies in the diversity of opportunities available, the priority placed on teaching and training and the rich clinical environment. The philosophy of training reflects a basic belief that postdoctoral education and training is primarily experiential in nature and for the primary purpose of learning through service delivery. The fellowship strives to provide exemplary postdoctoral training consistent with a practitioner-scholar model. Training is designed to be developmental and contextual in nature, and centered on the individual needs and goals of each fellow. While emphasis is placed on developing professional psychologists for leadership roles that combine clinical service, training and education, the ultimate commitment is to help our fellows define, articulate and progress towards their chosen career path. All fellowship positions include time for direct service, research and scholarship, conduct of supervision and professional development activities. The fellowship offers the opportunity to work in a professional and scholarly community to establish a more integrated professional identity. Throughout all aspects of the program, an emphasis is placed on ethical and legal considerations, individual and cultural diversity, and professionalism. Considerable attention is paid to the professional development of the fellow as a psychotherapist, diagnostician, consultant, clinical scholar, supervisor, educator, program innovator and evaluator, interdisciplinary team member and consumer advocate.

Program Description

Residents will be responsible for providing: (a) individual, couples, and group therapy; (b) assessment and referral services; (c) crisis intervention and on-call services; (d) outreach programming; and (e) psychological consultation to the campus community. Residents may also have involvement in training and supervision of practicum students through Humboldt State University’s Master’s level Counseling program. Residents will receive both individual and group supervision commensurate with the requirements for licensure. Although the training is in brief therapy, each resident may carry one longer term client. CAPS is housed in the Health & Counseling Center building on campus. Each resident will have a private office, with computer and internet access, and an assigned video camera to use for clinical supervision purposes. The counseling facility includes a group room, a professional library, and a staff kitchen. CAPS currently consists of four professional therapists working as a team. Peer consultation is emphasized and constantly utilized in a supportive and collegial atmosphere. The staff is especially interested in residents who will support this type of work environment. Residents will engage in both formal and informal supervisory contact with all professional staff. In addition to supervision, residents will participate in our weekly case conference and training seminar. Humboldt State University is located on the northern California redwood coast, in the community of Arcata (pop. 13,000). The hillside campus overlooks Humboldt Bay and the Pacific Ocean, amidst the surrounding Redwood forest. As one of the smaller campuses of the California State University system, with about 7,500 students, HSU is known for its open and friendly campus environment.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
There will be extensive use of audio and videotaping of clients in our clinical supervision.

Program Description
A Better Way, Inc. is a nonprofit organization established as a Foster Family program serving the needs of the Bay Area, predominantly Alameda and Contra Costa Counties. The clinical mental health program integrates individual, group, assessment, and family therapy. The multilingual and multicultural staff reflects the diversity of the children and parents served. Services provide professional best practices in the mental health field with emphasis on evidence-based practice. The overall goal of this program is to provide excellent clinical services to the population that accesses our services. The focus of the work will be with children and their families. Postdoctoral Fellows will have the opportunity to participate in several specialty seminars: (1) Parent-Child Interaction Therapy, (2) Cognitive-Behavioral and other evidence-based therapeutic interventions, and (3) family therapy. Direct observations, as well as videotaping of sessions for feedback will also be a part of the supervisory experience.

Program Description

Casa Pacifica is a residential treatment center and a non-public school for emotionally disturbed adolescents within the community. We also offer temporary shelter for abused and neglected children and adolescents. Our two-year postdoctoral program offers advanced general training in child and adolescent clinical psychology with emphasis on community mental health. Our training program is an organized experience which, in contrast to on-job training, is designed to provide the Fellow with a planned, programmed sequence of supervised training experiences. We also provide advanced clinical training in cognitive-behavioral interventions, crisis management, brief and long-term psychotherapy, group therapy, and consultation. Our supervision satisfies California licensing requirements. To be eligible, applicants must have completed a doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology and preference is given to applicants from programs with APA accreditation. Admission requirements include completion of all professional doctoral degree requirements from a regionally accredited institute of higher education or an APA/CPA-accredited program and completion of a Predoctoral internship that meets APPIC standards. Applicants must provide a letter from the director of the graduate program that stipulates the applicant has completed requirements for the doctorate and will graduate by the starting date of the Fellowship. WE REQUIRE COMPLETION OF A CASA PACIFICA POSTDOCTORAL APPLICATION. Casa Pacifica is located outside of Los Angeles in the community of Camarillo, a few miles from the Pacific Ocean and one hour south of Santa Barbara. It is a beautiful setting adjacent to California’s newest University at Channel Islands.
University of California, Davis
Counseling and Psychological Services

As a training staff, we realize the most important learning occurs through providing service under the direct supervision and mentorship of a senior trainee, helping to train ethical, competent psychologists who will contribute both to the welfare of society and to the profession.

Each fellow's training program is defined by a commitment to the following goals:

Goal #1: Commitment to mentoring and the scientist-practitioner model.
Goal #2: Commitment to a broad range of skill development.
Goal #3: Commitment to training in providing services to a diverse clientele.
Goal #4: Commitment to facilitating personal growth and professional identity.
Goal #5: Commitment to flexibility in developing each fellow's training program.

Program Description

Kaiser Permanente offers postdoctoral residencies in the Union City/Hayward Medical Center and the Fremont Medical Center, located in the South East Bay sub-region of Northern California. Each of the medical centers is comprised of different departments, including Psychiatry in Union City and Fremont, as well as the Chemical Dependency Recovery Program in Union City. The residency is a comprehensive program that offers a broad range of training experiences in one of the richest multicultural areas in the nation. The residency is seen as a vital component of the integrative Kaiser Permanente health care system. Residents complete 40 hours per week in either the Department of Psychiatry or the Chemical Dependency Recovery Program for 12 months. One half of the residents' time is spent providing direct services to clientele through individual, group, or family therapy, and conducting psychological assessments. Residents also participate in research or program evaluation, and community projects. In addition to the required two hours of individual supervision weekly by a licensed psychologist, residents also participate in at least two additional hours of individual and/or group supervision, and case conferences. Residents at each of the three programs attend weekly seminars together with the exception of days when a regional seminar is held. Psychologists or other licensed mental health professionals with particular advanced knowledge and expertise, address the postdoctoral residents on such topics as: Eating Disorders in Adolescents, Treatment of Anxiety and OCD, Medications for Patients with a History of Trauma and Abuse, Autism Spectrum Disorders. Residents attend a monthly half-day regional seminar with over 60 residents from the other Kaiser Permanente Medical Centers in Northern California. Examples of seminars that have been presented in the past include: Ethics, Clinical Supervision, Neuropsychology, and Diversity.

The Sullivan Center is a Psychological Corporation currently employing 14 clinicians. Four of those clinicians are Ph.D. Psychologists, two are a Psy.D. We also have three LMFT's one LCSW and one Board Certified Child Psychiatrist. The populations we treat vary greatly in terms of age, type of pathology, socio-economic status, and cultural backgrounds. The Center is dedicated to the treatment of children, adolescents and their families. We provide intensive assessments and individualized treatment programs. We have a team approach in which, if appropriate, children and members of their families can be involved in an integrated treatment approach using more than one modality. We provide individual treatment for the children, individual therapy for the parents, if appropriate, educational/supportive therapy for the parents around the child's needs, couples' therapy if the problems lie in the parents and not in the child, family therapy if the pathology is best treated from a family systems perspective, group therapy for children, and supportive and educational groups for parents. If a child and their family are involved with more than one therapist, then a team approach is used to coordinating treatments. Age of people actually treated at the Center run from infancy through older adulthood, although adults treated at the Center usually arrived at our services through a child or adolescent problem. We are a for-profit corporation, and provide fee-for-service basis, we also have contracts with the Fresno Unified School District and Central Valley Regional Center that allow us to provide services to children who have a lower socio-economic status. We deal with problems of childhood that range from mildly to severely disturbed.

Program Description

LMU is a private Catholic undergraduate and graduate institution located on the bluffs above Marina del Rey in California. Student Psychological Services (SPS) is a department within the Division of Student Affairs. The Division of Student Affairs supports the University mission through programs and services designed to enhance student learning. In keeping with the mission, SPS aims "to foster students' personal, social, and intellectual development and emotional health by providing psychological services to students and by serving as an educational and consultative resource to the University community. Services are provided in a safe environment that is respectful of cultural and individual differences." LMU is a highly ranked regional university, and the student body of approximately 5,500 undergraduates and 2,500 graduate students is highly diverse. SPS is centrally located in relatively new offices. In addition to providing direct services, Fellows participate in campus events, serve on university committees, and conduct research/program evaluation. Supervision meets licensure requirements, and Fellows have the opportunity to work with all staff members. Fellowship meets 1500 required hours with up to a 44 hours week.

Full-Time: 15 hours of diagnostic and therapy cases, and spend the balance of their time in psychological and psychosocial training. All fellows receive 10-15 hours of weekly group supervision and didactic teaching from psychodynamically-trained faculty who are practicing clinicians. The program is small and collegial, allowing ample interaction time with the teaching faculty. The two-years provide a unique opportunity to gain experience in longer-term intensive psychotherapy. The goal of the Reiss-Davis Fellowship is to graduate mental health professionals who have solid observational, diagnostic, and therapeutic skills, are knowledgeable about psychoanalytic theory and technique, are grounded in their familiarity with normal and pathological development and parenting issues and ultimately feel confident in their ability to integrate theory with practice.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities

There are also opportunities to become involved with ongoing Reiss-Davis educational workshops and/or clinical research. Outside of the offerings at Reiss-Davis, fellows will also participate in some of the parent agency’s staff development and in-service trainings offered on campus.

Program Description

This Postdoctoral Fellowship is for psychologists who are looking to train in diagnostic and psychotherapeutic work with children, adolescents and their parents/caregivers from a psychodynamic perspective. The Center is located in the heart of West Los Angeles on the beautiful 17 acre campus of the parent agency, Vista Del Mar. The Reiss-Davis Clinic has been serving the mental health needs of a racially, ethnically, and socio-economically diverse population since 1950. The fellowship functions within the overall structure of the clinic. Modeled after the Hampstead Clinic in London, the fellowship program has been offering advanced training in psychoanalytic child-adolescent work for almost sixty years. The program’s curriculum incorporates the latest in developmental interpersonal neurobiology. Fellowships are available on a part-time (25-28 hours/week) or full-time (40-43 hours/week) basis, and begin in September. A typical week for part-time fellows is comprised of 12 hours of diagnostic and therapy cases and 2-3 hours of individual supervision. Full-time fellows, with additional supervision, carry 15 hours of diagnostic and therapy cases, and spend the balance of their time in psychological and psychoeducational training. All fellows receive 10-15 hours of weekly group supervision and didactic teaching from psychodynamically-trained faculty who are practicing clinicians. The program is small and collegial, allowing ample interaction time with the teaching faculty. The two-years provide a unique opportunity to gain experience in longer-term intensive psychotherapy. The goal of the Reiss-Davis Fellowship is to graduate mental health professionals who have solid observational, diagnostic, and therapeutic skills, are knowledgeable about psychoanalytic theory and technique, are grounded in their familiarity with normal and pathological development and parenting issues and ultimately feel confident in their ability to integrate theory with practice.

Program Description

The Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Neuropsychology at the UCLA Semel Institute for Neuroscience and Human Behavior aims to prepare clinician-scientists for careers in academic research and clinical applications within the specialty area of neuropsychology. The program offers training in a series of six tracks with clinician/educator and academic/research emphases, including: 1) General Track - 1 opening; 2) Child Track - 1 opening; 3) Geropsych Track - 1 opening; 4) Neuropsychology of Aging - 1 opening; 5) HIV/AIDS Research Track - 1 opening. All Fellows, regardless of track, receive broad training and experience in both research and practice. All residents share an extensive curriculum of didactic and experiential offerings, and training programs are individually tailored to achieve specific goals considering the Resident’s prior competencies and experiences. Patient populations span all age groups, and both clinical applications and research projects target a diversity of neurologic, psychiatric, and general medical disorders, with integration across diverse departments and centers including: Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences, Neurology, Neuropsychology, the Brain Injury Research Center, and Ahmanson-Lovelace Brain Mapping Center at UCLA. Additional offerings are made possible through strong collaborations with centers of excellence off-campus, including The Help Group (with a focus on neurodevelopmental disabilities), the Veterans Administration Greater Los Angeles Health Care System (VAGLAS, with a focus on HIV/AIDS and major mental illness), and The University Neuropsychology Group in Pasadena.

Training Opportunities

Psychologists can develop advanced clinical skills in their emphasis area. The program will only accept graduates of APA accredited programs who will have completed APA accredited internships and all the requirements for graduation by September 1, 2009.

The University of Southern California University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (USC UCEDD) at Children's Hospital Los Angeles (CHLA) offers an advanced two-year postdoctoral training program in Clinical Child Psychology. The program offers unique training experiences in clearly defined emphasis areas. Individuals are recruited specifically for each emphasis area and are offered training opportunities in a variety of departments and medical settings. The emphasis practice areas include Pediatric Psychology, Early Childhood Mental Health, Trauma Psychology, Child and Family Therapy, and Adolescent Psychology. The postdoctoral training program at CHLA is based on an integrated community mental health and health psychology scientist-practitioner model. It is designed to train psychologists to assume leadership roles as experts in clinical psychology in pediatric community and medical settings.

Depending on the emphasis area chosen, fellows may be gaining professional experiences in outpatient mental health clinics, community clinics, schools and/or pediatric hospital units. Through intensive supervision, didactic lectures and seminars, research and program development activities, and ample direct patient contact and consultation opportunities, fellows enhance and develop advanced clinical skills in their emphasis area. The program will only accept graduates of APA accredited programs who will have completed APA accredited internships and all the requirements for graduation by September 1, 2009.

Program Description

The USC Institute of Psychiatry, Law, and Behavioral Science is an integrated part of the USC Department of Psychiatry and the Behavioral Sciences and has been in existence since 1963. It offers a full-time one year Fellowship and an option for a second year. Psychology Fellows are offered the same training and education as Psychiatry Fellows. All Fellows serve under supervision as consultants and as expert witnesses for the State and Federal Criminal Court, Family Law Court, Mental Health Court, Juvenile Court, and County and Federal Probation as well as the State Parole Board. Each Fellow is assigned approximately two cases per week involving psychological-legal issues for the courts and various administrative hearings. The Fellows have at least seven USC Fellowship-trained faculty supervisors at any given time. The Fellows also conduct treatment of mentally disordered offenders. Courses specifically designed for the Fellows include: criminal law, civil law, juvenile law, family law, mental health law, videotape seminar, a course on landmark mental health law cases, legal research, correctional psychology, and legal and ethical issues related to the practice of forensic psychology. Courses and seminars are approximately 14-18 hours per week. The lecturers are forensic psychologists and psychiatrists, judges, attorneys and professionals in other forensic related disciplines. Each Fellow teaches and supervises USC psychiatric residents in the area of psychiatry and the law. Moreover, there are clinical case conferences where each Fellow presents a forensic case demonstrating his/her knowledge and application of clinical material to the legal issues. Additionally, each fellow will serve as a consultant to the largest jail in the United States. Finally, each fellow will have an opportunity to conduct a psychological autopsy for the Los Angeles County Department of Coroner. Use the telephone number and address listed above for inquiries and application.

Program Description
The Wright Institute Los Angeles Postgraduate Center’s full-time and half-time postdoctoral training program is designed to develop and refine competence in the conduct of long-term, intensive psychotherapy and brief psychotherapy. The theoretical orientation of most of our faculty is contemporary psychodynamic/psychoanalytic. The field of psychoanalytic psychotherapy has undergone a substantial evolution in recent years. The program presents the core of theory and technique that has endured through this evolution as well as relatively recent developments which have advanced theory and enlarged the range of application and effectiveness of psychoanalytic psychotherapy. The program consists of the conduct of psychotherapy with an adult caseload presenting with a broad range of diagnoses and issues, individual and group supervision, an extensive series of seminars on theory and technique, and case conferences. Focused training in eating disorders offered through our Eating Disorders program, is available to interested Postdoctoral Fellows. Training is also offered in the Unanticipated Life Changes Program which currently offers services to those affected by the economic downturn. Full time Fellows may also participate in a clinic project, the nature of which varies from year to year. Teaching and supervision are conducted by a small core faculty and a large group of mental health professionals on our Teaching and Supervisory Faculty.

The training staff includes 2 full-time and 4 part-time psychologists and 40 mental health professionals in private practice who have appointments to WILA’s Teaching and Supervisory Faculty. All faculty are licensed and experienced and have specialty training in psychodynamically oriented psychotherapy and psychoanalysis. Participation in the postdoctoral training program requires a Ph.D. or Psy.D. in Clinical or Counseling Psychology.

