The contents of this APPIC Directory and Policy Handbook appear in both printed and electronic form (www.appic.org) and represent the best efforts of APPIC to provide an up-to-date list of members and policies. However, due to changes in membership, policies, and the exigencies of reporting, APPIC cannot assure absolute accuracy of its Directory and Policy Handbook at any given moment. If questions regarding membership or policies require confirmation, please contact APPIC Central Office by email (appic@aol.com) or call 202/589-0600.
INTRODUCTION

The Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC) issues this directory as a service to students, their advisors, and professional psychology training directors. The information provided is intended to serve as a guide in helping to identify programs likely to meet specific training needs. All entries in the Directory must be current; each program provides updated directory information to the editors annually.

APPIC was founded in 1968. Its bylaws were most recently updated in 1998. The Association was organized to: (a) promote the achievement and maintenance of high quality training in professional psychology; (b) facilitate exchange of information among institutions and agencies offering doctoral internship and/or postdoctoral training in professional psychology; (c) develop standards for such training programs; (d) provide a forum for exchanging views, establishing policies, procedures, and contingencies on training matters and selection of interns, and resolving other problems and issues for which common agreement is either essential or desirable; (e) provide assistance in matching students with training programs; (f) develop relationships with training agencies including, among others, the Board of Educational Affairs of the American Psychological Association and its committees, the Council of University Directors of Clinical Psychology, the Council of Counseling Psychology Training Programs, the Council of Doctoral School Psychology Programs, the National Council of Schools of Professional Psychology, the Canadian Council of Professional Psychology Programs, the American Association of State Psychology and Provincial Boards, and the Council of the National Register of Health Service Providers in Psychology; and (g) represent the views of those training agencies to groups and organizations whose functions and objectives relate to those of APPIC.

APPIC MISSION STATEMENT

The Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internship Centers (APPIC) is committed to enhancing internship and postdoctoral training in professional psychology. To accomplish this mission, APPIC:

1. Develops minimum standards for quality predoctoral internship and postdoctoral residency training programs.

2. Facilitates the development of new predoctoral internship and postdoctoral training programs.

3. Develops selection policies and procedures to facilitate a fair and orderly process of matching internship applicants with internship programs.
4. Publishes a directory of predoctoral internship and postdoctoral training programs in professional psychology that meet APPIC membership standards.

5. Facilitates the placement of unmatched internship applicants through the APPIC Clearinghouse.

6. Promotes the discussion of relevant selection and training issues for predoctoral interns and postdoctoral residents.

7. Facilitates, through formal and informal mechanisms, resolution of issues and problems that arise during the selection or training process of predoctoral interns or postdoctoral residents.

8. Develops relationships with professional associations committed to doctoral and postdoctoral training as well as other aspects of professional psychology.

9. Facilitates the exchange of information between doctoral programs and agencies offering predoctoral internship and/or postdoctoral training in professional psychology.

10. Represents the views of predoctoral internship and postdoctoral training programs to relevant groups and organizations in professional psychology.

11. Disseminates information on experiential training to members of the psychology community.

12. Encourages research in the areas of psychology training and supervision.

APPIC MEMBERSHIP

APPIC is not an accrediting agency. Programs that would like to include their membership in written materials may list their programs as “APPIC member,” but not as “APPIC accredited” or “APPIC approved.” APPIC membership indicates that a program meets all membership criteria and conforms to APPIC policies.

The APPIC website is used to publish the results of membership ballots (Board elections, Committee appointments, policy changes, revisions in membership criteria), membership alerts, survey results, and other fast-breaking news of interest to psychologists involved in doctoral and postdoctoral training in professional psychology. In addition, the website has APPIC application forms, APPIC Directory order forms, information about the Match Program, and access to the APPIC Directory online. The information available on APPIC’s website will be the most up-to-date that APPIC has to offer.

APPLYING FOR MEMBERSHIP IN APPIC

Agencies sponsoring predoctoral internship and/or postdoctoral training programs that are interested in joining APPIC should write to APPIC Central Office or access the application forms on the website (www.appic.org). The application fee is $250 and must be received prior to committee review. Membership applications must be postmarked by March 31 or September 30 of each year. Applicants must meet criteria listed in the policy section of this directory. Once approved, members receive all benefits listed for subscribers below. Membership in APPIC is required for listing in the APPIC Directory. In addition, to be included in the Directory APPIC policy requires that each member's listing is updated each year and dues and fees are in good standing. Directory updates are completed online by accessing the member page after accessing the Directory Online from the APPIC website. A program code and password will be included in acceptance materials sent to new members in order to access their member page on the Directory Online. In addition to the yearly update, APPIC members can update their Directory page online at any time.

SUBSCRIBING TO APPIC PUBLICATIONS AND SERVICES

Universities and schools offering doctoral programs in psychology can subscribe to APPIC for $225 per year plus a $90 Match Fee. The subscription package includes one free copy of the printed APPIC Directory, a substantial discount for additional copies of the printed directory for students or faculty, a subscription to the APPIC Newsletter, and a subscription to Subscriber News email list. In addition, Training Directors from APPIC subscriber programs whose students participate in the APPIC Match will receive notification directly from National Matching Services as to where their students have been matched.
Benefits to students from Subscriber programs: A $30 discount on the APPIC Directory Online fee due at the time of the Match (all students participating in the Match are required to pay a fee for the Match and the Directory Online), and a substantial discount on the price of the printed APPIC Directory.

DIRECTORY INCLUSION CRITERIA

1. In order to be included in the Online or Print Directory dues must be paid by April 1st each year. Inclusion in the Print Directory also requires that the Training Director, or his/her designate, update their program and user information by a designated date in the spring of each year.

2. Certain items of information are critical to applicants and/or are required by APPIC policies. These items are marked with an asterisk in the Directory Online update page. Member updates cannot be submitted for editor approval without entries in each of these required fields. Editor approval is required each year during a designated update period in the spring for the program updates to be included in the Print Directory and to be viewed on the Directory Online.

3. A program's Training Director may make changes to its Directory Online listing at any time. Each Training Director is responsible for ensuring that the program's information listed in the APPIC Directory is accurate and up-to-date. APPIC takes no responsibility for inaccurate or outdated information or for information that has been incorrectly entered by the program.