Program Description
The South Bay Consortium is a joint program supported by the Santa Clara and San Jose Medical Centers. The Consortium began in 2006 as part of a restructuring of the larger Northern California Regional postdoctoral training programs. The goal was to provide an integrated and comprehensive training program while retaining local support. The South Bay Consortium is a comprehensive program that is well integrated into the Kaiser Permanente health care system. A total of 13 Clinical Psychology Residents are placed in Departments of Child or Adult Psychiatry or our Autism Spectrum Disorder Clinic. Their required clinic time is 40 hours per week during a 12-month period. One-half of the residents’ time is spent providing direct services to clientele through individual, group, family, or couples therapy and conducting psychological assessments. In addition to the required two hours of individual supervision weekly by a licensed psychologist, residents also participate in two hours of group supervision, case conferences, team meetings, and weekly seminars. Residents are also encouraged to attend the monthly grand rounds for the general staff. In addition to weekly seminars and individual and group supervision, residents are expected to attend a monthly half-day seminar, which is also open to supervising psychologists for continuing education credits. The first seminar focuses on Ethics and the Law. This ensures all postdoctoral residents have a sound working knowledge of California’s professional code of conduct. Program Description
The focus of the Postdoctoral Fellowship training program at Children’s Hospital of Orange County (CHOC) is to provide advanced in-depth training in child/pediatric psychology and prepare individuals for careers in medical settings. The CHOC Fellowship offers specialized training in child clinical psychology applied in a general pediatric tertiary care setting. Postdoctoral Fellows are supervised by Psychology faculty who have expertise in pediatric and child clinical psychology, as well as specialized interests in neuropsychology, pain management, disruptive behavior disorders, infant development, and sports psychology. The Program provides experience with consultation/liaison to sub-specialty pediatric units, neuropsychological assessment, and work in our outpatient Pediatric Psychology Clinic. One position is with our Consultation and Liaison Program and one with the Oncology Service. The training program is housed within the Department of Pediatric Psychology which provides comprehensive psychological services throughout the Children’s Hospital. Postdoctoral Fellows share some training experiences and seminars with interns in an APA accredited psychology internship as well sharing some educational opportunities with medical residents. Further, fellows have the opportunity to evaluate/consult/treat a wide variety of families from multicultural backgrounds. Fellows participate in research activities and complete a clinical/research project during their fellowship. Fellows also have the opportunity to provide supervision to practicum students.

Program Description

The Children’s Health Council (CHC) is a private, non-profit, multidisciplinary agency offering outpatient mental health, educational, speech language, and occupational therapy services to children with emotional, behavioral, and/or developmental problems. The patient population served by CHC ranges in age from infancy to early adulthood and includes the full span of socioeconomic levels, cultural groups, and range of clinical problems. The CHC currently offers 2 one-year postdoctoral fellowships in child clinical psychology. Postdoctoral Fellows receive intensive training in psychodiagnostic assessment and treatment of children and families in a multidisciplinary setting and are encouraged to select an area of specialization. Opportunities for focusing on training in Pediatric Neuropsychology or Young Child Assessment/Treatment are available. Additional opportunities for training in Pervasive Developmental Disorders or Medically Fragile Children are typically available. The postdoctoral fellowship follows the training guidelines of the APA as detailed by APPIC and Section 1 of Division 12 (Child Clinical Psychology). Each fellow spends approximately 65% of the time per week in direct clinical service (i.e., assessment, psychotherapy, consultation) and 35% of the time in supervision, seminars, and various clinical meetings (e.g., treatment team conferences). Supervision and didactics are provided primarily by psychologists at Children’s Health Council and clinical faculty members of Stanford University Medical School. Applicants from APA approved internship programs are encouraged to apply.

Program Description

Please see the Training Program website at www.palo-alto.med.va.gov/MentalHealth/PsychologyTraining.asp for program brochure and application instructions. Application due date is Tuesday, January 5, 2010. All application materials must be sent by email to the Postdoctoral Coordinator at William.Faustman@va.gov. All offers will be made at the end of February, 2010. Contact Dr. William Faustman with specific questions. Applicants must be U.S. citizens and graduates of APA-accredited internships and APA-accredited doctoral programs in Clinical or Counseling Psychology. Dissertation must be completed to begin postdoctoral program. Postdoctoral training at the VA Palo Alto builds on the generalized foundation of the knowledge, skills, and proficiencies that define clinical psychology, and offers both breadth and depth to develop both advanced general clinical skills and specific skills within the following 7 areas of emphasis: Behavioral Medicine, Clinical Genopsychology, Palliative Care, Psychosocial Rehabilitation, Trauma, and Substance Use/Homeless Rehabilitation (one position open in each area). The core program also emphasizes professional development and the development of skills for supervision. Extensive individual and group supervision is available in all settings. *The Behavioral Medicine emphasis area provides training in all areas of Behavioral Medicine. The Clinical Genopsychology emphasis area involves training in all areas of Genopsychology Competency as described in the APA Proficiency. *The Palliative Care, Rehabilitation Psychology, PTSD/Trauma, and Substance Use/Homeless Rehabilitation emphasis areas involve training in the emerging competencies for psychologists working in these areas. *The Psychosocial Rehabilitation emphasis area provides training in a recovery/rehabilitation approach to working with patients with severe mental illness.
The Forensic Psychology program provides training in the specialized practice of forensic psychology, including case and statutory law, use of law and psychology, and ethical considerations. Fellows have the opportunity to work with local medical hospitals and rehabilitation centers to offer assessment opportunities of non-psychiatric individuals. They also have the chance to improve their knowledge in areas of neurobehavioral syndromes, functional neuroanatomy, neuropsychological assessment, and report writing. Fellows lead cognitive re-education for discharge. The Neuropsychology fellowship is a two-year training program, providing advanced training in the specialized practice of neuropsychology while working in a forensic setting. The Neuropsychology fellowship is a two-year training program, and clinical fellows conduct intensive long-term individual psychotherapy and psychological assessments focused on treatment needs, diagnosis, and risk assessment. Fellows are prepared to work with severely mentally ill patients, seeking advanced training in therapy and assessment with a forensically involved population. The training program sponsors off-site training for fellows to gain exposure to populations and topics not covered in the hospital. When AAFP has its next class, the fellows attend seminars in their respective fields. No applications are required to be received last year. How to obtain application info is available on Fellowship website page - http://tinyurl.com/2q4w6.

Program Description

This fellowship offers three tracks: Forensic Psychology (3-4 positions), Advanced Clinical Psychology (1-2 positions), and Neuropsychology (1-2 positions). The Forensic Psychology program provides training in the specialized practice of forensic psychology, including case and statutory law, use of specialized forensic assessment instruments, forensic reports, and expert testimony. Fellows perform forensic evaluations and consultations, including trial competency, criminal responsibility, sex offender evaluations, mentally disordered offender evaluations, assessments of psychopathy and general risk and sex offender risk assessment. The Advanced Clinical Psychology Program is designed for the fellow who has significant experience working with severely mentally ill patients, seeking advanced training in therapy and assessment with a forensically involved population. The clinical fellows conduct intensive long-term individual psychotherapy and psychological assessments focused on treatment needs, diagnosis, and readiness for discharge. The Neuropsychology fellowship is a two-year training program (consistent with the Houston Conference Guidelines), and provides advanced training in the specialized practice of neuropsychology while working in a forensic setting. The program addresses core knowledge areas of neurobehavioral syndromes, functional neuroanatomy, neuropsychological assessment, and report writing. Fellows lead cognitive rehabilitation groups, perform hospital-wide neuropsychological evaluations, and serve as consultants to treatment teams. We anticipate partnering with local medical hospitals and rehabilitation centers so we can offer assessment opportunities of non-psychiatric individuals.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Submit applications directly to site(s) of interest. Attend Open House for 2010/11 East Bay Consortium (last year’s was January 16th, noon-1:30PM) at Walnut Creek site (not required, but training directors and supervisors will give presentations about their sites). RSVP to Director of Training.

Program Description
The East Bay Consortium consists of at least two fellowships at each of four site locations in the Bay Area: Antioch, Martinez/Pleasant Hill, Pleasanton, and Walnut Creek. (2009: third positions at two sites.) Residents are generalists, but may have a primary affiliation to the Adult, Child & Family, or Chemical Dependency teams depending on the site. Separate applications must be made to each site of interest. Our training philosophy is to foster clinical competence and professional identity through the mastery of basic and specialized skills. Training in empirically validated techniques gives residents a menu of interventions, while supervision keeps a focus on the particulars of each therapist/client pairing. There is a clear emphasis on the role of the psychologist in a multi-cultural community, an outpatient setting and integrated with the medical center in providing quality health care to its members. The residency consists of three components: 1. Regular exposure, through active participation, to all facets of outpatient services. 2. Professional guidance through sessions of formal supervision, staff meetings and informal contacts with staff members. 3. Regular weekly and monthly training seminars. One half of the residents time is spent providing direct services to Kaiser members through individual, group, & family therapy. Residents complete 2 psychological test batteries over the course of the training year.SERVICES The Departments of Psychiatry at each site provide individual, group, family, child and adolescent therapy, post-hospital stabilization programs for teens and adults, and chemical dependency services for adults, as well as evidence based treatment groups for common disorders. Some specialized services are sub-regionalized at Walnut Creek, including an eating disorders program and a teen chemical dependency program. STAFF ORIENTATION: Members of the staff represent a variety of theoretical orientations.

Program Description

The central bay region encompasses the cultural and geographic heart of the Bay Area. The training sites of the Central Bay Training Consortium are located in the cities of Oakland and Richmond. The Departments of Psychiatry at each site provide psychotherapy, psychological testing, and psycho-educational programs. Each department includes an Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) that provides services to recently hospitalized individuals. Certain sites in the Central Bay Training Consortium include the Chemical Dependency Recovery Program (CDRP) which offers intensive chemical dependency services. Each site runs many different groups such as Dialectical Behavioral Therapy (DBT). Residents are placed in Departments of Psychiatry and are required to complete 40 hours per week over a 12-month period. In addition to the required two hours of individual supervision weekly by a psychologist, the resident also participates in two or more hours of group supervision, case conference, and/or team meetings and a weekly seminar. Residents from the two sites attend weekly seminars at one site. Depending on the program and site other seminars may be required or recommended to the resident. Residents attend a periodic half-day Kaiser Permanente Northern California Post-Doctoral regional seminar. These seminars provide an opportunity to develop professional relationships with a large community of psychologists that will help orient the post-doctoral fellow to his or her career as a professional psychologist. We have made a commitment to evidence-based treatments. Departments throughout the region have sent specialists to develop Best Practice guidelines based on the most current research for major psychological disorders. The Best Practices literature is made available to all residents and is considered part of overall curriculum of the residency program. Visit our website to see our Best Practices Manuals.

Program Description
The Central Valley Program is a comprehensive postdoctoral psychology residency program that is well-integrated into the Kaiser Permanente health care system. A total of 3 Clinical Psychology Residents are placed in the Departments of Adult or Child Psychiatry in the Sacramento area. Location is either South Sacramento or Elk Grove-1 Child and 2 Adult residents. 40hrs a week is required over the 12-month residency period. Half of the resident’s time is spent providing direct services to clientèle through individual, group, family, or couple therapy and conducting psychological assessments. In addition to the required two hours of individual supervision weekly by a licensed psychologist, residents also participate in two hours of group supervision, case conferences, research projects, team meetings, and weekly seminars. Staff psychologists possess a wide range of specialties including Pain Management, Eating Disorders, Cultural Issues, Women’s Health, Biofeedback, Health Psychology, Mood Disorders, ADHD, Family Systems, Autism. The patient population consists of Kaiser Health Plan members possessing prepaid psychiatric benefits and also Medi-Cal clientele (South Sacramento). Our members consist of a wide spectrum of lower to middle/working class adults, families, couples, and children. The patient population is ethnically diverse and exhibits a wide array of psychological, medical, and chemical dependency problems. The Central Sacramento Valley Region encompasses the cultural and geographic heart of Northern California with the richly diverse urban area of the Sacramento metropolitan area. It was named the most ethnically and culturally diverse city in the United States by Time Magazine in 2002. The Pacific Ocean, the famous Napa/Sonoma wine country, and San Francisco are all a short 2 hour drive away. The Sierra Nevada Mountains and Lake Tahoe only 90 minutes and Yosemite National Park and Monterrey are 3 hours away.

Program Description

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences is recruiting 4 clinical psychology fellows. The fellowship will begin September 1, 2009 and will continue for 1 year. In conjunction with the Sacramento County Division of Mental Health, we are recruiting 4 fellows to provide psychological services, under supervision, in 3 division of mental health clinical programs associated with the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences; an adult inpatient service, an adult outpatient service, and a children’s outpatient service. Two psychology fellows will be child focused and be based in the Sacramento County Child and Adolescent Psychiatry Services Clinic, and two fellows will be adult focused and will split their time between the county inpatient and outpatient facilities. In addition, fellows from both of these tracks may have the option of placing a minor emphasis in either adult or child work.

Program Description

Our training program is designed for Clinical Psychology with three different areas of emphasis. One Fellow is selected for Child/Adolescent Psychology training, another for Geropsychology training, and a third for Cognitive-Behavioral training. The Child/Adolescent fellow provides clinical service to an inpatient population, the Geropsychology Fellow works with both an inpatient and partial hospitalization population, and the Cognitive-Behavioral Fellow is assigned to an Intensive Treatment Outpatient Program. Fellows supervise interns in our APA accredited internship program.

Our orientation is largely CBT. Training occurs in the hospital and in the local professional community.

Training Opportunities

Program Description
The West Bay Consortium is a comprehensive program that is well-integrated into the Kaiser Permanente health care system. The central San Francisco Bay region encompasses the cultural and geographic heart of the Bay Area. The training sites of the West Bay Consortium are located in the cities of Redwood City, San Francisco, and South San Francisco. The Departments of Psychiatry at each site provides psychotherapy, psychological testing, and psycho-educational programs. Each department includes an Intensive Outpatient Program (IOP) that provides services to recently hospitalized individuals, or individuals at risk for psychiatric hospitalization. Certain sites in the West Bay Consortium include Chemical Dependency Recovery Programs (CDRP) which offer intensive chemical dependency services. One site provides services for those patients with chronic pain/behavioral health concerns. Certain departments offer Neuropsychological assessment services. Each site runs many different groups such as Depression, Anxiety, and Dialectic Behavioral Therapy (DBT). All residents are required to complete 40 hours per week over a 12-month period. In addition to the required two hours of individual supervision weekly by a psychologist, the resident also participates in two or more groups of supervision, case conference, and/or team meetings and a two-hour weekly seminar. Residents are also encouraged to attend departmental grand rounds and seminars. Residents will also have the opportunity to teach and gain experience conducting supervision. Residents from each of the sites attend weekly seminars in San Francisco. Residents also attend regular half-day Kaiser Permanente Northern California Post-Doctoral regional seminars. A core feature of our training program is supporting and mentoring new professionals in their transition from internship through licensure.

Program Description

The North Bay Consortium is a joint program supported by the Santa Rosa, San Rafael, and Vallejo Medical Centers. The consortium is a comprehensive program that is well integrated into the Kaiser Permanente health care system. The program accepts 13 psychology residents: 8 positions are split between the adult and child teams in both Santa Rosa and San Rafael, 2 positions are in chemical dependency services in San Rafael, and 3 positions are on the adult team in Vallejo. Our training philosophy is to foster clinical competence and professional identity in a multidisciplinary medical center. The residency consists of three components: 1) Regular exposure, through active participation, to all facets of patient care; 2) Professional guidance through sessions of formal supervision with licensed psychologists and 2 hours of group supervision; and 3) Regularly scheduled local and regional training seminars. One half of the residents’ time is spent providing direct services to Kaiser members through individual, group, and family therapy. Over the course of the training year, residents are expected to complete a minimum of two psychological test batteries and at least one program evaluation project.

Program Description
The Help Group’s post-doctoral Fellowship focusing on Autism Spectrum Disorders provides fellows an opportunity to obtain advanced clinical training and experience in intervention (individual, family, and group therapy) and assessment of children with autism spectrum disorders. In addition, fellows will develop skills in supervision, public speaking, program development and evaluation, and management in areas related to working specifically with an autistic population. The Help Group is one of the largest providers of school-based and outpatient services for children on the autism spectrum in the U.S., assessing and treating children and adolescents from pre-school through young adulthood. The year begins with the fellow completing a self-assessment of their strengths and areas in need of further training and experience. This self-assessment aids in the development of the individualized learning plan, which informs the training agreement for the year. The Help Group’s year long post-doctoral fellowship program helps fellows to develop specific skills and competencies to increase readiness for independent practice in the field of professional psychology with specialized skills and knowledge in working with children and adolescents with autism spectrum disorders in a community mental health center. The fellow’s post-doctoral year will provide extensive experiences and exposure to the multifaceted roles psychologists take on in community mental health, with a focus on autism. The post-doctoral fellow will be given more autonomy and independence as the year proceeds, while always having access to supervisors and training opportunities.
Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) provides opportunities for advanced training and supervision in crisis intervention, assessment, on-call coverage, brief counseling, long-term counseling, individual and couples counseling, group psychotherapy, consultation, and special administrative projects. The Postdoctoral Fellowship emphasizes a generalist training in preparation for a Staff Psychologist position at a university counseling center. Over the course of the year, Postdoctoral Fellows continue to enhance and solidify the development of clinical skills required for professional practice in psychology including: skills to effectively respond to crisis situations, consultation and collaboration with an interdisciplinary staff, the campus community and off-campus community, skills to work with individual and cultural diversity, and consultation, administration, education, liaison, and outreach skills. Additionally, CAPS provides Postdoctoral Fellows specialized training in the assessment and management of eating disorders, substance abuse, or peer counseling. Postdoctoral Fellows provide 20 hours of clinical work per week. This includes weekly intakes, on-call coverage, consultations, referrals, short-term individual, couples, or group psychotherapy, and two long-term fee-paying students. Postdoctoral Fellows receive two hours of Primary Supervision, one hour of Specialty Supervision, and two hours of Case Consultation per week. Postdoctoral Fellows also attend a weekly staff meeting and a ninety minute Education Meeting. Postdoctoral Fellows also participate in various types of outreach to the Stanford community. Outreach encompasses both preventative work and may include responding to an event on-campus. Additionally, Postdoctoral Fellows provide consultation to faculty, staff, Resident Deans, Peer Counselors, or students.

Program Description

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University School of Medicine offers: 1) clinic-funded fellowships for those planning careers as clinicians; and 2) NIMH-funded research fellowships for those preparing for academic careers. Clinical fellowships are available in the Behavioral Medicine Clinic (psychosocial treatment of adults with anxiety, eating disorders, depression, chronic pain, interpersonal problems, personality disorders, and couple and family problems); Insomnia and Behavioral Sleep Medicine Program (non-pharmacological treatments of insomnia and other sleep disorders); Child Psychiatry Clinic (treatments of anxiety and mood disorders, PDD, disruptive behaviors, and eating disorders for children and adolescents); and the Pediatric Psychology Program (treatment of children with medical illnesses including cancer, solid organ transplant, bone marrow transplant, craniofacial anomalies and dermatologic conditions). Clinical fellows spend 50% time in direct clinical activity, with the balance in supervision, case conferences, and seminars. Clinical fellowship appointments are full-time for one year, but fellows may apply for a 2nd year at the midpoint of the academic year. NIMH-funded research fellowships are for 2-3 years. Research opportunities for NIMH fellows are in depression, anxiety, eating disorders, sleep disorders, and developmental psychopathology. NIMH fellows spend at least 80% of their time in research-related activities with one primary faculty mentor, and also spend 4-6 hours per week in direct patient care and supervision. Our fellowships are open to PhDs and PsyDs from APA-accredited clinical or counseling psychology programs, who have completed APA-accredited internships, and also to candidates from programs accredited by the Canadian Psychological Association. Completion of this fellowship meets all requirements for California state licensure as a psychologist. NIMH research fellowships are also open to MDs.

Program Description

The Rocky Mountain Blood and Marrow Transplant Program (RMBMTP) (www.rockymountainbmt.com) is a large regional transplant center for Colorado and surrounding states, transplanting over 200 patients per year. Utilizing a multidisciplinary team approach, the RMBMTP provides comprehensive care to transplant patients and their family members. The training program for the postdoctoral fellowship follows a developmental model. Fellows are assumed to have a strong basis of competency in assessment, diagnosis and intervention. In addition, many fellows come in with a strong background in health or medical psychology. The transplant program is busy, with a brisk pace, which provides opportunities for fellows to master how to work efficiently within a medical setting as well as how to prioritize their time with the demands of their clinical responsibilities. Fellows carry a clinical case load that is comprised of individual transplant patients and their caregivers (usually family members). Approximately 25 hours per week are spent in direct and indirect patient care. Direct clinical services include conducting patient intakes and providing individual, family or group interventions. Indirect patient care includes providing consultation to staff regarding patient behaviors and treatment planning, and active involvement in 3 weekly multidisciplinary meetings. The rest of the fellows time is spent in supervision, didactics, administrative activities, or other training activities. Colorado has a large Latino population and a large Spanish-speaking only population. Therefore, there are opportunities for bilingual Spanish-speaking postdoctoral fellows to work with Latino patients and their families in the transplant program. Supervision for these clients is provided by a bilingual psychologist on staff at the RMBMTP.

The Institute of Living offers Postdoctoral fellowship positions in (1) Clinical Neuropsychology, (2) Adult Inpatient Psychiatry, (3) Schizophrenia Rehabilitation/ Persistent Mental Illness, (4) Anxiety Disorders, (5) Child and Adolescent school-based treatment and assessment and outpatient therapy, (6) Health Psychology/ Behavioral Medicine, (7) Child/Adolescent inpatient psychiatry, (8) Pediatric Consultation/Liaison and (9) Psychological Assessment. We offer a 2-year postdoctoral program in clinical neuropsychology. The first year is primarily spent in a psychiatric setting (Institute of Living), whereas the second year is primarily in a general medical/rehabilitative setting. Our program complies with APA Division 40, INS, and Houston Conference guidelines. In addition, we have residency positions in the following areas: two positions in our Schizophrenia Rehabilitation Program/persistent mental illness, using cognitive rehabilitation models and functional MRI, and inpatient treatment; one position in Adult Inpatient Psychiatry providing psychodynamically-informed brief individual, group, and family therapy and case-management; two positions in our behavioral/exposure-based Anxiety Disorders Clinic; two positions in combined school-based individual and group therapies, assessment of children and adolescents, and in outpatient treatment of urban children and adolescents. Health Psychology/Behavioral Medicine position includes inpatient consultation, cognitive assessment, and outpatient psychotherapy. Child/adolescent inpatient psychiatry involves advanced training in brief acute individual, group, and family therapies.

Program Description

The Institute of Living offers Postdoctoral fellowship positions in (1) Clinical Neuropsychology, (2) Adult Inpatient Psychiatry, (3) Schizophrenia Rehabilitation/ Persistent Mental Illness, (4) Anxiety Disorders, (5) Child and Adolescent school-based treatment and assessment and outpatient therapy, (6) Health Psychology/ Behavioral Medicine, (7) Child/Adolescent inpatient psychiatry, (8) Pediatric Consultation/Liaison and (9) Psychological Assessment. We offer a 2-year postdoctoral program in clinical neuropsychology. The first year is primarily spent in a psychiatric setting (Institute of Living), whereas the second year is primarily in a general medical/rehabilitative setting. Our program complies with APA Division 40, INS, and Houston Conference guidelines. In addition, we have residency positions in the following areas: two positions in our Schizophrenia Rehabilitation Program/persistent mental illness, using cognitive rehabilitation models and functional MRI, and inpatient treatment; one position in Adult Inpatient Psychiatry providing psychodynamically-informed brief individual, group, and family therapy and case-management; two positions in our behavioral/exposure-based Anxiety Disorders Clinic; two positions in combined school-based individual and group therapies, assessment of children and adolescents, and in outpatient treatment of urban children and adolescents. Health Psychology/Behavioral Medicine position includes inpatient consultation, cognitive assessment, and outpatient psychotherapy. Child/adolescent inpatient psychiatry involves advanced training in brief acute individual, group, and family therapies.

Program Description

The Child Guidance Center of Southern Connecticut is an independent non-profit agency that has served southwestern Fairfield County since 1954. A staff of over 35 clinicians offers a full array of outpatient mental health services to children, adolescents, and their families. The agency's focus is to thoroughly evaluate each child and family so that treatment services can be matched to specific developmental, dynamic, systemic and behavioral needs. Evaluations at the Center include Developmental Evaluations of pre-schoolers, psychological and neuro-psychological testing, psychia-tric and psychopharmacological evaluations, crisis evaluations, and sexual abuse forensic investigations. Individual, group and family treatment along with psychopharmaceutical services are available for patients. The Center also provides consultative and psycho-ed services to schools, service providers, child protective services, and police. The Center provides two hours of individual supervision each week for post-doctoral fellows. A full schedule of weekly seminars and case conferences are provided for all staff and trainees. Fellows also participate in interdisciplinary treatment planning meetings. Fellows also attend a bi-weekly CBT seminar, a bi-weekly family therapy seminar, and a group therapy seminar. A neuropsychology seminar and a reading study group are also part of the training experience. Fellows may also have the opportunity to supervise an intern, or extern on testing cases. The Center has 2 facilities in Stamford, CT and community offices in the surrounding towns of Greenwich and Darien. The Director of Training oversees all of the agency's facilities. Fellows will spend the majority of their time at the Stamford facilities, but may be asked to see patients in any one of the community offices. Fellows working at those offices will always have immediate access to a clinical supervisor either in person or by phone.
espouses a strong scientist-practitioner model. Training emphasizes the following 4 core competencies: (1) research/scholarship; (2) advanced clinical practice; (3) interprofessional training; and, (4) program development/policy guideline implementation. With the assistance of the training committee, fellows develop an individualized training plan to meet these 4 core competencies. While fellows are invited and encouraged to participate in ongoing projects (i.e., current research, teaching, clinical, or program development activities), training opportunities in other areas of behavioral medicine of particular interest to a fellow are also supported. A brief summary of the 4 core competencies is below:

- Research: Current faculty research interests include: adherence, alcohol-tobacco interactions, smoking cessation/nicotine dependence, chronic pain, diabetes, health promotion, obesity, patient-provider interactions, primary care psychology and telemedicine.
  - CLINICAL PRACTICE: Several clinics are supported by the Clinical Health Psychology Section, including (but not limited to): Primary Care Clinics, the Comprehensive Pain Management Center, the Smoking Cessation/Substance Abuse Clinics, Obesity Management Clinics, and Health Promotion Programs (stress management, healthy lifestyles).
  - INTERPROFESSIONAL TRAINING: Opportunities to teach, mentor, and supervise other trainees (predoctoral interns, practica students, and under-graduate research assistants) as well as to coordinate a yearlong didactic seminar series for all psychology trainees are provided.

Program Description
We offer two tracks in our residency program: Civil (for voluntary and civilly-committed patients) and Forensic (for patients committed by the legal system). The Program’s training model is the Practitioner Apprenticeship Model which is characterized by learning by doing and refinement of clinical skills under the guidance and supervision of experienced practitioners. Trainees spend the majority of time (70%) in service delivery. The treatment setting is inpatient psychiatric hospital working with the severely mentally ill population that is either civilly or forensically committed to the hospital. Trainees have input in tailoring programs to meet their needs/interests. Generally trainees spend 16-20 hours per week at a major rotation and 8-12 hours per week at a minor rotation. Training activities include: individual and group psychotherapy, psychological assessment, leading seminars with dental or psychiatric residents, treatment team consultation, treatment planning conferences, and clinical supervision of psychology externs. Residents are also off on 12 government holidays. Interns are members of the psychologists’ union and receive a conference benefit of up to $750 per year to attend trainings.

Trainees may attend on-campus Continuing Education Events sponsored by the DC Department of Mental Health, the hospital, its Department of Psychology. Training targeted primarily for licensed professional staff.

Program Description

The program is a two-year postdoctoral fellowship in clinical neuropsychology. The program is designed to produce an advanced level of competence in the specialty and to prepare graduates for board certification. Training is based on written objectives that fellows must meet for graduation. Approximately 50% of the fellow's time is spent in direct clinical services and 10-20% in research. Training activities include: (a) closely supervised training in neuropsychological assessment of adults; (b) organized didactic training in clinical neuropsychology; (c) medical school neurosciences course; (d) neurology and neurosurgery rounds; (e) case conferences, invited speakers, and outside educational activities. All fellows are active duty military officers. Further information about the fellowship can be found on the Walter Reed Army Medical Center web page under the Department of Psychology.

Program Description
The Psychology Residency training program at Nova Southeastern University fully supports the mission of Nova Southeastern University by developing Professional Psychologists through multidisciplinary training activities including teaching, research, program evaluation and clinical experience. Our philosophy is that sound clinical practice is based on scientific research and empirical support. Our training model is the Scientist-Practitioner Model of Training where research and scholarly activities guide and direct clinical practice, and clinical practice leads to research questions and activities. Overall, the Residency year is in preparation to function effectively and autonomously as a psychologist. The goals of the Postdoctoral Training Program in Psychology include: 1. To develop advanced clinical skills, including psychological assessments and report writing competency in working with multicultural populations. 2. To develop advanced levels of research skills. 3. To develop professional supervision skills of interns & graduate/undergrad students. 4. To develop advanced levels of teaching skills. 5. To develop evaluation skills. 6. To develop professional socialization.

Program Description
We offer three fellowships in Clinical Psychology, one each in the emphasis areas of substance abuse, geropsychology, or post traumatic stress disorder. The structure of the program allows for specific training in the above clinical areas as well as additional training experiences of the fellows’ choice, including medical psychology, pain psychology, primary care, neuropsychology, women’s clinic, mental health clinic, and palliative care. Our web-based brochure describes each of the emphasis area training experiences as well as the additional training experiences described above. The program also includes ongoing supervision experience with our APA accredited internship program’s interns. Our Medical Center is a large, comprehensive university-affiliated facility with 35 doctoral level psychologists and multiple treatment milieus and theoretical modalities. Fellows can expect to be collaborative partners in the development of their training plans for the year and will receive a comprehensive training experience while also developing a specialized knowledge and skill base in their respective emphasis area. Five of our six fellows so far have gone on to VA careers in an area related to or consistent with their emphasis area training.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Training in the area of Clinical Psychology with the goal of preparing candidates for Board Certification. A rich program of didactic seminars, colloquia & supervision with a large faculty body.

CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION
Citrus Health Network, Inc. has defined its training philosophy to reflect a “practitioner informed by the literature” orientation. By virtue of this orientation, we seek to train residents in a variety of clinical skills augmented by regular seminars in related subject areas, scientific colloquia and reviews and discussions of relevant current and past literature based on the Empirically Supported Practice Documentation created by the Society of Clinical Psychology, Division 12 APA, Committee on Science and Practice. Postdoctoral residents also receive training and exposure to empirically supported treatments through seminars, colloquia, supervision, review and discussion. However, residents are expected to enter the training program with an understanding of fundamental principles and are expected to practice more independently. Unlike the predoctoral program, which provides a wide range of experiences in different programs throughout the agency, the postdoctoral program provides a more intensive experience in a single program. Residents are expected to provide direct services to clients. However, in an effort to continue the professional development of trainees, the resident positions are designed to facilitate residents in becoming comfortable in leadership roles.

Program Description

FIU's Counseling and Psychological Services Center (CPSC) is housed on two campuses: one on the bay, the other in South-West Miami, where the Post-doctoral Fellow will work. FIU is a large, dynamic, urban, multicultural, multi-ethnic Research 1 University with approximately 38,000 students, 10% of whom are international students. The Fellow has the opportunity to provide individual, group, and couples therapy, as well as crisis intervention. The Fellow presents Outreach workshops and offers consultation to various university departments. The Fellow coordinates and facilitates the weekly Practicum Student Training Seminar and assists with the on-line student retention program, PASS. The training philosophy emphasizes treatment within the matrix of cultural differences. The professional staff is comprised of 12 licensed psychologists from diverse ethnic and cultural backgrounds who maintain a wide spectrum of theoretical and psychotherapeutic approaches. TRAINING FOCUS: Population: Registered FIU students. TRAINING MODALITIES: Outpatient Individual, couples, and group therapy, crisis intervention, consultation, workshops, and other outreach programming. TRAINING APPROACH: CPSC offers time-limited, focused psychotherapy. Treatment plans are individualized to reflect the cultural and developmental needs of the students. PHILOSOPHY OF TRAINING: CPSC maintains a strong commitment to training. The Post-doctoral Fellowship is designed to reflect APPIC guidelines. The Fellow is required to integrate theoretical, research, and ethical/legal issues into his/her conceptualization and provision of psychological services. TRAINING EXPERIENCES & METHODS: Supervision is based on a developmental approach to learning. Goals are individualized to integrate the Fellow's strengths and interests with CPSC’s needs.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities

Program Description

The Mailman Center offers a diverse postdoctoral training experience that may encompass both pediatric and child clinical research and clinical training, as well as developmental neuropsychological training. Postdoctoral positions are offered as they become available through training or other grants. Many postdocs remain in residence for more than a year which, along with funding, leads to fluctuations in the number of positions available. As such, it is best to contact the Training Director before sending in an application.

Program Description
The Counseling and Psychiatric Services (CAPS) postdoctoral fellowship program is designed to develop advanced skills in the practice of clone year and a two year fellowship available. Our diverse faculty is able to provide training in multiple approaches in working with clients including: psychodynamic, humanistic, cognitive-behavioral, developmental, and multicultural. Fellows will have the opportunity to work with 14-18 clients in individual therapy per week as well as the opportunity to work with clients in a group. Concentrations within CAPS are available in the areas of eating disorders, mind/body approaches, assessment, and alcohol/drug. Additionally, each fellow will work 4-8 hours per week providing brief evaluation and crisis intervention in our walk-in counseling service. Opportunities to provide workshops, educational programming, consultation, and supervision to practicum students are also available. Postdoctoral fellows will work in close collaboration with senior staff and will function as professionals with many of the same responsibilities. Fellows attend all case conferences, professional development workshops, and staff meetings.