4. Each member is entitled to one listing in the directory. A member is defined as a separate, freestanding program. If an agency houses more than one distinct program with its own admission's procedure and/or curriculum, then each program must be considered a separate member, and each should submit a separate dues payment and Directory update sheet. True consortia or collaborative programs and single programs with separate tracks should designate a single training director and chief psychologist for their directory listing. If more than one training director and/or more than one chief psychologist are listed, only the first name listed will appear in the Directory.
APPIC POLICIES

APPIC MEMBER POLICY

Adopted 1994

1. APPIC member programs conform to the basic ethical requirements of the profession as set forth in the current APA Ethical Principles for Psychologists.

2. APPIC member programs demonstrate high regard for human dignity. Dehumanizing practices or other restrictions on the exercise of civil and human rights in any part of the activities of APPIC members is unacceptable. As members of APPIC, training agencies have practices that are nondiscriminatory in regard to race/ethnic background, gender, age, sexual orientation, lifestyle, and disabilities.
INTRODUCTION

Applicants for membership in APPIC must meet all of the criteria below. Programs are reviewed for adherence to the criteria every three years. Internships that are accredited by the American Psychological Association or the Canadian Psychological Association at the time of initial application are recognized as meeting APPIC doctoral membership criteria and are automatically approved by the APPIC Board.

New applications and resubmitted applications are reviewed for compliance with all criteria at one of the biannual membership committee meetings. Programs that meet all criteria are recommended to the APPIC Board for membership approval. Programs that are deficient in any membership criteria may submit information to the committee for a re-review of their applications. Programs who have not met criteria will be informed in detail about information or programmatic changes needed to meet membership criteria. These programs may submit updated applications for re-review one time within two meeting periods without completing another full application and without paying another application fee. After one re-review or a delay over one year, the program needs to complete a new application and pay another application fee.

Educational Note: Adherence to APPIC membership criteria does not guarantee meeting individual state licensing requirements.

CRITERIA AND CLARIFICATION (Criteria In Bold)

1. A psychology internship is an organized training program that, in contrast to supervised experience or on-the-job training, is designed to provide the intern with a planned, programmed sequence of training experiences. The primary focus and purpose is assuring breadth and quality of training.

Clarification:

- The organization of an internship program is evident in a clear:
  a) statement of the goals and objectives of the training activities.
  b) description of the plan, location, and sequence of direct service experiences.
  c) description of the training curriculum; i.e., the content, duration, and frequency of the training activities.
  d) description of how the psychology training program is integrated into the larger organization.
- For programs with multiple sites, the services rendered by interns, the supervision offered, and the training director’s involvement is clearly described for each site.
2. The internship agency has a clearly designated doctoral level staff psychologist who is responsible for the integrity and quality of the training program. This person is actively licensed, certified, or registered by the State Board of Examiners in the jurisdiction where the program exists, and is present at the training facility for a minimum of 20 hours a week.

Clarification:
- The internship is administered by a doctoral level licensed (certified or registered for independent practice) psychologist who:
  a) directs, and organizes the training program and its resources.
  b) is responsible for selection of interns.
  c) monitors and evaluates the training program’s goals and activities.
  d) documents and maintains interns’ training records.

3. The internship agency training staff consists of at least two full time equivalent doctoral level psychologists, who are actively licensed, certified, or registered as a psychologist by the Board of Examiners in the jurisdiction where the program exists, who serve as primary supervisors.

Clarification:
- Interns' primary clinical supervision and role modeling must be provided by psychologists on the program's staff who are licensed (certified or registered) for independent practice at the doctoral level and who are:
  a) officially designated as psychology intern supervisors.
  b) significantly involved in the operation of the training program.

4. Intern supervision is provided by staff members of the internship agency or by qualified affiliates of that agency who carry clinical responsibility for the cases being supervised. Regularly scheduled individual supervision is provided by one or more doctoral level licensed psychologists, at a ratio of no less than one hour of supervision for every 20 internship hours. Supervision is provided with the specific intent of dealing with psychological services rendered directly by the intern.

Clarification:
- Supervisors need to be clearly designated by the agency as clinically responsible for the cases (for example, countersigning documentation or having their name on the treatment plan or case summary). Depending on clinical needs, increased hours of supervision are expected. The required hours shall be through face-to-face individual supervision (rural sites may use visual telecommunication technology in unusual circumstances and when face-to-face supervision is impractical, but must demonstrate that such technology provides sufficient oversight). Programs shall adhere to all requirements of their state licensing boards.

5. The internship provides training in a range of psychological assessment and intervention activities conducted directly with recipients of psychological services.

Clarification:
- Internship training in Psychology is primarily based on experiential learning which:
  - a) provides psychological services directly to consumers in the form of psychological assessment, treatment, and consultation.
  - b) exposes interns to a variety of types of psychological services and consumers.

6. At least 25% of trainees' time is in face-to-face psychological services to patients/clients.

7. The internship must provide at least 2 hours per week in didactic activities such as case conferences, seminars, in-service training, or grand rounds.

Clarification:
- The Psychology training program should have scheduled didactic experiences available to meet the training needs of their interns.

8. Internship training is at post-clerkship, post-practicum, and post-externship level, and precedes the granting of the doctoral degree.

Clarification:
- Interns must have completed adequate and appropriate prerequisite training prior to the internship. This would include:
  - a) completion of formal academic coursework at a degree-granting program in professional psychology (clinical, counseling, school), and;
  - b) closely supervised experiential training in professional psychology skills conducted in non-classroom settings.

9. The internship agency has a minimum of two interns at the predoctoral internship level of training during any training year. These interns must be at least half-time (i.e., 20 hours per week). The minimum number of interns must be on site and in training at the time of the initial application for APPIC membership.

Clarification:
- The intention of this criterion is to allow opportunities for personal (face-to-face) interaction with peers in formal settings in the training program and on the training site during each training week. Part-time internships must ensure that intern schedules sufficiently overlap to allow substantial and meaningful peer contact.
10. The internship level psychology trainees have a title such as "intern," "resident," "fellow," or other designation of trainee status.

11. The internship agency has a written statement or brochure which provides a clear description of the nature of the training program, including the goals and content of the internship and clear expectations for quantity and quality of the trainee's work. It is made available to prospective interns.