Program Description
The Emory University Counseling Center (EUCC) provides comprehensive mental health and preventive services for a student population that is culturally and clinically diverse. In addition to working at EUCC, Fellows spend two half days per week working at Emory’s Faculty Staff Assistance Program (FSAP), which provides outreach, clinical services, organizational intervention and consultation to Emory’s 21,000+ employees and their families. Fellows gain experience in individual, couples & group psychotherapy, outreach, intake assessments, consultation, teaching and supervision of practicum students, & crisis intervention. The EUCC is a multidisciplinary setting, with staff and trainees representing Counseling Psychology, Clinical Psychology, Clinical Social Work, and Psychiatry; a variety of theoretical orientations and intervention models are represented among the senior staff. The Center’s model of training emphasizes three components: development over the course of the training year, mentoring relationships with senior professionals, and the importance of combining practice with science (practitioner/scholar model). Fellows at the Emory Counseling Center receive intensive, supportive training, which is designed to prepare Fellows for the diversity of roles which psychologists assume in their career paths. Postdoctoral Fellows have the opportunity to work with a variety of clients, cultural backgrounds, presenting problems and treatment modalities, and each Fellow also has the opportunity to work with an identified Specialty Supervisor in order to focus his or her training on a particular area of clinical interest. The 2000 hour Postdoctoral Fellowship meets or exceeds all requirements for licensure in the State of Georgia. The EUCC’s clientele is diverse in terms of age (from late teens to 60’s), race, ethnicity, religion, national origin, gender, gender identity, sexual/affectional orientation, disability status, and SES.

Program Description

The program provides exemplary training consistent with a scientist-practitioner model. The competency-based training is developmental and contextual in nature, and centered on the fellows’ individual needs and goals. While our expertise is in developing professional psychologists for leadership roles that combine service, research, and education, our ultimate commitment is to helping fellows define and progress towards their own chosen career path. We offer training at the following sites: (1) Grady Hospital: (a) child clinical psychology working in a community-based program with abused children and the Teen Clinic; (b) adults serious mental illness working on inpatient units, psychiatric emergency service, intensive outpatient program, psychosocial rehabilitation program, and outpatient community mental health clinic; (c) women’s health working with abused and suicidal women and women with breast cancer; (d) psychoanalytic research; (e) health psychology with individuals living with HIV/AIDS, and (f) trauma psychology; (2) Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta - (a) pediatric consultation liaison and neuropsychological assessment with youth with oncological and hematological disorders; (b) pediatric feeding disorders, (c) fetal alcohol syndrome, and (d) developmental and behavioral disorders; (3) Department of Rehabilitation Medicine - (a) rehabilitation and neuropsychology. Positions at all sites include a focus on direct clinical service (assessment, intervention, consultation), research/scholarship, the receipt and provision of supervision, and professional development activities. START DATE IS FLEXIBLE FROM JULY THROUGH THIRD MONDAY IN SEPTEMBER.

Program Description
2000 hour postdoctoral fellowship at Georgia State University Counseling and Testing Center balances individual, group and couples therapy with outreach, supervision of practicum students, program development, outreach/ teaching. Full-time position assumes 22 hours of direct contact per week and a 44 hour week. Fellows may teach one Freshmen Orientation class in the fall semester. Fellows will also serve on the Alcohol and Other Drugs Treatment Team and develop a AOD subspecialty. Culturally informed, use of self as instrument supervision model is emphasized. Nontraditional as well as traditional diverse students seek services. Client issues often include trauma histories. Postdocs participate in group psychotherapy seminar, supervision of supervision seminar, crisis intervention seminar, trauma seminar (optional depending on previous training) and attend faculty and case disposition meetings. The Counseling and Testing Center’s orientation and training programs all stress cultural competency and use of self as instrument to further the learning process. Fellows supervise 1 practicum student, co-lead at least one of 10 interpersonal or support groups, and treat individual clients and couples. Consultation and campus outreach activities may include classroom and student organization presentations; Safe Zone, stress management and suicide response/education presentations; serving as housing liaisons; and leading intercultural dialogue groups.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION The primary purpose of the Psychology Postdoctoral Training Program at RWSIR is to prepare fellows to function autonomously as licensed psychologists in a medical, rehabilitation, or vocational setting. While there is a neuropsychological component to the postdoc, it is designed as a postdoc in rehabilitation psychology. The experiences and training available are primarily clinical. The primary goal of the program is to provide more intensive and advanced training in the practice of psychology with medical and vocational rehabilitation patients in order that fellows will develop a professional identity that is appropriate for a psychologist working within a multi-disciplinary treatment team environment. We encourage a collegial relationship between psychology staff and fellows, where the primary difference between the two is breadth and depth of knowledge and experience. Fellows are encouraged to assume clinical responsibilities at the level that their skills and experience allows. Psychologists at the Roosevelt Institute are committed to training and mentoring and are responsible for providing adequate supervision and to be accessible mentors for postdoctoral fellows. Fellows are provided with opportunities to serve both in the Medical Rehabilitation Unit (MRU) and the Vocational Rehabilitation Unit (VRU). They are required to work in each of the following three areas: 1) Neurological Rehabilitation Program, 2) Orthopedic Rehabilitation Program, and 3) Vocational Rehabilitation Unit. The fellow will provide psychotherapy and psychological assessment. The fellow will maintain a long-term therapy caseload and provide psychological assessment throughout the year in the VRU. In the MRU, the fellow will spend half the year in the Neurological Rehabilitation Program and half the year in the Orthopedic Rehabilitation Program. See http://www.rooseveltrehab.org/psychologypostdoc.asp for a more detailed description.

Program Description

The Kapi'olani Child Protection Center's Post-Doctoral Psychology Fellowship Training Program was started in 1992 to provide specialty training in child clinical psychology with an emphasis in child maltreatment. The training program is part of KCPC's Training Institute, which includes Pediatric Residency training, Nurse Specialist training, Social Work Practicum, University of Hawaii Law Student Training and the Argosy University-Hawaii clinical psychology graduate practicum training. The program offers the opportunity to work in a multidisciplinary setting with multicultural families.

The program provides 2,000 hours of supervised training within a one year period. Meets requirements for licensure in Hawaii & most States. Training on areas includes Comprehensive psychological evaluations and report writing. Supervisors and Center Director observe initial psychological evaluations, provide feedback and supervise interpretation and report writing. Fellows complete an average of eight to ten child or adult comprehensive evaluations per month, focused on the impact of child maltreatment, parenting abilities and treatment/service planning. Referrals are screened and assigned according to increasing complexity throughout the training year. Psychotherapy training is ongoing throughout the training year. Intakes are presented weekly and cases are assigned with increasing complexity. Training in Family therapy for reunification with biological parents and Parent Child interaction therapy is also provided. Fellows participate with supervisors as co-therapists for group therapy, Case loads average six to eight clients per week. Case consultation training in working with Child Welfare Services Workers, Guardians Ad Litem, foster parents, school counselors, etc. Special training in mentoring children in foster care, substance abuse, expert testimony, psychopharmacology, diversity, etc. Supervision of Peer Mentors & Psychology Practicum Students.

Program Description
This APA-accredited Post-Doctoral Fellowship in Clinical Psychology is designed to provide education, supervised clinical experiences, research, and program development opportunities directly related to post-traumatic stress, with a focus on US Veterans of war and their families. A special emphasis is additionally placed on ethnocultural factors in the understanding and treatment of trauma-related disorders among Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islanders, Asian Americans, and other underserved populations. Other emphases include Active Duty military populations, non-combat trauma, women’s health, use of telehealth and technology, resilience, and early intervention/prevention intervention. The training is centered at the Pacific Islands Division of the National Center for PTSD. The Center provides comprehensive education on trauma-related disorders, including PTSD, acute stress disorder, child sexual abuse, complex trauma, and other comorbid disorders. A Fellow’s typical training plan may include three days of clinical work at the Honolulu VA, one day of research activities, and one day for didactics, individual supervision, and group supervision. Primary clinical activities take place at the Honolulu Veterans Affairs Medical Center. Secondary rotations may be available at neighbor island VA clinics, with Active Duty populations at Tripler Army Medical Center or local military bases, and with community populations at state mental health clinics. Applicants must be US citizens, and prior to beginning the Fellowship must have completed an APA-accredited doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology and an APA-accredited predoctoral internship. The program length is one year. Inquiries should be emailed to Julia M. Whealin, Ph.D., Deputy Director for Education, at julia.whealin@med.va.gov, or mailed to the National Center for PTSD, 1132 Bishop Street, Suite 307, Honolulu, Hawaii 96813. Application materials become available in December.

Program Description
The Tripler post-doctoral fellowship in Clinical Psychology strives to provide each postdoctoral fellow with advanced training and specialty expertise. Working from a scientist-practitioner model, our two-year program is structured to produce psychologists who are capable of understanding, appreciating, and contributing to the scientific underpinnings of clinical practice. An intensive learning experience is provided through our core curriculum. The core training curriculum includes workshops by Visiting Distinguished Professors, graduate-level training in psychopharmacology consistent with the APA Model Psychopharmacology Training Program, the Ethics Seminar Series, weekly Core Seminars, and multi-specialty case conferences. Additionally, each fellow completes intensive specialty training in Clinical Health Psychology or Child/Pediatric Psychology. Fellows in each specialty area train to national standards if such are available. The training program is housed at Tripler Army Medical Center, a major teaching hospital, with residency and fellowship programs in a variety of medical disciplines. Both Tripler and the co-located VA Medical Center have APA accredited predoctoral internship/residency programs. This setting provides a rich environment for training and learning. Faculty of the Department of Psychology participate in ongoing programs of research in pediatric oncology, ADHD, telehealth, tobacco cessation, weight management, pain management, biofeedback, memory disorders, virtual reality, etc. Fellows complete research of publishable quality in these or other areas of interest. Fellows receive training from faculty and other psychologists in addition to these disciplines including psychiatry, endocrinology, oncology, and pediatrics, and learn to work closely with other colleagues.

Program Description

The Isaac Ray Center, Inc. (IRC) offers two (2) one-year post-doctoral fellowships in Clinical Psychology. The program is a twelve-month, forty-hour week experience (2000 hours), providing the necessary post-doctoral hours required for licensure to practice psychology independently in the State of Illinois. The program is designed to provide a variety of clinical and didactic training experiences in preparation for autonomous, professional practice. The program is based upon a practitioner-scholar model offering hands-on experience complemented by knowledge of relevant psychological science. Graduates of this program are competent to work in numerous settings that may include public institutions such as jails, prisons, mental health clinics and forensic centers, as well as private practice and academic settings. The fellowship program allows for training with a variety of patients, problems, and treatment teams. Our philosophy is to provide a broad array of experiences for our fellows rather than any specialized training. They work in different areas of the jail and provide assessment and treatment to detainees with acute and chronic needs. They also provide assessment, intervention, and consultation to a variety of multidisciplinary teams. Fellows also have the flexibility to engage in program development and pursue specific clinical interests. The psychology staff of the Isaac Ray Center, within the Department of Mental Health Services of the Cook County Department of Corrections, administers the fellowship program.

Program Description
The program is supported by the departments of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences and the Cognitive Neurology and Alzheimer’s Disease Center at Northwestern University Medical School. Neuropsychology also has a graduate level training program within the Clinical Psychology division at the medical school. This provides opportunities for training and clinical supervision of graduate students. The goal of training is to provide fellows with advanced skills in clinical evaluation and diagnosis and in short-term treatment aimed at patient and caregiver education; to provide research opportunities; to provide teaching and supervision opportunities with graduate students and visiting scholars. A pervasive theme within the program is the importance of multidisciplinary cooperation at all levels - clinical, research, and academic. To this end, neuropsychology fellows participate in joint academic and research activities with fellows and staff from other disciplines, including neurology, psychiatry, social work, and basic and cognitive neuroscience. One to two postdoctoral fellowships in clinical neuropsychology are offered annually or every two years depending on availability of funding. Clinical responsibilities include inpatient evaluations of adults with a range of disorders including medication, stroke, epilepsy, neoplasms, traumatic brain injury and psychiatric disorders. Outpatient experience is in a multidisciplinary clinical/academic unit specializing in behavioral neurology and dementia. Research areas include Alzheimer's disease and other dementias (primary progressive aphasia, frontotemporal dementia), aging, attention, and language. Opportunities to work with the Human Brain Mapping group using functional magnetic resonance imaging are available. Direct supervision is provided by Sandra Weintraub, PhD, Robert Hanton, PhD, Nancy Johnson, PhD, Suzanne Musti, PhD and Beth Biondi, PhD. See website: www.brain.northwestern.edu.

Program Description
Connection’s Day School (CDS) is a private therapeutic day school, founded in 1998, that serves high-risk children and adolescents in Lake County who require an alternative school program that is both educational and therapeutic. CDS utilizes therapeutic, educational, family and community connections to promote social/emotional well-being, academic achievement and personal growth. CDS Staff Members employ a variety of methods to help students make academic progress, and develop and/or improve their coping and social skills. By utilizing a combination of respect, humor, empathy, and kindness balanced with firmness (i.e., maintaining high expectations and ensuring that students adhere to rules, boundaries and limitations), Staff Members are able to establish and maintain supportive, nurturing relationships with our students. In turn, these relationships can help the students be more open to learning the life skills required for long-term success. We are seeking highly-motivated individuals, who have experience working with challenging young people, and are interested in being an active part of our dynamic clinical staff. Please contact Dr. Pollina to receive more detailed information about Connection’s Day School, the Post-Doctoral Fellowship Program and application requirements. APPLICATION NOTE: Please do not send any application materials under separate cover; all materials should be contained within the same envelope.
The Fellowship is a 2000 hours training experience involving the following learning opportunities: 1. Group Treatment: co-facilitate 16.5 hrs Sex Offender specific groups, with a senior staff member during the training year, providing sex offender specific treatment. 2. Primary Caseload: 10-12 residents. 3. Documentation: The Fellow will be expected to prepare all necessary documentation and case notes on a timely basis. 4. Psychological Testing & Report Writing: a minimum of five (5) Entry to Treatment To Evaluations (ETTE) to be completed by Fellow. The Fellow will be assigned to provide direct supervision, guidance and mentoring to an Intern who will complete 5 ETTEs. 5. Treatment Planning: The Fellow will be responsible to prepare detailed treatment plans and quarterly treatment plan reviews for the residents on the primary caseload. 6. Case Conceptualization/Staffing: The Fellow will be expected to attend and participate in both the bi-weekly team staffing and the monthly case conceptualization provided for all staff. 7. Supervision/Training: The Fellow will be providing supervision to an assigned Intern, which will focus specifically on psychological testing and report writing. 8. Forensic Issues: During the training year the Fellow will be exposed a broad scope of Forensic issues through various learning methods and opportunities. 9. Treatment Improvement Committees: The Fellow will be expected to participate in the committee presentation for any residents on the primary caseload. 10. Multicultural Training: Didactic training is committed to diversity awareness, knowledge, and the acquisition of skills to increase multicultural competencies. Three Multicultural case presentation will be required. 11. Research Opportunities: There will be the opportunity for research at the facility if this is an area of interest for the Fellow. Specific research topics will be provided at the commencement of the training year.

Program Description

Correctional Psychology Training Program - Dixon Correctional Center/Dixon Correctional Center (DCC) is the primary mental health facility for the Illinois Department of Corrections. This all adult-male population is quite diverse regarding ethnicity, culture, religion, education, mental and medical health needs. In addition to General Population which houses approximately 1900 inmates, DCC has specialized housing programs which include: the Special Treatment Center (STC) which houses approximately 550 inmates; Dixon Psychiatric Unit (DPU) which houses approximately 210 inmates; and, the Hospice Unit which houses over 40 inmates. Training Rotations: The Post Doctoral Resident will participate in three distinct four month training rotations at this facility, specifically: STC, medium security, which houses both mentally ill and developmentally disabled inmates; DPU, maximum security, which houses mentally ill inmates in general population and segregation; and, General Population, which includes the Hospice Unit. In coordination with a multidisciplinary team, treatment is provided via multiple modalities including: rounds, treatment planning, medication management, brief individual therapy, and group therapy. On an as needed basis, assessment batteries are performed to determine differential diagnoses and treatment interventions. We regret to announce that our contract with the Illinois Department of Corrections has not been finalized.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Opportunities will also exist for fellows to observe and serve as expert witnesses in various legal cases.

Program Description
Applications for the program should include: 1) CV, 2) Two sanitized reports (one psychological evaluation and one other—forensic, neuropsychological evaluation, etc), 3) Cover letter outlining interest in LSH and degree plan (e.g., planned graduation dates and plan to obtain temporary license in Kansas), 4) Graduate school transcripts, 5) Three references (one of which being a current supervisor). Fellow will complete a 12-month rotation on one of the three programs at Larned State Hospital (LSH): 1) State Security Program (SSP), 2) Psychiatric Services Program (PSP), and 3) The Sexual Predator Treatment Program (SPTP). On SSP, all fellows will be exposed to working with criminally committed patients. Fellows will complete various forensic evaluations (e.g., competency to stand trial assessments, mental state at the time of the offense determinations, sexual predator evaluations, and pre-sentence evaluations), provide treatment, and serve as a treatment team leader. On PSP, all fellows will be exposed to working with patients either voluntarily or involuntarily committed by court for inpatient treatment due to psychiatric issues causing them to be a danger to themselves or others. Fellows will serve as a treatment team leader, provide therapy, and complete various assessments. On SPTP, all fellows will work directly with sex offenders who have been found to meet the criteria of Sexually Violent Predators pursuant to Kansas law. Specific activities will be assigned by the Supervising Psychologist of SPTP and will include psychological testing, serving as a treatment team leader, report writing, facilitating various therapy groups including phase groups, DBT groups, Co-Occurring Disorders groups, and individual therapy.

Program Description

The University of Louisville School of Medicine, Division of Child, Adolescent & Family Psychiatry, Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, has provided postdoctoral fellowship for candidates desiring specialization in pediatric health psychology since 1993. The fellow assumes administrative and clinical responsibilities in an innovative outpatient project treating adolescents with chronic painful and fatiguing conditions: the Children’s Health and Illness Recovery Program (CHIRP). Currently recruitment and data collection are underway to assess for treatment effectiveness with opportunities for presentation and publication of this data. Additionally, the fellow maintains primary responsibilities providing inpatient consultation liaison services within a tertiary care Children’s Hospital. Patients with a variety of chronic illnesses and serious medical problems (cystic fibrosis, childhood cancer including bone marrow transplantation, chronic fatigue syndrome, fibromyalgia, juvenile diabetes, kidney disease, heart transplantation, traumatic injury, brain injury, burns, etc.) are routinely seen on this service, with opportunity for outpatient involvement. The fellow participates in individual and group supervision, seminars, case conferences, and service rounds. The division also maintains an APA-accredited (since 1986) predoctoral internship in clinical child/pediatric psychology. There is opportunity to supervise a doctoral-level practicum student providing outpatient therapy services, conducting assessments, and engaging in inpatient consultation liaison. The multiple facilities of the University of Louisville Health Sciences Center, Norton/Kosair Health Care System, and the Bingham Clinic provide state-of-the-art resources for the training program.

Program Description

CONTACT PROGRAM FOR CURRENT INFORMATION The Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Pediatric Psychology is designed to provide trainees with assessment and therapy experiences that are consistent with the professional expectations of a pediatric/child clinical psychologist. The goals of the fellowship are to familiarize the trainee with pediatric populations, to introduce assessment and therapy techniques that are relevant to and adapted for the acutely or chronically ill child. The fellowship is also designed to provide experience working with child and adolescent out-patient populations and their families, and to promote professional development through experience within an interdisciplinary model. A mentoring model of training is followed and consists of assigning the Fellow to one primary supervisor for the entire year, with additional supervision provided by staff involved in the trainee's specialty rotations. In addition to verbal feedback, training will consist of observation and modeling from staff in clinical settings. Fellows will receive at least two hours of individual supervision and one hour of group supervision on a weekly basis throughout the fellowship year. The supervision provided meets post-doctoral supervision requirements for licensure by APPIC and the Louisiana State Board of Examiners of Psychologists. A competitive stipend is provided for the 12-month fellowship position. The hospital also provides a full benefits package for the fellow. Applicants should send a letter stating their interests and goals, a current vita, and 3 letters of recommendation.

Program Description

We offer and implement advanced Clinical Psychology and Clinical Neuropsychology training with a rural psychology emphasis, in accord with a scholar-practitioner model. In the process of rebuilding a formal research program, we identify with and conceptualize from a scientist-practitioner model. Clinical Psychology training provides an emphasis in Posttraumatic Stress Disorder/Mental Health. At the postdoctoral level, we aim to train ethically grounded, culturally aware clinical psychologists and neuropsychologists with advanced competency in thoughtful development and application of evidence-based psychological assessment, treatment, and consultation skills for the benefit of persons and organizations, particularly within a rural environment. Training consists of 2080 hours per year with concurrent training experiences in at least two different treatment settings. We are located on spacious wooded grounds five miles east of Augusta, the state capital of Maine. The Clinical Psychology position represents a one year appointment. The Clinical Neuropsychology position normally involves reappointment for a second year, and is thus only open every other year. Please note that we DO anticipate a neuropsychology position opening for the 2010-2011 training year. Start date is variable: July 1, August 1, or September 1.

- Applied Behavior Analysis, Developmental Disabilities, Behavioral Pediatrics, Pediatric Feeding Disorders, Pervasive Developmental Disorders,
- Autism, Inpatient and Outpatient, and Family Therapy.

Program Description
The Department of Behavioral Psychology provides clinical services to a variety of pediatric populations with learning, behavioral and developmental disabilities. The Department’s philosophy is that the principles and procedures of behavioral science form the basis for effective and ethical clinical services. Fellows typically elect to develop their expertise through advanced training in one or two clinical services under the direction of an identified mentor(s). Specific training opportunities include hospital consultation in severe behavior disorders, family therapy, pervasive developmental disorders/autism, and pediatric feeding disorders in both outpatient and inpatient programs. Research participation is strongly encouraged and typically integrated into clinical experience. Fellows have the opportunity to work with their mentor to tailor the training experiences to meet their needs with regard to clinical, supervisory, research, and didactic training. Fellows complete their 12-month training in one clinic, rather than completing rotations across clinics. Applicants are encouraged to specify the clinic(s) in which they are interested. Please note, we require a background check prior to final acceptance into our postdoctoral fellowship program.

Program Description
The program offers positions within four areas of emphasis: Center for Integrative Psychotherapy; in collaboration with the Director of Training and other staff, the two residents will assume administrative and program development responsibility within the Center. Residents will engage a range of individual and group therapy, with a particular opportunity to pursue one's particular interests. Interdisciplinary Psychosocial Rehabilitation: Within this residency position, the resident will become part of an interdisciplinary team of post-graduate fellows. Residents train within two primary psychiatric rehabilitation venues, and will also be actively involved in program development and educational dissemination activities. Primary Care: Residents fully participate in all aspects of our integrated primary care behavioral health program. In addition, residents will be a part of a collaborative training program with the Univ of Massachusetts School of Medicine. Neuropsychology: Within this 2-year residency position, the resident will engage neuropsychological assessment along with supervision of neuropsychology interns and practicum students. The resident also spends one full day per week at the Alzheimer’s Disease Center, where a range of research opportunities and clinical work are available. The training philosophy of the program involves an integration of professional activity and training from four primary domains: clinical; program development and administration; supervision and teaching; and research. All residents train in the provision of psychotherapy supervision to practicum students, provide both individual and group psychotherapy, engage in research or program evaluation, become involved in program development and administration, and present professional development seminars to psychology interns and hospital staff. The resident is afforded considerable flexibility regarding training experiences and clinical focus.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Thank you for your interest in the Psychology Post-Doctoral Fellowship program at Harvard University Health Service for the 2009-2010 academic year. It is with great sadness that I regretfully must inform you that I learned that our fellowship program for the 2009-2010 year will be suspended; Where Did Former Postdoctoral Fellows Go?

Program Description
The Mental Health Service of the Harvard University Health Services offers full-time post-doctoral fellowships in clinical or counseling psychology to start September 1. The multidisciplinary staff of more than forty clinicians serves an extremely diverse population of students, staff, faculty and their family members. All students are eligible for services, as are those faculty and staff members (and their dependents) who select Harvard University Group Health Plan (HUGHP) as their HMO, fellows conduct evaluations and therapy with currently registered students and their dependents. The staff is augmented by consultants who are available to provide additional supervision. Supervision in dynamic psychotherapy and cognitive/behavioral therapy (either or both) is provided. Training opportunities in couples, DBT/CBT, and group therapy are also available. Sixty percent of the fellow’s week is direct patient care, the majority of which is short-term therapy; caseloads are typically 30-40 clients per week. Some weekly, ongoing therapy cases are available; two to four clients per week. The remainder of time in the fellowship is comprised of supervision and seminars with different modules addressing eating disorders, DBT/CBT, couples therapy, and ADHD. There is a weekly lecture series of invited professionals from the Greater Boston mental health community as well. While there may be only two psychology Fellows in any given year, there are two to four other fellows comprised of part-time psychiatric residents and social workers. Please submit the following information by January 10th to Maureen Rezendes, Ph.D.: curriculum vita, letter of interest, letters of recommendation from three current or recent supervisors, a letter from a faculty member outlining your current status in your doctoral program, and an original transcript.
The Clinical Psychology Training Program prepares Post-Doctoral Fellows in Psychology to understand and treat persons suffering with a broad spectrum of emotional distress, using a scholar-practitioner model. With close faculty-trainee interaction, we provide a solid grounding in treatment and assessment that takes into account ethnic and cultural influences. We also teach Fellows to integrate a variety of treatment modalities while working with persons with an array of psychological problems, including persons diagnosed with major mental illness and severe personality disorders.

A distinctive feature of our program is that Psychology Fellows can pursue a wide variety of individual specialty interests in the context of a Fellows program that emphasizes growth as a professional clinical psychologist. All Fellows meet together weekly in a Professional Development Seminar, which includes such topics as providing supervision, teaching in both medical and academic settings, writing for publication, obtaining grants and conducting research, licensing procedures and legal and ethical issues for the psychologist. Fellows are evaluated by supervisors and training directors twice yearly, and the program follows the Cambridge Health Alliance’s due process and grievance procedures.

There are currently eight different Psychology Fellowship options available. They are: 1. Neuropsychology (Adult) 2 yr outpatient; 2. Clinical Psychology (Behavioral Medicine Clinic); 3. Clinical Psychology (Child Adolescent Acute Services); 4. Clinical Psychology (MIT Mental Health/Adult outpatient or cultural linguistic clinic); 5. Clinical Psychology (Program for Psychotherapy) 2 yr requirement; 6. Clinical Psychology (Vicinities of Violence Program).

Program Description
The fellowship is designed to provide postdoctoral fellows with a training experience that is first, concentrated on deepening their diagnostic and clinical skills, and second, representative of university mental health practice today. We are a relatively large counseling service, highly utilized on this campus of over 14,000 students. In this setting fellows are actively engaged in the varied roles and functions of our work: evaluation and treatment of students; crisis and emergency response; consultation; and outreach programming. Boston College (BC) students are diverse and talented. At an institutional level, BC is invested in the integration of students’ intellectual development with their personal formation. This makes for a psychologically rich population with which a fellow can explore closely and intensively the practice of psychotherapy. A fellow’s clinical work and individual supervision, which are the core of his/her training, are embedded in the more encompassing experience of being part of a clinical staff that is committed and thoughtful in its work. In formulating client difficulties, we emphasize psychodynamic, developmental, and culturally sensitive approaches. Formal training functions include individual supervision (3 hrs weekly); case conference; group supervision with discussion on diversity and other clinical issues; a professional practice seminar; and administrative participation. Distinct features of this advanced training experience include: 1) fellows generally advance their formulation and treatment-planning skills significantly; 2) they learn psychotherapy process with a particular class of clients who are high-functioning while also very troubled diagnostically; and 3) they develop a practical understanding of the intersections of psychopathology with developmental forces. This is an eleven-month fellowship.

Still a Postdoctoral Fellow
Private Psychiatric Hospital
Independent Practice

Program Description
The Austen Riggs Center is a Joint Commission accredited not-for-profit private psychiatric hospital and residential treatment center with 72 patients and 30 full-time Ph.D. and M.D. staff. Situated on Main St. in the Berkshire Hills town of Stockbridge, the Center has maintained an open setting for over 85 years in which patients collaborate in all aspects of treatment. A psycho-social treatment model, drawing on the work done at Riggs by Erik Erikson and other psychoanalysts, includes four times weekly intensive psychotherapy, groups, medication, activities, and family work in the context of an active therapeutic community of examined living. A full range of assessment, including diagnostic psychological testing, is provided to each patient. At least ten hours per week are devoted to seminars, supervision, and case conferences. Research opportunities are available and presentations at national meetings are encouraged and fully supported. We offer a two-plus-two year post-doctoral Fellowship/Advanced Fellowship with benefits such as health and life insurance, annual vacation, and 2 years of psychoanalysis. We require a doctoral degree from an APA-approved program and APA-approved completed internship.

Program Description

Read more about the program at our website listed above. July 1 is the preferred start date, if necessary this can be delayed until September 1. YEAR ONE: Clinical practice and consultation in primary care. Six half-days per week. This involves observing resident physicians in their practice, seeing patients jointly with physicians, and carrying a caseload referred by physicians in the practice. Program for School-Aged Children: One half-day per week. This is a family therapy oriented brief assessment and treatment clinic. Fellows do clinical work in front of the one-way mirror with live supervision from Dr. Blount and developmental pediatrician. Behavioral Medicine practice: One half-day per week. This half day is “open clinic” when patients can come without appointments. Hospital Rounding: One half-day per week. Fellows spend one half-day in the hospital providing clinical care with teams of family medicine residents. Team Precepting: One half-day per week. "Team precepting" is the process in which a medical faculty member and a behavioral science faculty provide training to a family medicine resident who sees his or her patients in front of the one-way glass. Seminar in Primary Care Psychology: Fellows take and often help teach the Certificate Program in Primary Care Behavioral Health. A description of the program can be found at http://www.integratedprimarycare.com/Certificate%20Program_GoProgram_Email.htm

YEAR TWO: Clinical practice and consultation in primary care. Six half-days per week. Continuation of the first year experience. Hospital Rounding: One half-day per week. Continuation of the first year experience. Teaching and consultation at a Family Health Center: One day per week. During this year the fellow is available for patient consultation and precepting at a health center where the fellow does not have a practice. Fellow’s research: One half-day. Fellows pursue their own research project, usually in relation to the “critical pathway” of treatment that they develop.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION

Our Post-Doctoral Fellowship is a twelve-month, full-time experience. (Full Michigan licensure requires 2000 post-doctoral hours.) Our curriculum provides advanced training and clinical experience in multicultural sensitive services to university students with a wide range of developmental issues and mental health concerns. Our practitioner-scholar training program offers hands-on experience, complemented by access to and knowledge of relevant psychological science. Within the context of our multicultural, multidisciplinary, and multitheoretical setting, our aim is to support entry-level professionals as they get ready for licensure, and to prepare them to move with competence, creativity and flexibility into professional positions in a range of settings, with a focus on counseling center practice. Post-Doctoral Fellows provide service in intake evaluation; individual counseling and psychotherapy (both brief and longer when appropriate); crisis intervention and emergency services; third party consultation; outreach; program development; group interventions (structured, semi-structured or process groups); and supervision of practicum students. Opportunities are available to conduct interview assessments of substance use/abuse and eating issues. Fellows also serve on agency committees. In addition, Post-Doctoral Fellows will choose an area of specialization. Examples include but are not limited to: 1. Administration (clinical, training, or outreach); 2. Clinical Practice (eating disorders; multicultural counseling; or sexual assault); 3. Outreach (to specific campus communities; campus substance abuse network and/or general); or 4. Clinical Scholarship/Writing. Additional program information and learning supports are described on our web site: www.umich.edu/~caps.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Our major activity is individual psychotherapy with adults; couples and group therapy are significant programs, as are community and university outreach. Our research program is valued but not a major portion of the post-doc. Post-docs gain a good deal of experience in clinic administration.

Program Description
The University of Michigan Institute for Human Adjustment Postdoctoral Fellowship Training Program is designed to provide advanced training in professional psychology to qualified postdoctoral psychologists. Training is based in the Psychological Clinic, a multidisciplinary training-focused adult outpatient center with a welcoming and supportive atmosphere. The training prepares fellows for licensure in the State of Michigan (or any other state with similar requirements) through a one year full time program that provides robust, advanced training in many key professional competencies (two year option is available if desired). These competencies include assessment and diagnosis, intervention including individual and couples therapy, consultation and interdisciplinary collaboration, multicultural competencies, clinical teaching and supervision, research, professional development, ethics, and leadership/administrative skills. These competencies are enhanced through direct clinical service with supervision from expert clinicians, participation in seminars and clinical meetings and conferences, participation in research meetings and projects, consultation with other professionals outside the Clinic, teaching of seminars to psychology interns and social work students, supervision of clinical work conducted by social work students, and participation in the Clinic’s senior staff meetings and workgroups.