Clarification:
- Internship programs must make available descriptions of their training program which give their applicants and interns a clear understanding of the program in terms of:
  a) the program's training goals and objectives.
  b) the program’s training methods, content, and curriculum (for example, required rotations, sample weekly schedules, or available training seminars).
  c) the program's training resources (e.g., training/supervisory staff, physical facilities and training equipment, clerical support, etc.).
  d) the sites at which training and services are provided. For programs with multiple sites, clear descriptions are given for each site of services rendered by interns, supervision offered, and involvement of the training director.

12. Internship programs have documented due process procedures that describe separately how programs deal with (1) concerns about intern performance, and (2) interns' concerns about training. These procedures include the steps of notice, hearing and appeal and are given to the interns at the beginning of the training period.

Clarification:
- Due process procedures describe how an agency deals with intern impairment issues and how the interns’ grievances with the training program are handled. The documentation would include:
  a) a description of formal evaluation and complaint procedures.
  b) the program’s and intern’s responsibilities and rights in the process.
  c) the appeal process.
  d) a description of procedures if interns have grievances about their training or supervision.

13. The internship experience (minimum 1500 hours) must be completed in no less than 9 months and no more than 24 months.

Clarification:
- Internships may be conducted on a full- or part-time basis.
14. APPIC member programs are required to issue a certificate of internship completion, which includes the word “Psychology,” to all interns who have successfully completed the program.

15. At least twice a year the internship program conducts formal written evaluations of each trainee’s performance.

Clarification:
- The written evaluation process provides comprehensive evaluative feedback to doctoral psychology interns as follows:
  a) The evaluation provides summary information of performance in all major competence areas that are a focus of internship training.
  b) Interns have the opportunity to review their evaluation with supervisors to ensure the fullest possible communication between supervisors and interns.
  c) Evaluation procedures provide feedback that validates trainees’ achievements by noting areas of unusual strength and excellence and facilitate trainees’ further growth by identifying areas that would benefit from additional training.
  d) The program provides the doctoral psychology intern’s graduate training director with feedback concerning the intern’s progress in the internship program.

16. The program has the necessary financial resources to achieve its training goals and objectives. Intern stipends shall be reasonable, fair, and stated clearly in advance. Unfunded internship positions are allowable only in unusual and infrequent circumstances.

Clarification:
- APPIC requires internship positions to be equitably funded across the site. Intern stipends shall be set at a level that is representative and fair in relationship to the geographic location and clinical setting of the training site. Unfunded or poorly funded internship positions are allowed only in unusual and infrequent circumstances in which the creation of such a position would serve to alleviate a hardship for the potential intern candidate. Examples of such hardships may include geographic limitations due to family circumstances or difficulties finding suitable placement. In such cases, the “burden of evidence” lies with the program to demonstrate that the lack of funding does not adversely affect morale or quality of training. In addition, training resources should be sufficient to afford the same training for an unfunded or poorly funded position as for fully funded positions.

The payment of a stipend is a concrete acknowledgment that a trainee in the agency is valued and emphasizes that the primary task of the year is educational in nature. Stipends are generally lower than a salary received by a regular employee and implies that there is a significant training component in addition to experiential learning. Stipends are equal among trainees unless there is an extenuating circumstance (e.g., specialized skills, consortia agreements). This distinction between trainee and regular employee emphasizes that an internship is "an organized training program, in contrast to supervised experience or on-the-job training."

GRANDPARENTING PROVISION: Programs that are current APPIC members on the date of implementation of this criterion, but do not meet the criterion or clarification on that date, must request an exception at the time of each membership renewal. An exception may be granted if the program demonstrates that they have made reasonable efforts to secure funding and describes its plan to obtain future funding in order to meet this criterion.
INTRODUCTION

Applicants for membership in APPIC must meet all of the following criteria. Programs that are accredited by the American Psychological Association (APA) at the time of initial application are recognized as meeting APPIC postdoctoral membership criteria, and are automatically eligible for recommendation to the APPIC Board of Directors for approval. Programs that are not APA-accredited are reviewed for adherence to APPIC membership criteria every three years.

New applications and program reviews are evaluated for compliance with all criteria at one of the biannual Postdoctoral Membership Committee meetings. Programs that meet all criteria are recommended to the APPIC Board of Directors for approval of membership. Programs that have not met criteria will be informed about needed changes. These programs may submit updated applications for re-review once within one calendar year without completing another full application and without paying another application fee. After one re-review or a delay over one year, the program seeking membership will need to complete a new application and pay another application fee. There is no fee for the review of member programs.

CRITERIA AND CLARIFICATION (Criteria in bold)

1. A postdoctoral training program is an organized experience which, in contrast to on-the-job training, is designed to provide the Fellow with a planned, programmed sequence of supervised training experiences. The primary task is advanced training in an area of professional psychology.

Clarification:
- The organization of a postdoctoral program is evident in a clear:
  a) statement of the goals and objectives of the training activities.
  b) description of the training plan, location, and sequence of direct service experiences.
  c) description of the training curriculum: i.e., the content, duration, and frequency of the training activities.
  d) description of how the psychology training program is integrated into the larger organization.
- For programs with multiple sites, the services rendered by the Fellow, the supervision provided, and the training director's involvement is clearly described for each site.
2. The postdoctoral program has a designated psychologist who is clearly responsible for the integrity and quality of the training program, who has administrative authority commensurate with those responsibilities, and who is licensed as a psychologist in the jurisdiction where the program exists. This director has expertise in an area of postdoctoral training offered and has credentials of excellence such as the American Board of Professional Psychology diploma, status as a fellow in APA or CPA, record of active research productivity, or clear evidence of professional competence and leadership.

Clarification:
- The postdoctoral program is administered by a doctoral level licensed (certified or registered for independent practice) psychologist who:
  a) directs and organizes the training program and its resources.
  b) is responsible for selection of Fellows.
  c) monitors and evaluates the training program's goals and activities.
  d) documents and maintains Fellows' training records.

3. The sponsoring institution has two or more psychologists on staff who are currently licensed as psychologists in the jurisdiction in which the program exists. The postdoctoral program has a training faculty which includes at least one psychologist with expertise in each area of postdoctoral training offered and has credentials of excellence such as a fellow in APA or CPA, record of active research productivity, or clear evidence of professional competence and leadership in that program focus area.

Clarification:
- Postdoctoral Fellows' primary clinical supervision and role modeling must be provided by psychologists licensed (certified or registered) for independent practice at the doctoral level on the program's staff who:
  a) are officially designated as postdoctoral program supervisors.
  b) are significantly involved in the training program.
  c) show evidence of expertise in the focus area(s) of the training program.

4. The postdoctoral program includes a minimum of two hours per week of regularly scheduled, face-to-face individual supervision with the specific intent of supervising the psychological services rendered directly by the Fellow. This supervision is provided by staff members of the sponsoring institution who carry professional practice responsibility for the cases being supervised and are licensed as psychologists in the jurisdiction in which the program exists.
Clarification:

- Supervisors need to be clearly designated by the agency as professionally responsible for the cases (for example, countersigning documentation or having their name on the treatment plan or case summary). Two hours of regularly scheduled, face-to-face, individual supervision by a licensed psychologist should be provided weekly regardless of whether the postdoctoral program is one year full-time, or two years half-time.

5. In addition to individual supervision, the program includes at least two additional hours per week in learning activities, such as: case conferences involving cases in which the Fellow is actively involved; seminars dealing with clinical issues; co-therapy with a staff person, including discussion; group supervision; or additional individual supervision.

Clarification:

- Above and beyond the two hours of individual supervision each Fellow receives weekly, the Postdoctoral Program should provide two hours per week of additional learning experiences, regardless of whether the program is one year full-time, or two years half-time. These learning experiences should be regularly scheduled, and may include but are not limited to additional individual or group supervision, seminars, case conferences, workshops, or co-therapy with a supervisor. Clear descriptions of the learning activities should be provided.

6. At least 25% of the Fellow's time is in professional psychological services.

Clarification:

- A minimum of 25% of the Fellow's time should be spent in professional psychological services to patients/clients, students, consultees, and/or agencies. These services may include but are not limited to assessment, intervention, consultation, policy making, program design and implementation, provision of supervision, and clinical research.

7. Admission requirements include completion of all professional doctoral degree requirements from a regionally accredited institution of higher education or an APA/CPA-accredited program and predoctoral internship meeting APPIC standards. This is defined as having on the first day of the fellowship either the diploma in hand or a letter from the Director of graduate studies verifying the completion of all degree requirements pending institution graduation ceremony. APA guidelines on specialty change are followed. Fellows having completed doctoral studies in fields other than clinical, counseling, or school psychology must have received a certificate of equivalency from an APA/CPA approved university program attesting to their having met APA/CPA standards, including internship.

Clarification:

- Postdoctoral Fellows must have completed the doctoral degree before beginning their postdoctoral training. At a minimum, Fellows must have completed all requirements for the doctoral degree from a regionally accredited institution of higher learning, including an internship meeting APPIC standards.
  a) If the Postdoctoral Training Program requires that Fellows possess a doctoral degree from an APA- or CPA-accredited program, it need not state the requirement that it be a regionally accredited institution of higher learning. In this case, the brochure should state that Fellows must have completed all doctoral degree requirements from an APA/CPA-accredited program.
  b) If the Postdoctoral Training Program requires that Fellows have completed an APA- or CPA-accredited internship, it need not state the requirement that it meets APPIC standards. In this case, the brochure should state that Fellows must have completed an APA/CPA-accredited internship.
  c) If the Postdoctoral Training Program does not require completion of an APA- or CPA-accredited doctoral degree program or an APA- or CPA-accredited internship, the brochure should state that Fellows must have completed all professional doctoral degree requirements from a regionally accredited institution of higher education, including an internship meeting APPIC standards.
  d) If the Postdoctoral Training Program accepts applications from individuals who have previously received a doctoral degree in some area of psychology other than clinical, counseling or school, the brochure should state that such applicants must have received a certificate of equivalency from an APA/CPA approved university program designed for the “retraining” of such psychologists, attesting to completion of all requirements, including an internship meeting APPIC standards.

8. The postdoctoral agency has a minimum of one full-time equivalent Postdoctoral Fellow at the postdoctoral level of training. This Postdoctoral Fellow must be on site and in training at the time of initial application for APPIC Membership.

Clarification:

- The agency must have a minimum of one full-time Fellow or two half time Fellows in training at the time of initial application for APPIC Membership, and should maintain this minimum for any period of training. In special circumstances, such as changes in funding or reorganization, the Postdoctoral Training Program may maintain APPIC Membership for up to one year without training Fellows, as long as the training program is otherwise in good standing.
9. Postdoctoral trainees have a title, such as "Intern," "Resident," "Fellow," or other designation of trainee status.

Clarification:
- The title should indicate the Fellow is in training, and it is helpful if the title distinguishes the Fellow from other trainees, e.g., if the title "Intern," is used, then the full title should be "Postdoctoral Intern," to distinguish the Fellow from those completing a predoctoral internship.

10. The sponsoring institution has a written statement or brochure made available to prospective Fellows which describes the goals and content of the program, program organization, entrance requirements, program faculty/staff and mechanisms for Fellow evaluation.

Clarification:
- Postdoctoral training programs must make available descriptions of their training programs which give applicants and Fellows a clear understanding of the program in terms of:
  a) the program's training goals and objectives.
  b) the program's training methods, content, and curriculum, including rotations offered or required, seminars, supervision, and other training experiences.
  c) the program's training resources, including training/supervisory staff, physical facilities, training support.
  d) the sites at which training and services are provided. For programs with multiple sites, clear descriptions are given for each site of services rendered by Fellows, supervision offered, and involvement of the Director of Training.
  e) specific application requirements. Postdoctoral programs must clearly indicate that applicants must have completed all requirements for the doctoral degree before beginning their postdoctoral training, and that they must have received the doctoral degree from an APA/CPA-accredited program or from a "regionally accredited institution of higher education," including an APA/CPA-accredited internship or an internship "meeting APPIC standards," as described in Criteria #7.
  f) methods of Fellow evaluation, including the frequency of evaluation (a minimum of 2 written evaluations per year) and an indication of due process procedures in the event of a grievance.
  g) licensure requirements for postdoctoral supervised practice. Programs must indicate whether satisfactory completion of the postdoctoral training program meets postdoctoral supervised practice requirements for licensure or certification in the jurisdiction within which the program resides.

11. Postdoctoral programs have documented due process procedures, including notice, hearing, and appeal, for postdoctoral trainees.
These procedures are given to postdoctoral trainees at the beginning of the postdoctoral training period.