Program Description

Our APA-Accredited training program is based on the scientist-practitioner model. It prepares psychologists for academic careers or positions of leadership in clinical and educational settings. The program consists of a core professional development curriculum and graduated research and clinical training experiences over two years in the areas of Clinical Adult Psychology (APA Accreditation), Clinical Child Psychology (APA Specialty Accreditation), and Clinical Neuropsychology (APA Specialty Accreditation). The core curriculum exposes fellows to cutting edge topics in psychology and health care, and enhances fellows’ understanding of medical/legal issues, ethical dilemmas, career development, EPPP, grant writing skills, sensitivity to cultural diversity and eventual ABPP Board Certification in their specialty. The Clinical Adult Psychology track focuses on depression, anxiety, and clinical outcome, and emphasizes scientific behaviorism and learning theory. Fellows are expected to become knowledgeable about and to employ empirically-supported interventions for the treatment of self-management and self-regulation disorders, anxiety, depression, and various other psychiatric conditions. The Clinical Child & Adolescent Psychology specialty track emphasizes the developmental and social contexts of child psychopathology, and the use of empirically validated assessments and interventions. Fellows gain expertise in diagnosis, assessment, and treatment of children with a wide range of psychological difficulties. They also participate in clinical research and prepare to function as independent, programmatic researchers. The Neuropsychology specialty track participates in the APPCN match process for matching applicants. This track provides advanced training in the application of knowledge of brain-behavior relationships and Clinical Psychology for the benefit of patients suffering from disorder, disease, or injury to the central nervous system.

Program Description
As the first program in the nation to be specialty accredited in Clinical Health Psychology by the American Psychological Association (APA), we are pleased to offer a 24 month long postdoctoral residency in association with Michigan State University/Flint Area Medical Education (MSU/FAME), and the three area affiliated teaching hospitals - Genesys Regional Medical Center, Hurley Medical Center, and McLaren Regional Medical Center. Within each of these institutions consortium faculty and fellows provide clinical and didactic teaching to a variety of medical residency training programs, medical student programs, and allied health programs. Consistent with experts in the field of health psychology, the residency works toward the goal of training professional psychologists in general knowledge and skills as well as specific proficiencies and competencies. The common training elements of the residency programs include: Group Supervision (2 hrs/week), Individual Supervision, a year-long Psychopharmacology curriculum, a Pathophysiology course, a Seminar Series (3 hrs/week), Continuing Medical Education lectures, Grand Rounds, noon conferences, and visiting guest lecturers. Upon graduation, fellows are ready to assume leadership roles in Clinical Health Psychology and medical education. Their training prepares them to be effective collaborators with physicians and allied health personnel, to understand the culture and language of medicine, to be able to design and implement effective education programs which incorporate sound psychological constructs.
The MCARP program subscribes to a practitioner-scientist training model. It is our belief that professional psychologists are by nature and by need, generalists; the MCARP program strives to provide supervised training in a diverse spectrum of ages, patient populations, patient problems, psychopathology, and treatment modalities. Further, MCARP emphasizes the understanding and appreciation of the unique needs, culture, and customs of rural America. The MCARP program is based on the acquisition and mastery of 11 core competencies that MCARP believes are necessary to function as a psychologist clinician, consultant, teacher and community leader in rural areas. We value the combination of scholarship, academic activities of the fellowship are based on their relationship to these competencies and it is these values that drive the continuous quality assurance and ongoing evolution of the training program.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities

The MCARP programs serve a tri-county area of Northwestern Minnesota whose catchment area also includes the White Earth Reservation. All counties involved in the program as well as the White Earth Reservation are federally designated mental health shortage areas as are all surrounding counties.

Program Description

MCARP is an alliance of mental health professionals, mental health agencies, social service providers, medical health facilities and county and tribal government along with agencies located in rural Becker, Mahnomen, Pennington and Ottertail counties along with the White Earth Reservation. The primary goal of MCARP is to recruit and prepare doctoral level psychology graduates to assume positions of healthcare leadership in rural and frontier communities. MCARP program subscribes to a practitioner-scientist training model. It is our belief that professional psychologists are uniquely trained to assume clinical, teaching and leadership roles in rural communities. We value the combination of scholarship, academ-

Program Description
We have two different postdoctoral fellowships. One is in human sexuality and the other is in behavioral medicine. There is opportunity for some fellows to have a split fellowship if desired. This is a two-year full-time fellowship with an outstanding faculty and extensive supervision provided. The emphasis is on clinical experience and training, however there is a required research or scholarly project requirement as well. The human sexuality fellowship is offered through the Center for Sexual Health which is an outpatient clinic which treats a variety of sexual disorders and dysfunctions (averaging 1,000 patient visits per month). This is an ideal fellowship for someone who is interested in developing a career in sex therapy, teaching and research or adding this specialization to their training and experience. We have a number of comorbid Axis I and Axis II diagnoses, so there is ample opportunity to learn to manage a myriad of psychiatric problems as well as treatment of sexual dysfunctions and disorders. The Program in Human Sexuality is one of the premier sexuality programs in the country with an internationally renowned faculty. We anticipate adding three fellows to our current group of 6 postdoctoral fellows in 2009. The behavioral medicine fellowship is offered through one or two of our family practice clinics which are training sites for family practice residents. The Department of Family Medicine and Community Health is one of the largest departments in the country with a very strong behavioral medicine emphasis. This is an excellent opportunity to be involved in behavioral medicine in a busy outpatient family practice clinic serving an ethnically diverse and urban client population. The fellows are also involved in the behavioral medicine teaching component of the residency training program. We have one fellow completing in 2009 and anticipate adding one new fellow in September or thereabouts in 2009.

Program Description

The two-year American Psychological Association (APA) Accredited Postdoctoral Medical Psychology Fellowship Program at Mayo Clinic Rochester, is designed for recent graduates of an APA-Accredited Clinical or Counseling Psychology Doctoral Program and an APA-Accredited Predoctoral Psychology Internship who wish to acquire specialty training in one of three substantive specialty practice programs offered in this fellowship: Clinical Child Psychology, Clinical Health Psychology, Clinical Neuropsychology. The three accredited fellowship substantive specialty practice programs are designed to complement your background and to provide more in-depth training in your chosen specialty area. You will be admitted to one of our three practice programs in the fellowship. In each specialty, you will receive advanced training in assessment, psychodiagnosis, research methodology and evidence-based practice. Clinical Child Psychology: clinical training and research in pediatric psychology (chronic medical conditions such as diabetes, pain, POTS, chronic illness and elimination disorders), clinical child psychology (anxiety disorders, eating disorders, mood disorders, and externalizing disorders) and pediatric neuropsychology in outpatient and inpatient treatment settings. Clinical Health Psychology: clinical and research specialization in the evaluation, treatment and study of: anxiety disorders, chronic disease self-management, obesity and bariatric surgery, pain management, primary care psychology, and psych-oncology. Clinical Neuropsychology: clinical training in diagnosis and treatment evaluations of a wide range of neurologic, medical, and psychiatric conditions; inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation of patients with epilepsy, spinal cord injury, multiple sclerosis, dementia, stroke and traumatic brain injury. Member of APPCN.

Program Description

The Psychology Department at State Operated Forensic Services (SOFS) offers a post-doctoral fellowship program for professionals interested in gaining expertise in the area of forensic evaluation. SOFS is comprised of secure inpatient psychiatric facilities. Patients come to SOFS on an involuntary basis, sometimes being committed by the courts for evaluation or treatment. SOFS also serves as a statewide treatment facility for persons found not guilty or unable to stand trial by reason of mental illness. SOFS serves a patient population that is both clinically and demographically quite diverse. Our patients have a very wide range of diagnoses, covering virtually all the major categories of the DSM-IV-TR. SOFS consists of eleven programs and fellows may serve as evaluators in any of these programs. The primary goal of our training program is to prepare the fellow to be a highly competent forensic examiner capable of independent practice. To meet that end, the fellowship is an academic environment with a focus on forensic literature and test methods. We provide a multitude of training opportunities through didactic exercises, weekly case law study, case conferences, literature reviews, and close supervision of all aspects of the completion of a variety of forensic cases. The training at SOFS will be professionally challenging. The selected fellow(s) will observe and participate in all aspects of the forensic evaluation process, including: interviewing defendants, making collateral contacts, administering and interpreting specialized forensic instruments (e.g., malingering assessments), and writing clear and concise reports that address the Court’s referral questions. The fellow may also be called upon to testify throughout the fellowship year. The requirements of the fellowship fulfill the requirements for licensure in the state of Minnesota.

Program Description

Please see our website www.psychologytraining.va.gov/kansascity/ for more detailed information and application instructions. The postdoctoral residency is in clinical psychology with a mental health focus emphasizing substance abuse and PTSD treatment, with opportunities in other aspects of mental health. Inpatient and outpatient experiences in mental health and substance abuse are available. In addition, some introductory experiences in neuropsychology, rehabilitation psychology, and health psychology may be available. The philosophy of training at the KCVAMC is best described as a "scholar-practitioner" model. The training experiences have a strong clinical focus. However, knowledge and use of empirically supported processes and interventions are expected and encouraged in all aspects of the program. At the end of the program, residents will be prepared to function autonomously as practicing clinical or counseling psychologists in a broad range of applied, teaching, and research settings. Applicants must have completed an APA accredited doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology, including an APA accredited internship, prior to the residency start date (including all aspects of the dissertation). We especially encourage applications from students with knowledge and experience in diversity issues. Applicants are required to have a strong interest in mental health issues and treatment with long-term goals to provide service and contribute to this area in psychology. In addition, residents must be interested in studying and utilizing different theoretical orientations that have evidence-based or empirically supported elements of treatment. Candidates must be citizens of the United States.

Program Description

The mission of the postdoctoral residency is to provide a structured training program designed to develop advanced competency in clinical practice and program evaluation. The resident will be required to spend part of their time in specific research and program evaluation activities and part in providing direct services. The primary theoretical orientation of Burrell clinicians is cognitive-behavioral, but most would describe themselves as eclectic. Clinical area options include medical psychology, child or adult treatment in inpatient and/or outpatient environments.

Funding for the postdoctoral residency is currently tenuous. We are no longer funded by the BOP's Central Office. Currently, we are exploring the possibility of local funding, but unless that is implemented, we will be unable to offer a postdoctoral residency. Traditionally, the U.S. Medical Center offers experience in correctional and forensic psychology which will be focused primarily on psychological assessment. The experience also includes opportunities to participate in the Residential Drug Abuse Program (RDAP), the BOP's intensive substance abuse treatment program. The primary focus of the residency is to increase proficiency in psychological assessment within the correctional and forensic realms. Residents will participate in a variety of types of psychological assessments, including but not necessarily limited competency to proceed, mental state at the time of an offense, risk for involuntary treatment or civil commitment, suicide risk assessment, assessment of risk of dangerousness, treatment needs of sentenced prisoners, psychological assessment of prisoners in segregated housing units, and assessment of housing needs of sentenced prisoners. Supervisors focus on residents' diagnostic abilities, consultation skills, and report writing skills. Opportunities for testimony in federal court, although not guaranteed, are likely. There will also be several opportunities to participate in treatment activities. The resident coordinates and leads a competency restoration group. In conjunction with psychiatrists, the resident will address the treatment needs of patients with severe mental illnesses. The resident will gain skills in suicide risk assessment, crisis intervention, and emergency treatment. The resident's evaluation reports will routinely include treatment recommendations. Finally, the resident is involved in the BOP's Residential Drug Abuse Program, a treatment program based on an inpatient model of substance abuse treatment.

Program Description

St. Louis Behavioral Medicine Institute (SLBMI) is an academic affiliate of St. Louis University Health Science Center. Our primary mission is to provide state-of-the-art, specialized services for various disorders and patient populations. Our Postdoctoral Positions include opportunities for group and individual treatment modalities as part of our multidisciplinary teams: 1) Anxiety Disorders Center, 2) Dual Program: Eating Disorders Program / Psychology and Religion Program. Anxiety disorders work is done primarily in the context of a cognitive behavioral intensive outpatient program for people with severe anxiety disorders, including obsessive-compulsive disorder, panic disorder, generalized anxiety, social anxiety, post-traumatic stress, phobias, and related problems. Anxiety Disorders Center residents are provided ongoing training in evidence-based treatments for Anxiety Disorders. The Dual Program resident works with both the Eating Disorders team (conducting cognitive behavioral treatment for adolescents/ young adults in the intensive outpatient program,) and the Psychology and Religion team (providing treatment of obesity with religious professionals, integration of spirituality and evidence-based practice, and comprehensive psychological assessment). Appointments are for 1 year with possible renewal for an additional year. In general, training in most programs follows a clinical preceptorship model with two hours of individual supervision per week, plus seminars and group/peer supervision. Requirements include APA-accredited doctorate degree and internship completed. Submit application form and send 3 letters of reference, copies of relevant publications, CV, and graduate transcript. Application forms and program description may be found at www.slbmi.com. Application deadline February 15; selections made by March 15 or until filled. An Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Program Description

The Clinical Psychology Residency program focuses on learning the supervision and management of mental health patients, staff, finances, and facilities. Further learning in psychometrics, diagnostics, evaluations, and intervention continue to be a strong part of the training experience. This is a 2 year position. The Medical Psychology/Psychopharmacology position is a position developed to train residents at APA LEVEL III Psychopharmacology/Prescriptive Authority and eligibility for The Academy of Medical Psychology. The resident will complete The Psychopharmacology Institute coursework, practicum, and preceptorship while continuing to develop skills in the applications of this knowledge in clinical, medical and health psychology. The residency requires 3 years to complete.

Program Description
Postdoctoral training is offered in neuropsychology and brain imaging (1-2 positions). Emphasis is placed on professional development through teaching and research opportunities, advanced seminar work, intensive individual supervision, and inter-disciplinary collaboration. Each fellow negotiates with the training director for an individual program which balances these learning experiences. For more information, please see our website at: synapse.hitchcock.org.

Program Description

There are two separate but integrated postdoctoral programs that are briefly described below. See our brochure at www.nslij.com/body.cfm?ID=5067 for a more thorough description. The Clinical Geropsychology Fellowship includes opportunities for placements in diverse settings where mental health services are provided to elderly people with a range of psychiatric difficulties, including psychotic, affective, anxiety, adjustment and personality disorders, as well as Alzheimer's disease and related dementia conditions. The Fellowship includes a didactic program of seminars, case conferences and opportunities for involvement in research. Clinical placements in the Geriatric Psychiatry Clinic, Geriatric Partial Hospital, psychological/neuropsychological assessment, and psychological consultation to a nursing home in Riverdale, form the core of the Fellowship. The CLINICAL CHILD PSYCHOLOGY program is designed to further the education and skills of post doctoral trainees within child psychology. The goals of the fellowship are based on published guidelines and recommendations for training in Clinical Child Psychology as articulated by the American Psychological Association Division 53’s Board of Directors and Division 53 Task Force on Postdoctoral Accreditation in Clinical Child Psychology (www.hp.ufl.edu/~johnson/ccpaccredit.doc). There are presently 2 fellowship positions. Overall the clinical child psychology fellows receive between 4 and 6 hours a week of supervision. Efforts are made to arrange for supervision that will expose the trainee to a variety of theoretical orientations. All fellows spend one-half time in the Division of Child and Adolescent Psychiatry's Ambulatory Care Service. Based upon interest and prior experience, each fellow is also assigned half-time to the Adolescent (Inpatient) Pavilion, Eating Disorders Program, or the Trauma Center.

Program Description:
Two year intensive scientist-practitioner training within a Brain Injury Research Center housed in the Department of Rehabilitation Medicine, Mount Sinai School of Medicine in NY. Fellowships are federally funded positions under several NIDRR and a CDC grant focused on Traumatic Brain Injury. Fellows spend 80% of their time working closely with a multidisciplinary team of renown clinical researchers in the field of brain injury. Opportunities include collaboration with the team to develop, implement, evaluate and disseminate clinical rehabilitation interventions focused on group cognitive remediation for executive dysfunctions, cognitive behavioral therapy for depression, evaluation of the benefits of exercise and complete evidence based reviews, plus any other new studies funded over the next 18 months. Fellows will spend 20% time in direct clinical service delivery reflective of their prior clinical training. Intensive research and clinical didactics are provided each week. Each fellow will complete an individual research project under mentoring provided by senior clinical researchers. Fellows will be involved in teaching within the department’s APA internship program. Fellows will participate in NIH, hospital based trainings and workshops to round out their research expertise.

Program Description

The basis of the UCC postdoctoral training program is an apprenticeship model which promotes the independent practice of the fellow to competently perform in positions in which advanced level psychologists function. To this end, the fellowship is tailor-made to accomplish the following four objectives: 1) Add to clinical competencies already established by rounding out training (e.g., increasing one’s depth and breadth of brief treatment); (2) develop one’s level of supervising and teaching; (3) begin to understand administrative functions in which counseling center psychologists engage; and (4) develop outreach and consultation skills. Possibilities are numerous and are determined in conjunction with the director of training. The fellow conducts individual, couples and group psychotherapy, receives 4 hours of supervision, provides 2-3 hours of supervision to advanced graduate students, offers consultation and outreach services to the university community, performs administrative functions, and attends selected case-oriented seminars. A brief rotation with the University of Rochester Medical Center’s psychiatric emergency department is also included.