Clarification:
- At the beginning of their appointment, postdoctoral trainees should be given copies of policies and procedures related to problem-solving and filing grievances.

12. The postdoctoral training program (minimum 1500 hours) must be completed in no less than 9 months and no more than 24 months (two years half-time). Depending on the area and standards of specialty practice, a postdoctoral program may be more than one year.

Clarification:
- Postdoctoral training programs may be part-time or full-time experiences, and must be completed in not less than nine months, and not more than two years. Fellows must receive two hours per week of individual supervision and two hours per week of additional training activities as described in Criteria #4 and #5, regardless of their full-time or part-time status.

13. A certificate of completion is granted upon fulfillment of the program requirements.

Clarification:
- The certificate should clearly indicate:
  a) the name of the institution, organization or agency.
  b) the postdoctoral nature of the training program.
  c) the focus area of the training program, if applicable.
  d) beginning and ending dates of the fellow's training.
- The Director of Training should sign the certificate.
- Example: the XYZ University certifies that Jane Doe, Ph.D. has successfully completed a postdoctoral fellowship in Clinical Psychology from September 1, 2006 to August 31, 2007.

14. The program has the necessary financial resources to achieve its training goals and objectives. Postdoctoral stipends shall be reasonable, fair, and stated clearly in advance. Unfunded postdoctoral positions are allowable only in unusual and infrequent circumstances.

Clarification:
- APPIC requires postdoctoral positions to be equitably funded across the site. Postdoctoral stipends shall be set at a level that is representative and fair in relationship to the geographic location and clinical setting of the training site. Unfunded or poorly funded postdoctoral positions are allowed only in unusual and infrequent circumstances in which the creation of such a position would serve to alleviate a hardship for the potential postdoctoral candidate. Examples of such hardships may include geographic limitations due to family circumstances or difficulties finding suitable placement. In such cases, the "burden of evidence" lies with the program to demonstrate that the lack of funding does not adversely affect morale or quality of training. In addition, training resources should be sufficient to afford the same training for an unfunded or poorly funded position as for fully funded positions.

The payment of a stipend is a concrete acknowledgment that a trainee in the agency is valued and emphasizes that the primary task of the year is educational in nature. Stipends are generally lower than a salary received by a regular employee and implies that there is a significant training component in addition to experiential learning. Stipends are equal among trainees unless there is an extenuating circumstance (e.g., specialized skills, consortia agreements). This distinction between trainee and regular employee emphasizes that a postdoctoral program is "an organized training program, in contrast to supervised experience or on-the-job training."

GRANDPARENTING PROVISION: Programs that are current APPIC members on the date of implementation of this criterion, but do not meet the criterion or clarification on that date, must request an exception at the time of each membership renewal. An exception may be granted if the program demonstrates that they have made reasonable efforts to secure funding and describes its plan to obtain future funding in order to meet this criterion.
In addition to meeting the APPIC membership criteria for Doctoral Psychology Internship Programs or Postdoctoral Training Programs, consortia programs must demonstrate evidence of the following:

1. A primary consortium director or co-directors must be present at one or more of the training facilities for at least 20 hours a week.

   Clarification:
   - The program is administered by a doctoral level licensed (certified or registered for independent practice) psychologist or psychologists who:
     a) must be at one facility at least 20 hours/week and can be at additional facilities for additional hours beyond the 20 hours spent at the first facility.
     b) coordinates and organizes the consortium-wide training program and its resources.
     c) coordinates the selection of interns or post-doctoral residents.
     d) monitors and evaluates the training program's goals and activities.
     e) oversees the documentation and maintenance of interns' or post-doctoral residents' training records.

2. Each agency or site has at least one clearly designated, appropriately credentialed doctoral level staff psychologist who is responsible for the integrity and quality of training and present at the agency/site for a minimum of 20 hours per week.

   Clarification:
   - At each site there is a doctoral level licensed (certified or registered for independent practice) psychologist who:
     a) directs and organizes the training program and its resources at that site.
     b) is involved in the selection of interns and/or post-doctoral residents.
     c) monitors and evaluates the training program's goals and activities at that site.
     d) is responsible for documenting and maintaining interns' and/or post-doctoral residents' training records at that site.
     e) regularly participates in the consortium wide training faculty/staff meetings.

3. Regularly scheduled consortium-wide activities, including formal, didactic face-to-face contact among trainees at least monthly; ongoing informal contact among trainees across sites; and structured faculty meetings at least quarterly.
Clarification:
- The Psychology training program should have scheduled didactic experiences available to meet the training needs of their interns and/or post-doctoral residents.
  a) A schedule of face-to-face contacts when all the interns or post-doctoral residents are together is provided including dates, hours, topics covered, and presenters.
  b) Opportunities for ongoing informal contact among trainees (e.g. listserv, scheduled lunches) are described.
  c) Faculty/staff training meetings are scheduled at least quarterly where faculty discuss issues related to the overall program, interns'/post-doctoral residents' performance and program evaluation.

4. A formal plan outlining the didactic activities and procedures provided in the training program.

Clarification:
- A description of the complete training program for each site must be provided.
  a) Refer to Clarification #3a for Consortia programs above as well as Item #1 for Doctoral Criteria and Item #1 for Post-Doctoral Criteria.
  b) Information should be provided for all training that is provided throughout the consortia, as well as all training that is provided specific to each site.
  c) If this information is already well documented elsewhere, reference is made to those sections of the report.

5. Assurance of trainee contact with more than one supervisor.

Clarification:
- Interns' primary clinical supervision and role modeling must be provided by two or more psychologists licensed (certified or registered for independent practice) at the doctoral level within the consortium who are:
  a) officially designated as psychology intern or post-doctoral resident supervisors.
  b) significantly involved in the operation of the training program.

6. A written consortia contractual agreement delineating:
  a) the nature and characteristics of the participating entities;
  b) the rationale for the consortia partnership;
  c) each partner's commitment to the training/education, program, its philosophy, model, and goals;
  d) each partner's obligations regarding contributions and access to resources;
  e) each partner's adherence to central control and coordination of the training program;
f) each partner’s commitment to uniform administration and implementation of the program’s training principles, policies, and procedures addressing trainee/student;
g) admission, financial support, training resource access, potential performance expectations, and evaluations (Guidelines and Principles for Accreditation of Programs in Professional Psychology; Committee on Accreditation of the American Psychological Association); and
h) due process procedures including notice, hearing and appeal.

Clarification:

- This document should be signed and dated by an individual with administrative authority (such as Director, Executive Director, Director of Finance, or Department Chair) from each of the agencies within the consortia. It is advisable that the Director of Training of the consortia internship training program also signs the agreement.

  a) The documentation should clarify the length and duration of the contract, as well as the renewal process.
  b) This document should be binding for at least the duration of the internship/post-doc program training year.
  c) The training faculty should review this document annually.
  d) Due process procedures describe how each agency within the consortia deals with problematic intern performance issues and how the interns' grievances with the training program are handled. The documentation would include:
    - the formal evaluation and complaint procedures;
    - the program's and intern's responsibilities and rights in the process;
    - the appeal process;
    - procedures if interns have grievances about their training or supervision.
  e) Consortia member sites should document that these due process procedures have been reviewed in their consortia-wide training faculty/staff meetings. The training faculty/staff should determine the compatibility of their procedures. Given the constraints of each site, where possible procedures should be made comparable.
  f) This document should describe how APPIC would be informed that there have been significant changes in any aspect of the program outlined above (e.g. leadership, site membership) within one month of those changes occurring.

INTERN APPLICANTS

APPIC has adopted the following policies of the American Psychological Association concerning intern applicants: (1) Intern applicants shall have completed practicum experience and be enrolled in a doctoral program in professional psychology which requires internship training; and (2) The internship is an essential component of the training for persons seeking to change to a professional specialty for which they were originally not prepared. It must be stressed that taking an internship, or acquiring experience in a practicum setting, is not sufficient preparation for becoming a clinical, counseling, or school psychologist without prior training in the relevant specialty area. The internship experience is properly seen as only one element in the change of specialty. Thus, doctoral psychologists who are attempting to qualify as practitioners in an area different from that emphasized in their original training must be certified in writing by a director of a doctoral-level professional psychology training program in the new specialty, and as having completed an organized program of didactic and practicum work which is the equivalent of the usual preinternship preparation in the specialty area. APPIC members will not, therefore, accept applicants who do not meet these and other current policies regarding re-specialization in professional psychology.

Upon written request signed by a former member and filed with the Secretary, or designee, the Board of Directors, may, by the affirmative vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the members of the Board, reinstate such former member to membership upon such terms as the Board of Directors may deem appropriate if the former member has been inactive for one year or less. If a former member has been inactive for greater than one year, the program must reapply through the formal application process.
Section 7. Transfer of Membership. Membership in this Association is not transferable or assignable.

Article VI. Membership Meetings

Section 2. Special Meeting. The Chair of the Board of Directors, the Board, or not less than one-tenth of the members having voting rights may call special meetings of the members.

Section 3. Place of Meeting. The Board of Directors may designate any place as the place of meeting for any annual meeting or for any special meeting called by the Board. If no designation is made or if a special meeting be otherwise called, the place of meeting shall be the registered office of the Association; but if all of the members shall meet at any time and place and consent to the holding of a meeting, such meeting shall be valid without call or notice, and at such meeting any association action may be taken.

Section 4. Notice of Meetings. Written notice stating the place, day, and hour of any meeting of members shall be sent to each member entitled to vote at such meeting, not less than 10 or more than 150 days before the date of such meeting, by or at the direction of the Chair, the Secretary, the officers, or persons calling the meeting. In case of a special meeting or when required by statute or by these bylaws, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called shall be stated in the notice. If mailed, the notice of a meeting shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail addressed to the member at his/her address as it appears on the records of the Association, with postage thereon prepaid.

Section 5. Informal Action by Members. Any action required by law to be taken at a meeting of the members, or any action which may be taken at a meeting of members, may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by all of the members entitled to vote with respect to the subject matter thereto.

Section 6. Quorum. No less than 25 members shall constitute a quorum at any meeting. If a quorum is not present at any meeting of members, a majority of the members present may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice.

Section 7. Proxies. At any meeting of members, a member entitled to vote may vote by proxy executed in writing by the member. No proxy shall be valid after 11 months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. Only other members shall exercise proxies.

Article VII. Management of the Association

Section 1. Board of Directors. The affairs, business, government, and management of the Association shall be vested in a Board of Directors.

Section 2. Number, Tenure and Qualifications. The number of Board of Directors members who are representatives of the members of the Association shall be seven. Each member shall hold office for 3 years and until her/his successor is elected and qualified, subject to restrictions found in these bylaws. Service on the Board of Directors shall be limited to two consecutive terms, which must be followed by a three-year interval before further terms. This section does not apply to members appointed to fill vacancies on the committee, as provided by Section 5 of this Article. In addition, there will be one member who represents the public. The term for the public member will be 3 years, or until his/her successor is elected and qualified, subject to restrictions found in these bylaws, and renewable at the pleasure of the Board and the public member.

Section 3. Election to Board of Directors. Members shall elect board members, who are representatives of the members of the Association, by mail ballot from nominations submitted by the Board prior to the annual meeting of the membership. The ballot shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail addressed to the member at her/his address as it appears on the records of the Association, with postage thereon paid. Ballots shall be returned within 30 days of that date. In case of a tie vote for a single position on the Board, a run-off election shall be held by a special ballot mailed to members. Elections shall be staggered so that no less than two Board members who are representatives of the members of the Association shall be elected each year. The public member of the Board will be elected by the other Board members after being nominated prior to the annual meeting of the membership.

Section 4. Meetings.

A. Regular Meetings. Two regular meetings of the Board of Directors shall be held without other notice than this bylaw, one immediately before, and at the same place, as the annual meeting of members. The Board may provide by resolution the time and place for the holding of additional regular meetings of the Board without other notice for such resolution.

B. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be called by or at the request of the Chair or any two Board members. The person or persons authorized to call special meetings of the Board may fix any place as the place for holding any special meeting of the Board called by them.
C. Notice. Notice of any special meeting of the Board of Directors shall be sent at least 2 days previous to the meeting to each Board member at his/her address as shown by the records of the Association. Any Board member at any meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a Board member attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the Board needs to be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of such meeting, unless specifically required by law or by these bylaws.