Program Description:
We are committed to the development of psychologist leaders who have sufficient breadth and depth of clinical knowledge to assume full responsibility for patient care, teaching, and administration of clinical programs in a variety of health care settings. Depending on the track selected and the professional goals of the applicant, trainees may also gain experience in clinical research in a variety of areas. We offer advanced education and training in four substantive areas of clinical psychology: Adult Ambulatory Psychology, Child and Adolescent Psychology, Primary Care Family Psychology and the Rochester PRIDE track (focused on clinical work and research with communities of color and health and mental health disparities). Program Description
Cincinnati Children’s Hospital Medical Center is one of the largest children’s hospitals in the country with a reputation for excellence in clinical care, teaching, and research. Fellowships are available on a one- and two-year training cycle across several sub-specialties and offer a combination of training opportunities across research and clinical care. An apprenticeship model focused on active mentoring, career development, professional role identity, and development of skills in clinical research and care that ensures success as a scientist-practitioner, is a hallmark of the training program. Postdoctoral training focus areas include: 1) Behavioral Medicine: Nutrition and Health (Scott Powers, PhD, ABPP) b. Pain Management (Susmita Kashikar-Zuck, PhD) c. Adherence (Dennis Dratar, PhD) d. Risk and Prevention (Robert Ammerman, PhD) e. Neuropsychology (Marsha Nortz, PhD, ABPP) f. Child Clinical/ADHD (Jeff Epstein, PhD) g. Developmental Disabilities (Patricia Eiler-Sims, PhD) h. Autism (Rena Sorensen-Burrows, PhD). Training is specific to each focus area but is expected to take place in clinical care (not less than 25%), research, teaching, administration, professional development, and community activities. Each program is developed within a focus area such that the fellow will be eligible for licensure at the end of the fellowship. For all areas applicants must have a doctoral degree from an APA approved program, completed an APA approved internship, and defended their dissertation prior to beginning the fellowship. The majority of the positions are supported by NIH research grants, and some are supported by an NIH/NIDDK Postdoctoral Training Grant in Child Behavior and Nutrition (Program Director: Scott W. Powers, PhD).

Program Description
The VA National Center for Organization Development (NCOD) offers a two-year postdoctoral fellowship in Organization Consulting and Development. The center serves VA facilities and offices nationwide. The center's practice is based on an action research model; services include executive coaching, leadership development and assessment, team building, strategic planning, large and small group facilitation, work redesign, survey design and analysis, and psychodynamic interventions. Fellows will be involved in the All Employee Survey (administered annually to a quarter million employees) and the CREW (Civility, Respect and Engagement in the Workplace) initiatives. The training program offers trainees the opportunity to "learn by doing," and they are involved in all aspects of the Center's work. Trainees participate in weekly didactic seminars based on readings from psychology and business sources and on work experiences in the field. Trainees also participate in a research project. The supervision model affords trainees the opportunity to learn from multiple senior practitioners. The Center's staff provides rich, intensive ongoing feedback. Trainees are expected to have a strong organizational and academic background and to display a high level of professionalism. The ability to work effectively as a member of a fast-paced, high performing team is essential. Trainees must be willing to travel frequently (at least two weeks per month) and to work evening and early morning shifts when needed. Trainees will accrue the clinical hours necessary for licensure in Ohio; candidates are expected to attain licensure by the end of the two-year training program. Candidates from doctoral programs in clinical, counseling, social, or I/O psychology are encouraged to apply. Candidates must have completed all requirements for their doctorate, including dissertation defense, prior to the start of the postdoc. Rolling admission allows flexible start dates.
The goal of this clinical health psychology fellowship is to provide clinical interventions with adult patients experiencing a wide range of medical and psychological problems. The fellowship is primarily outpatient-based and includes psychological consultations and diagnostic interviews, short-term psychotherapy, behavioral interventions, and group psychotherapy. This is a one year certificate program in one major rotation area; fellows may apply for second year of fellowship in same or different area of specialty upon goodness of fit/mutual consent. Current major rotation areas include: Headache, Bariatrics, and Cardiac Biofeedback clinics. Opportunities are available for minor rotations in specialty areas, including: primary care, sleep disorders, cardiac biofeedback, personality testing, and teaching at the medical school. The fellowship is clinical in nature, but the fellow is expected to participate in ongoing research, poster presentations, didactics, and teaching opportunities with medical students/residents. See our advertisement in the APA Monitor fall online editions and on our website. Our fellowship is not currently APA accredited. We are in the process of submitting a self-study as part of our application for accreditation by APA. Interested applicants should initially mail a CV and letter of intent via e-mail to pezdirc@ccf.org between 9/1/09 and 1/1/10. Applicants selected for interviews will be contacted via e-mail. Note: Applicants invited for Jan/Feb interviews should be prepared to send in one envelope the following materials by January 15: a letter of interest/intent, curriculum vitae, official graduate transcript, a clinical work sample, and three letters of recommendation. A letter from your program director attesting to the applicant's status as a doctoral candidate/prospect on dissertation defense is also required in this packet. Any questions should be directed to: Anne Pezdirc at pezdirc@ccf.org (216)445-1319.

Applicants for postdoctoral fellowships should prepare a letter of intent, CV, and three reference letters (from doctoral advisors or research mentors). Applicants must have completed all course work, passed all comprehensive exams, and have a self-study transcript before applying. Applications are accepted on an ongoing basis; applications received by October 15 of each year will be given priority consideration. Applicants are required to submit a personal statement that describes their education and career goals, and a description of past and proposed research training. Applicants with Internet access may apply by accessing the following website: http://my.clevelandclinic.org/neurological_institute/education/psychiatry_psychology_fellowship.aspx#HealthPsychFellow

Program Description

The LSCDVAMC offers one year, full-time APA accredited Postdoctoral Residencies in Clinical Psychology in six separate emphasis areas: (1) Genopsychology (geriatric health psychology emphasis), (2) Psychosocial Rehabilitation of the Seriously Mentally Ill (Recovery Model emphasis), (3) Primary Care/Mental Health Integration, (4) PTSD, (5) Consultation to Specialty Medical Clinics, (6) Substance Abuse. We follow a practitioner-scholar training model, providing training for advanced competence in these areas. The Fellowships require completion of a scholarly project, for which fellows are given 8 hours/week time. We also offer two-year specialty training in our Postdoctoral Residency in Clinical Neuropsychology (one position), which is NOT APA ACCREDITED. The Fellowship is renewable if performance is satisfactory in the first year. Applicants must be graduates of an APA accredited program in clinical or counseling psychology and have successfully completed an APA accredited internship. The successful candidates will have to pass a physical exam, background security check, and possible random drug screen (all routine) prior to final appointment. An oath of office is required.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION All Positions include didactic training as part of the program. Teaching; umbrella supervision of residents and practicum trainees are required but amount varies by site. Postdoctoral trainees will either be in a community-based service center, a specialty program for domestic violence, or a comprehensive community mental health clinic. Fellows receive 25%-50% direct service time which meets state requirements. Research opportunities are available at each site. Training is guided and evaluated using a self generated competency-based training plan.

Program Description

These one- or two-year Fellowships associated with the Department of Psychology at The Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia are designed for individuals who have completed all doctoral degree requirements and who aspire to academic careers and leadership positions in pediatric medical settings or university departments supporting Ph.D. training programs. Diverse pediatric populations, including infants, preschoolers, school age, and adolescent cohorts presenting with developmental disorders, behavior problems, and/or chronic illness/disability receive family-centered services within an interdisciplinary context. Opportunities exist to acquire or refine skills pertaining to Pediatric Psychology, Pediatric Neuropsychology, Early Childhood, and Child Clinical, Community, Schools Psychology. Training occurs in both in- and outpatient clinical settings. Training and supervision is provided in vivo, in office, and during small and large group rounds. Video-mediated training facilities are available. Research opportunities are abundant. We offer the opportunity for fellows to be involved in federally funded research programs within various medical populations including oncology, cardio-thoracic transplant, injury prevention, cranio-facial disorders, and pain. Additional opportunities include community-based ADHD interventions and violence prevention in urban schools. Specific areas of focus vary each year and available positions are posted on our website by December. Didactic seminars, conferences, and rounds are frequent and address multiple topics and methodologies. Fellows have direct access to all faculty and staff and work closely with one or two mentors who ensure programmatic integrity and continuity. Fellows receive instrumental support when searching for career-enhancing positions.

Where Did Former Postdoctoral Fellows Go?

University Counseling Center 2
University Teaching Faculty

Program Description

The purpose of the residency is to engage the resident in all aspects of University Counseling Center service and administration in order to provide preparation for a career in university counseling. To this end, the core of the resident’s training includes individual counseling with students, crisis response, individual supervision, participation on the Center’s Consultation/Outreach Team, and participation in department projects and initiatives. The residency begins with two weeks of orientation prior to the start of the fall semester. Once the semester begins, residents begin to build a caseload of individual clients up to an average of 20 per week. Upon completion of training in our career assessment process, residents also begin to see clients for career counseling. In September, residents begin to take “on-call” duty on a rotating basis. As residents become more comfortable and familiar with the center and the university, they are asked to take on more responsibilities. Residents are sometimes asked to take the lead on administative projects, such as coordinating research efforts or organizing outreach functions. They are often asked to participate in university functions as a representative of the Counseling Center. By the spring semester, residents are expected to function as senior staff at the center. They are offered the opportunity to form and lead a group on the topic of their choosing. While still under supervision, residents are expected to take more initiative and demonstrate increasing independence in their work. Residents are formally evaluated at the mid-point of the residency and at the completion of the residency. In the event of a grievance, due process is followed and grievance procedures are in place to assure fair resolution. The residency consists of 1800 hours of supervised professional psychological activities, and it meets the post doctoral supervised experience requirements for licensure in Pennsylvania.

Program Description
Our program in clinical psychology has 3 tracks: Geropsychology (2 slots), PTSD (1 slot), Substance Use Disorders (1 slot). Fellows in the geropsychology track complete two 6-month rotations. On the Neurobehavioral rotation, fellows conduct comprehensive neuropsychological assessments, provide consultation to the nursing home, and co-facilitate a caregiver support group and memory skills group. On the GRECC rotation, fellows conduct brief cognitive screenings in the outpatient geriatric specialty clinic (GEM clinic). The fellow in the PTSD track works with the interdisciplinary PTSD clinical team for the year. The fellow completes diagnostic evaluations and provides empirically-supported individual and group psychotherapy for combat-related PTSD. The fellow also has the opportunity to choose one or more of the following 6 to 12 month elective training rotations: Vet Center, Military Sexual Trauma, Substance Use, or research. The fellow in the SUD track works with the interdisciplinary team in the Center for the Treatment of Addictive Disorders for the year and has the opportunity to provide diagnostic evaluation and individual/group psychotherapy in the CORE program, recovery and aftercare clinic, and opioid substitution clinic. Fellows also participate in the weekly postdoctoral fellowship didactic series which includes a case conference, journal club, professional development seminar, and topic seminar, in addition to other track-specific didactics. Fellows also receive training in program development/evaluation in their specific emphasis area.

Program Description
The Clinical Psychology Training Consortium offers two types of fellowships, hospital based CLINICAL RESEARCH fellowships and NIH funded T32 research fellowships. The NIH RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS are: NIMH Research Training in Child Mental Health; NIMH Research Training in Child/Adolescent Biobehavioral HIV; NIAAA Research Training in Alcohol Intervention/Treatment; NIDA Research Training in Substance Abuse Intervention Outcome Treatment; NIMH Training in Treatment Research; NABRI Training in Cardiovascular Behavioral Medicine. The purpose of the CLINI-CAL RESEARCH fellowship is to provide a training experience that ensures the development of competency in a specific area of clinical psychology including: Adult Clinical, Child Clinical, Behavioral Medicine, and Clinical Neuropsychology. Clinically focused fellowships are APA approved. All clinical research fellowships have a minimum of 20% research time. The exact nature of training is decided on an individual basis by the Fellow and his/her primary faculty mentor. Training objectives are achieved through an apprenticeship model where the Fellow works closely with a faculty member in the provision of clinical services and/or conducting research. The faculty member serves as primary supervisor and role model, and the close supervisory relationship permits the Fellow to develop clinical and/or research skills as well as role identity. In most fellowships, there are typically at least 2 other supervisors directly involved with the Fellow. Number and type of fellowships vary from year-to-year and most are 2 years in duration. Starting dates vary from July 1 to September 1.

Program Description

The purpose of the fellowship program is to refine the skills of the scientist-practitioner preparing for a career in an academic pediatric medical setting with primary emphasis in pediatric oncology, Sickle Cell Disease, or pediatric/adolescent HIV. As SJCRH is a non-profit specialty children’s cancer hospital, training in general pediatrics is not available. The fellow will be trained within a scientist-practitioner consultation-liaison model of service provision which fosters collaboration with a variety of pediatric subspecialties and medical treatment teams. While preference is toward applicants intending toward a career as a clinical investigator in pediatric psychology and/or pediatric neuropsychology, potential fellows may be considered for a primary clinical track (1 year) or primary research track (2 years). Please indicate intention/preference in online application and supplemental materials requested.

Program Description
A postdoctoral position is offered in the area of developmental disabilities. The position is clinically oriented with intensive supervision provided with the opportunity for research. In addition to direct patient contact, fellows will be involved in providing supervision, program development, and didactic learning experiences. Upon completion of the postdoctoral year, fellows should have the skills to establish a program in their area of specialty. The primary purpose of the position in developmental disabilities is to provide in-depth training for future work in prevention, early identification, and treatment of individuals with developmental disabilities. Although the start date is August 16th there can be some negotiation of this date.

Program Description

This post-doctoral psychology program (3 positions) exists within an interdisciplinary training program and provides more intensive supervised training in clinical psychology with an emphasis in substance abuse (2 positions) and in Geropsychology (1 position). In the substance abuse program, postdoctoral psychology fellows address the problem of chemical dependency among veterans as members of interdisciplinary teams. The psychology fellow combines psychological assessment and individual and group psychotherapy both to conceptualize the psychosocial needs of the substance-abusing veteran and to facilitate the veterans' development of adaptive coping strategies as alternatives to continued substance abuse. These goals are achieved by performing assessments as needed and as requested by the treatment team, conducting individual psychotherapy, co-leading psychoeducational and process-oriented group psychotherapy, attending continuing education programs on substance abuse, and participating actively in all interdisciplinary treatment team meetings. In the Geropsychology program, the fellow will spend one half of the year on an interdisciplinary mental health team and one half of the year in a rehabilitation-oriented nursing home which includes a palliative care section. Also, he/she will have exposure to home-based primary care. A minimum of 2 hours per week of individual supervision with a licensed psychologist will be provided, and the fellow will be required to attend training seminars and case conferences throughout the year. Applicants must have received their doctoral degree in clinical or counseling psychology and must have completed a predoctoral internship, both of which must be accredited by the American Psychological Association.

Program Description
The University of Texas Medical Branch training program has continued our training program with several changes for the 08-09 training year in conjunction with the approval of the APA CoA. We anticipate taking applications and possibly starting the training year as early as possible in 2010. The postdoctoral program at UTMB provides specialty postdoctoral training in clinical health psychology. The positions are typically funded by NIH, HRSA, and NIDRR grants. Clinical settings are focused on health psychology and combine research and clinical service (approximately 55% each depending on grant funding). The clinical component provides psychological services including evaluation, consultation, and treatment in a number of settings, including pain management, rehabilitation and disability at the Transitional Learning Center, and geropsychology. Research opportunities are dependent on funding. Teaching opportunities exist in the clinical psychiatry course and the sexual health and rehabilitation course both coordinated by the training director. Inpatient work is also available on the geriatrics unit and a wide variety of surgical units focusing on pain management. It is expected the postdoc will work in conjunction with on-going research projects and develop at least one project with the goal of publication or grant funding. UTMB has a scientist practitioner model of training and includes didactics and supervision of no less than 2 hours per week of individual face to face supervision. The program is designed to enhance research and clinical skills to prepare the trainee for a position in a medical or academic setting and is not a good fit for those wanting to go into private practice. Trainees are expected to develop advanced skills in the practice and competencies of a clinical health psychologist.