D. Quorum. A majority of the Board of Directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Board; but if less than a majority of the Board are present at said meeting, a majority of the Board present may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice until a quorum is present, when any business may be transacted that may have been transacted at the meeting as originally called.

E. Manner of Acting. The act of a majority of the Board of Directors present at a meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board, unless the act of a greater number is required by law or by these bylaws.

Section 5. Vacancies. Any vacancy occurring in the Board of Directors and any Board position to be filled by reason of an increase in the number of Board members may be filled by the affirmative vote of a majority of the remaining Board. A Board member elected to fill a vacancy shall be elected for the unexpired term of her/his predecessor in office.

Section 6. Compensation. Board of Directors members as such shall not receive any stated salaries for their services, but by resolution of the Board a fixed sum and expenses of attendance, if any, may be allowed for attendance at each regular or special meeting of the Board; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to preclude any Board member from serving the Association in any other capacity and receiving compensation therefore.

Section 7. Informal Action by Board of Directors. Any action required by law to be taken at a meeting of the Board, or any action which may be taken at a meeting of the Board, may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by all of the Board members.

Article VIII. Duties and Powers of the Officers and Executive Committee

Section 1. Officers. The Officers of the Association shall be a Chair, Vice-Chair, a Secretary, a Treasurer, and/or such other officers as may be elected in accordance with the provisions of this Article. The Board of Directors shall elect from among its members the officers it shall deem advisable, such officers to have the authority and perform the duties prescribed, from time to time, by the Board. The Board shall determine the term as officer, as it shall deem advisable, but in no event shall the term as officer exceed 3 years. It is permissible for an individual to have more than one term in office subject to the provisions of Article VII, Sections 2 and 5. The same person may not hold two offices simultaneously.

A. Chair. The Chair shall be the principal officer of the Association and shall in general manage all of the business and affairs of the Association. He/she shall preside at all meetings of the members and of the Board of Directors. He/she shall sign, with the Treasurer or any other proper officer of the Association authorized by the Board of Directors, any deeds, mortgages, bonds, contracts, or other instruments which the Board has authorized to be executed, except in cases where the signing and execution thereof shall be expressly delegated by the Board or by these bylaws or by statute to some other officer or agent of the Association; and in general he/she shall perform all duties incident to the office of the Chair and such other duties as may be prescribed by the Board from time to time.

B. Vice-Chair. In the absence of the Chair or in event of her/his inability or refusal to act, the Vice-Chair shall perform the duties of the Chair and when so acting, shall have all the powers of and be subject to all restrictions upon the Chair. Any Vice-Chair shall perform such duties as from time to time may be assigned to her/him by the Chair or by the Board of Directors.

C. Treasurer. Additional Information About Training Opportunities

The Consortium intends to apply for APA accreditation for its postdoctoral residency program within a few years.

Program Description

The Arizona Psychology Training Consortium is a non-profit subsidiary corporation of the Arizona Psychological Association. The Consortium was developed to create internships and postdoctoral residencies. Community mental health, alternative school, neuropsychology, managed care, rural psychology and private practice sites are available. There are no clinical rotations between the training sites. All of the residencies provide advanced training in psychotherapy, cultural diversity, and independent practice. Residents participate in two-day didactic training events each month. There is a considerable amount of travel to the statewide training events. Training opportunities are provided by academicians and practitioners from several Arizona universities, community agencies, and practices. In addition, members of the Arizona Psychological Association serve as mentors to residents to enhance their career development and networking opportunities. There is a selection preference for applicants from Arizona universities and internship programs, but applicants from any regionally accredited Clinical, Counseling, and School Psychology programs are encouraged to apply. Applicants must send at least two complete application packets. One complete application packet goes to the Consortium. Also send one complete application packet to each individual training site of interest. Please review the application procedures described on the Arizona Psychological Association website at www.azpa.org. During the application process, frequently check the website for new Consortium training opportunities.

Program Description
The Counseling & Consultation (C&C) postdoctoral residency is a 2000 hour, 12 month advanced training program designed to prepare the resident for a staff psychologist position in a university counseling center. It meets the postdoctoral supervised experience requirements for licensure in Arizona.C&C has a multidisciplinary staff, including psychologists, counselors, social workers, and psychiatrists. Its mission is to serve a diverse student population, and models and promotes the valuing of human differences on individual, organization, and community levels as well as the facilitation of human potential. The postdoctoral resident is encouraged to tailor the program to specific interests. Depending upon agency resources, possible interest areas include: 1) work with a particular clinical issue such as substance abuse or eating disorders; 2) work with a diversity focus (for example, working with an ethnically diverse clientele or working with diversity of sexual orientation; 3) outreach and consultation; 4) agency administration; 5) training program administration. At the beginning of the program, the resident meets with the Training Director to develop a training contract reflecting individual interests. The program uses a developmental-practitioner training model and training activities are focused on developing existing skills through a range of professional activities, training, and feedback. Residents provide individual and group therapy, outreach, consultation, crisis intervention (both daytime and after-hours), and supervise masters or doctoral level advanced practicum students. Residents participate in weekly clinical team meetings, agency staff meetings, staff development programs, and agency committees.

Program Description

Casa Pacifica is a residential treatment center and a non-public school for emotionally disturbed adolescents within the community. We also offer temporary shelter for abused and neglected children and adolescents. Our two-year postdoctoral program offers advanced general training in child and adolescent clinical psychology with emphasis on community mental health. Our training program is an organized experience which, in contrast to on-job training, is designed to provide the Fellow with a planned, programmed sequence of supervised training experiences. We also provide advanced clinical training in cognitive behavioral interventions, crisis management, brief and long-term psychotherapy, group therapy, and consultation. Our supervision satisfies California licensing requirements. To be eligible, applicants must have completed a doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology and preference is given to applicants from programs with APA accreditation. Admission requirements include completion of all professional degree requirements from a regionally accredited institute of higher education or an APA/CPA accredited program and completion of a Predoctoral internship that meets APPIC standards. Applicants must provide a letter from the director of the graduate program that stipulates the applicant has completed requirements for the doctorate and will graduate by the starting date of the Fellowship. WE REQUIRE COMPLETION OF A CASA PACIFICA POSTDOCTORAL APPLICATION.