Program Description

Ben Taub General Hospital is a county-funded general hospital built in 1963 to serve the needs of the Houston area. The Psychiatry Service provides inpatient and outpatient treatment for medically indigent and psychiatrically impaired persons. As a member of the Psychiatry team, the post-doctoral fellow will provide assessment and therapy services to psychiatric outpatients and assessment and consultation service to medical inpatients through the Consultation and Liaison Service, as well as participate in ongoing research protocols and initiate research protocols relevant to the Service. Specific activities include serving as a primary clinician in the Intensive Outpatient Program, a multi-disciplinary program for patients with Axis I and Axis II disorders; providing individual and/or group psychotherapy to children, adolescents, and adults; and conducting psychological and neuropsychological evaluations. Members of both the psychology and psychiatry faculty provide supervision as appropriate to the clinical work being done and research activities pursued by the fellow. A full range of educational opportunities of the Baylor College of Medicine and the Texas Medical Center is available, including Baylor Psychiatry Grand Rounds, on-site workshops, and regularly scheduled training activities (e.g., individual and group supervision), as well as a post-doc seminar series for Baylor-affiliated fellows in the Houston area. The fellow is expected to develop at least one research project for presentation and/or publication, to provide lectures appropriate for the training of psychology and psychiatry interns and residents, and to participate in the training activities of the Service for interns, psychiatry residents, medical students, and other staff in training at Ben Taub General Hospital. In addition, the fellowship meets the licensure requirements for the state of Texas, and the fellow is encouraged to pursue licensure in Texas during the fellowship year.

Program Description

The Clinical Psychology Fellowship program is composed of a total of five fellows, three with a one year term and two with a two year term. The three fellows with one year terms provide general training in the substantive area of clinical psychology and in the emphasis areas of either Serious Mental Illness (1 position) and PTSD/Anxiety Disorders (2 positions). We also have a two-year fellowship in the specialty area of Neuropsychology (2 positions). 80% of the fellowship is devoted to clinical service delivery skills and 20% to research. Charlie Nguyen, Ph.D., is the preceptor for the postdoctoral training in the treatment of serious mental illness; Helen Beckner, Ph.D., is the preceptor for the PTSD/Anxiety Disorders emphasis area with the general Veteran cohort; and Stacey Lanier, Ph.D., is the preceptor for the PTSD/Anxiety Disorders emphasis area with the recently returning Veterans from Iraq and Afghanistan. The specialty area of Neuropsychology follows Division 40 and APCN standards. Robert L. Collins, Ph.D., ABPP is the preceptor for this fellowship which also devotes 20 % time to research activities and the balance to clinical work.

Program Description
This one-year postdoctoral training program is based in a private psychiatric hospital which is well-known for high quality patient care. The theoretical orientation is broadly psychodynamic, but with opportunities for cognitive-behavioral and other empirically-based approaches. The educational mission of Menninger is to train promising young clinicians in advanced concepts of psychotherapy and psychological testing. Postdoctoral fellows work as primary clinicians with a multidisciplinary team in a fully integrated, biopsychosocial model. The primary clinician is responsible for coordinating patient care, administering and interpreting psychological tests, providing individual and family therapy and group therapy to patients. Patient treatment episodes range from approximately 2 weeks to 6-8 weeks, affording an opportunity for intensive psychotherapeutic interventions and complex diagnostic work. Clinical supervision of 3-4 hours per week and didactic training round out the training experience. The program is affiliated with the Baylor College of Medicine.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION

The Deer Oaks Mental Health Associates Postdoctoral Psychology Residency Program is designed to provide the highest quality advanced training in clinical psychology in an outpatient setting. Our trainees are exposed to the full range of clinical services including individual, family, group therapy, couples therapy and geriatric/neuropsychological consultation and therapy. A special feature of the Residency Program is supervised experience working with the elderly residing in nursing homes as well as with telephonic or in-person Employee Assistance Programs (San Antonio, only). There is a special emphasis on training with multicultural issues. Opportunities for continued employment/advancement after program completion. Training locations include San Antonio, Dallas, Pl. Worth, Victoria, Houston, Brownsville, McAllen, Lubbock, and Laredo, Texas. Some travel is expected between sites, as needed. The organization is more than 14 years old and growing, with many opportunities for leadership in the areas of Employee Assistance Programs, Child Protective Services, and inpatient/nursing home psychological services. Contact Training Director or Human Resources for more details at 7272 Wurzbach Rd., Suite 601, San Antonio, TX 78240.

Program Description
We offer scientist-practitioner training in applied clinical psychology in a medical school-affiliated VA medical center setting. There are three postdoctoral residency training tracks: a two-year specialty track in Neuropsychology; a one-year specialty focus-track in Trauma Psychology; and a one-year specialty focus-track in Palliative Care Psychology. All tracks are accredited by APA, and the Neuropsychology track is approved by APPCN. All residents are required to plan and conduct research projects, make professional presentations, and complete program evaluation projects, in addition to their clinical training experiences. Except for the Neuropsychology track, we usually select postdoctoral residents from our own internship class (from those in analogous special-focus tracks). To be selected, our interns must have collected all of their dissertation data, be progressing satisfactorily in their internship, and be approved by the special-focus track preceptor (all by December 1st of their internship year). These in-house selections are made by December 15th to allow time for open recruitment for any unfilled postdoctoral positions. Applicants should contact the Director of Training after that date regarding any openings not filled by internal candidates.

Program Description:
The United States Air Force offers two-year Postdoctoral Fellowship positions in Clinical Health Psychology (CHP) to qualified psychologists. The positions are located in San Antonio, Texas, at Wilford Hall Medical Center (WHMC), the largest medical center in the U. S. Air Force. WHMC is a teaching hospital with over 50 medical specialty and allied health training programs. The fellowship is a comprehensive program of supervised clinical training, teaching, supervision, and research in the specialty area of CHP. The treatment programs include working as part of multidisciplinary interdisciplinary teams including the following programs: Pain Management, Diabetes Education, TMID/Ostiatric Pain Treatment, Tobacco Cessation, Cardiac/Pulmonary Rehabilitation, and the Sleep Center. Fellows also gain experience as behavioral health consultants in Obstetrics. The education program consists of weekly workshops, professional seminars in CHP, Distinguished Visiting Professor Program, and attendance at one national psychology conference. Fellows participate in active research protocols and are expected to produce professional papers for submission to peer-reviewed journals or presentation at a national conference. Fellows also gain experience in grant writing. During the second year, fellows receive training in population health-level program management as well as neuropsychology assessment. In recent years most fellows have been selected from those already on active duty as a licensed Air Force clinical psychologist with several years of professional experience. Highly qualified civilian applicants with similar credentials will be considered for acceptance into the fellowship training program. The program usually accepts applicants who are licensed psychologists with one or more years experience beyond completion of their psychology internship program. The application due date is approximately 6 months prior to the start date of the fellowship program.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION The primary goal of this clinical psychology postdoctoral program is to provide the Resident with advanced training through an extensive range of supervised clinical activities within the context of a large, multidisciplinary community mental health system. The context of learning includes adults, adolescents, and children receiving outpatient psychotherapy and medication services. Residents also complete psychological testing evaluations on children, adolescents and adults. Each resident usually has the opportunity to see children, adolescents and adults during the training year. Sometimes the resident has a primary placement in Youth & Family Services or in Adult Services. Other times, each resident is placed on one Youth & Family Services team and one Adult Services team. The resident receives two hours of individual face to face supervision with a licensed psychologist throughout the year. The resident registers this postdoctoral residency supervision with the Board of Psychology in Virginia. This registration allows the resident to take the psychologist licensing exams during the training year.

Program Description

PLEASE CONTACT PROGRAM FOR UPDATED INFORMATION

ECC and EFI are dedicated to providing excellence in Christian psychological and counseling services. EFI, which residents in clinical psychology, interns, and practica students are affiliated with, provides therapeutic and educational services, counselor training, and world mission support. The integration of Biblical truth with empirically-based treatments provides a basis for treating individuals in the community and church to transform lives and reduce human suffering. Clinical staff draw from a number of theoretical orientations, such as cognitive-behavioral, family systems, and experiential as appropriate. Specialized training in Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT), Dialectical-Behavior Therapy (DBT) and marriage/family therapy are available. Residents are supervised by two licensed clinical psychologists, and also receive group supervision. In addition to being assigned to the main office in Virginia Beach, residents will provide therapeutic services in several other settings within the Hampton Roads area, such as Portsmouth and Suffolk. In addition to the didactic seminars facilitated by clinical staff at ECC, residents have the opportunity to attend monthly colloquia at Regent University, which has an APA-accredited Psy.D. program, and to attend monthly seminars at a local psychiatric facility. Although it is not required, residents are encouraged to participate in research and to present on their findings in their area of specialty for the edification of the organization and for professional development purposes.

Program Description

Postdoctoral Fellowships are available with emphases in PTSD, substance abuse, primary care and rehabilitation medicine. 1) Two positions in addictions care are offered through the Center of Excellence in Substance Abuse Treatment and Education (CESATE) - one of only two programs funded nationally by the Department of Veterans Affairs to offer a specialized clinical fellowship in the interdisciplinary approach to substance use disorders. The primary goal of this fellowship is to provide clinical training in the interdisciplinary assessment and treatment of substance abusers, intended to prepare fellows to assume clinical, academic and/or administrative positions in a variety of settings. 2) One position in PTSD is available in the Mental Illness Research, Education and Clinical Center (MIRECC). This two-year fellowship has a research emphasis (75% research, 25% clinical time). The primary goal of this training is to prepare fellows for independent investigator status in VA Medical Center and academic settings, with expertise in trauma disorders. 3) Two positions are offered in Behavioral Medicine (with a focus on either Primary Care/Mental Health integration or Rehabilitation/Polytrauma care). Both are devoted primarily to the care of returning OIF/OEF veterans, sited in a variety of primary care and rehabilitation medicine settings. These positions offer training in integrated care delivery and evidence-based treatment for PTSD and co-morbid disorders, or alternatively, in evidence-based assessment and intervention of physical trauma and traumatic brain injury. Applicants for all positions must be US citizens, and must have completed a doctoral degree from an APA-accredited graduate program and an APA-accredited internship prior to the start of the fellowship. Inquiries should be directed to Steve McCutcheon, at the above address.

Program Description
The Post-Doctoral Fellowship in Pediatric Psychology at Madigan Army Medical Center is an intensive two-year training program in the Department of Psychology with an emphasis upon child development and behavioral medicine. The program begins in October. One position is open to licensed military active-duty psychologists and one position is open to civilian applicants. The primary goal of the fellowship program is to provide advanced training in pediatric psychology. Major areas of focus are normal child development, developmental pediatrics, behavioral medicine interventions, dysmorphology, developmental and intellectual assessment, childhood psychopathology, pediatric consultation/liaison services, and military related adjustment. During the year the fellows provide services in various settings within the medical center. These areas include the developmental pediatrics clinic, high-risk newborn follow-up clinic, pediatric ward, well baby clinic, dysmorphology clinic, and pediatric subspeciality clinics (e.g., pediatric neurology, pediatric oncology/hematology, pediatric endocrinology). Additionally, fellows are expected to develop one area of subspecialization and produce a publishable professional project. The fellowship program is geared toward training fellows who can deliver high quality clinical services and who can train and supervise interns and other pediatric psychologists. Finally, the fellow has the advantage of cross training in weekly clinics with pediatric fellows from the Developmental and Behavioral Pediatric Fellowship at Madigan Army Medical Center, as well as residents from the Pediatric Residency.
The Washington Institute for Mental Health Research & Training (WSH), through the Washington Institute for Mental Illness Research and Training, conjointly sponsor a postdoctoral fellowship in forensic clinical psychology. The fellowship runs from September through August, full time. The goal of the fellowship is to produce clinical psychology specialists in the practice of forensic clinical psychology who will lead the development of the field.

Program Description
The University of Washington (UW) Department of Psychiatry, Division of Public Behavioral Health and Justice Policy, and Western State Hospital (WSH), through the Washington Institute for Mental Illness Research and Training, jointly sponsor a postdoctoral fellowship in forensic clinical psychology. The fellowship runs from September through August, full time. The goal of the fellowship is to produce clinical specialists in the practice and research of forensic clinical psychology who will lead the development of the field. The fellowship is structured in such a way as to prepare fellows for the ABPP examinations. Some fellowship training activities (e.g., seminar and cross-training with law students) occur in tandem with our ACGME-accredited post-doctoral training program in forensic psychiatry, a forensic post-doctoral training program in juvenile forensic psychology at the Child Study and Treatment Center (CSTC), and the forensic post-doctoral training program specializing in work with sexually violent predators at the Special Commitment Center (SCC). Work sites include WSH, CSTC, local correctional facilities, community, and private practice settings. Duties include forensic evaluations of criminal defendants; assessment, treatment and consultation of mentally ill offenders and correctional inmates; supervised report writing and testimony; independent study and research. Eleven psychologists, several psychiatrists, and one neuropsychiatrist are available for supervision, training and consultation. Four to six hours of face-to-face clinical supervision are provided each week. A demanding nine-month, weekly forensic seminar series provides further didactic education. UW and WSH offer extensive collateral opportunities for education and training. The fellowship program also maintains an active, collegial relationship with the Seattle University School of Law. WSH has a long-standing and fully APA-approved pre-doctoral internship program.

Program Description
- Training program is aimed at preparing post-doctoral fellows for a career within a medical setting. Fellows have the opportunity to work with adult medical patients in both inpatient and outpatient settings. Fellows have the opportunity to work in a community-based federally-funded health center (Access) and a university-based hospital and its clinics (UW Hospital). Activities involve administration, supervision, and responsibility in multidisciplinary treatment teams. Post-doctoral fellows will receive training in decisional capacity evaluation and pre-surgical evaluation. They will also provide brief outpatient services to patients presenting within a primary care setting. Fellows have the opportunity to receive training in supervision. Fellows also receive formal didactic training in areas related to health psychology. Fellows may engage in some project development, teaching, and/or research during the fellowship year.
The Psychology Fellowship Program offers 1 position in each of 2 specialties: Pediatric Psychology and Child/Adolescent Clinical Psychology. The Pediatric Psychology Fellow is trained in the assessment and treatment of the problems of children and adolescents with medical disorders. The Pediatric Fellow spends half of each week in supervised experience on the inpatient pediatric, pediatric intensive care and neonatal intensive care units of St. Joseph’s Childrens Hospital and the other half in the outpatient Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health. The Child/Adolescent Psychology Fellowship is based in the outpatient Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health. Supervised experience in assessment and treatment also occurs in the Child Development Center and at a psychiatric inpatient unit for adolescents. Both fellows receive training in the assessment and treatment of children and adolescents with a wide range of behavioral and emotional problems. Assessment procedures include psychological testing, behavioral questionnaires, diagnostic interviewing and collateral interviews. Interventions include individual therapy, parent guidance, family therapy and group therapy. Fellows receive approximately 3 hours individual supervision per week, participate in weekly postdoctoral seminars and are encouraged to attend other conferences within the medical complex. The faculty utilize a variety of therapeutic approaches, but the prevailing approach is behavioral or cognitive-behavioral embedded in a developmental and systematic understanding of the child. The fellowship is 1 Year with the option to apply for a second year. Fellows are encouraged to apply for a second year. The goal of the program is to facilitate the development of professional psychologists with advanced skills in child and pediatric psychology to function independently in a variety of practice settings. Program information and application are available at www.marshfieldclinic.org.

Where Did Former Postdoctoral Fellows Go?

Veterans Affairs Medical Center 1 3 3

Program Description

The program operates within a scholar-practitioner model. There are four fellowship positions each with a specific area of concentration: one in Geropsychology, one in Palliative Care, one in Psychosocial Rehabilitation, and one in Post-deployment Mental Health Services. Fellows will be prepared for psychological practice either with older adults, with patients with end-stage disease, with the seriously mentally ill, including those with co-morbid substance abuse, or with newly returning veterans, many of whom have suffered multiple physical and/or psychological injuries. While the training primarily occurs within the context of the delivery of psychological services, training needs always take priority over service needs. The objective of the fellowship program is to provide the environment and experience that will promote in-depth development in each area of concentration. The goal of effective independent practice requires competence in assessment, interdisciplinary consultation, individual and systems-based interventions, program development and evaluation, staff training and development, and bioethics. Within each area of competence, sound clinical skill and judgment, an active knowledge of current research, and an ability to teach and communicate well with clients and other professionals are required. The fellowship program is organized around a core of clinical experiences, but allows some flexibility in pursuing individual goals. While there are sometimes opportunities to conduct research during the fellowship, the major emphasis is on clinical practice.

Appendix C: Additional Sources of Information about Internship and Postdoctoral Programs

Listing of Training Programs in Clinical Neuropsychology, 2000
A listing of over 120 academic, internship, and postdoctoral programs in Clinical Neuropsychology is maintained for Division 40 of the American Psychological Association by Lloyd I. Cripe, Ph.D. The list can be downloaded from the Division 40 website and is periodically published in The Clinical Neuropsychologist, by Swets & Zeitlinger. This was last published in 2000. The reference is:

Directory of Internships and Postdoctoral Training Programs in Clinical Child and Pediatric Psychology
This directory is published by Division 53 (Clinical Child Psychology) of the American Psychological Association. There are data pertaining to recruitment, setting, activities, and resources for predoctoral internship and postdoctoral clinical child and pediatric psychology training sites. The Division 53 website has a link to order the Directory, and also lists current programs self-identifying as training sites with a formalized curriculum in clinical child and/or pediatric psychology training. This list is available to the public.