Casa Pacifica is located outside of Los Angeles in the community of Camarillo, a few miles from the Pacific Ocean and one hour south of Santa Barbara. It is a beautiful setting adjacent to California's newest University at Channel Islands.

Program Description

Our fellowship program provides advanced training opportunities in the core service areas provided by CAPS including: Intake Assessment, Crisis Intervention, Brief Psychotherapy, Multicultural Counseling, Career Counseling, Consultation to Campus Units and Departments, Program Development and Outreach. The program stresses Generalist Training, with the goal of preparing the fellow for a staff position in a university counseling center. At the same time, this program offers specialized training in several emphasis areas: Behavioral Medicine, Eating Disorders, Sport Psychology, Supervision, and a Clinical Practice area depending upon the fellow's interests and experience level, as well as the current needs of the Center. The educational philosophy and training model is to provide training grounded in the scientific principles of our profession that emphasize the area of applied practice. The overarching objective is to train ethical, competent psychologists who are capable of functioning independently and will contribute both to the welfare of society and to the profession. The training staff realizes that the most important learning occurs through providing service under the direct supervision and mentorship of a senior staff professional. Such “learning by doing” is guided, enriched and deepened through the postdoctoral seminar and clinical rotations, consultations, and in-service staff development activities. The fellowship program is defined by a commitment to the following goals: Goal #1: Commitment to mentoring and the scientist-practitioner model; Goal #2: Commitment to a broad range of skill development; Goal #3: Commitment to training in providing services to a diverse clientele; Goal #4: Commitment to personal growth and professional identity; Goal #5: Commitment to flexibility in developing each fellow's training program. See our website for a full description of our postdoctoral program.

Program Description

LMU is a private, Catholic undergraduate and graduate institution located on the bluffs above Marina del Rey. Student Psychological Services is a department in the Division of Student Affairs. In a belief that the glory of God is a human being fully alive, the Division of Student Affairs supports the University mission through programs and services designed to advance student learning.” In keeping with the mission, SPS aims “to foster students’ personal, social, and intellectual development and emotional health by providing psychological services to students and by serving as an educational and consultative resource to the University community. Services are provided in a safe environment that is respectful of cultural and individual differences. LMU is a highly ranked regional university, and the student body of approximately 6,000 undergraduates and 2,000 graduate students is highly diverse. SPS is centrally located in new offices. Our postdoctoral fellowship is in its 7th year. In addition to providing direct services, Fellows participate in campus events, serve on university committees, and conduct research/program evaluation. Supervision meets licensure requirements, and Fellows have the opportunity to work with all staff members. Required hours are 1500 for the year.
The Reiss-Davis Child Study Center is a postdoctoral training program in psychology designed for psychologists who wish to further their training in psychodynamic theory and practice, incorporating a neurobiopsychosocial developmental view in work with children, adolescents, and their parents/caregivers. The program utilizes a diagnostic and treatment process involving a multidisciplinary approach to arrive at the dynamic understanding of the interplay of the multitude of factors that influence children and adolescents in the development of their intrapsychic and interpersonal experiences. For over 50 years, the Reiss-Davis Child Study Center has graduated such professionals who have taken their skills and training to leadership positions across the nation and the world. As a member of the outpatient division of Vista Del Mar Child and Family Services, a non-profit organization serving children and their families through a variety of modalities, the Center is located on the 17 acres campus of its parent agency in the heart of West Los Angeles.

The program functions within the overall operations and structure of Reiss-Davis and is, therefore, part of a clinic. Fellowship begins in mid-July, continues until the last week in June of the second year, and awards a certificate of completion to graduates.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
Fellows must apply for one emphasis area. If an applicant is interested in more than one area, the applicant should rank the areas of interest and support the application in the letter of interest. The number of fellow openings per emphasis area is listed in the program brochure (see website).

Program Description
The University of Southern California University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (USC UCEDD) at Childrens Hospital Los Angeles (CHLA) offers an advanced two-year postdoctoral training program in Clinical Child Psychology. The program offers unique training experiences in clearly defined emphasis areas. Individuals are recruited specifically for each emphasis area and are offered training opportunities in a variety of departments and clinical services. The emphasis practice areas include Pediatric Psychology, Early Childhood Mental Health, Trauma Psychology, Child and Family Therapy, and Adolescent Psychology. The postdoctoral training program at CHLA is based on an integrated community mental health and health psychology scientist-practitioner model. It is designed to train psychologists to assume leadership roles as experts in clinical psychology in pediatric community and medical settings. Depending on the emphasis area chosen, fellows may be gaining professional experiences in outpatient mental health clinics, community clinics, schools and/or pediatric hospital units. Through intensive supervision, didactic lectures and seminars, research and program development activities, and ample direct patient contact and consultation opportunities, fellows enhance and develop advanced clinical skills in their emphasis area. The program will only accept graduates of APA accredited programs who have completed APA accredited internships and all the requirements for graduation by September 1, 2006.

Program Description

The Postgraduate Center's full-time and part-time postdoctoral training program is designed to develop and refine competence in the conduct of long-term, intensive psychotherapy and brief psychotherapy. The theoretical orientation of most of our faculty is contemporary psychodynamic/psychoanalytic. The field of psychoanalytic psychotherapy has undergone a substantial evolution in recent years. The program presents the core of theory and technique that has endured through this evolution as well as relatively recent developments which have advanced theory and enlarged the range of application and effectiveness of psychoanalytic psychotherapy. The program consists of the conduct of psychotherapy with an adult caseload presenting with a broad range of diagnoses and issues, individual and group supervision, an extensive series of seminars on theory and technique, and case conferences. Focused training in eating disorders, in trauma and crisis intervention and in parent skills development is available to interested postdoctoral fellows. Teaching and supervision are conducted by a small core faculty and a large group of mental health professionals on our Teaching and Supervisory Faculty. The training staff includes 2 full-time and 4 part-time psychologists and 40 mental health professionals in private practice who have appointments to WILA's Teaching and Supervisory Faculty. All faculty are licensed and experienced and have specialty training in psychoanalytically oriented psychotherapy and psychoanalysis. Participation in the postdoctoral training program requires a Ph.D. or Psy.D. in Clinical or Counseling Psychology.

Program Description
The focus of the Postdoctoral Fellowship training program at Children's Hospital of Orange County (CHOC) is to provide advanced in-depth training in child/pediatric psychology and prepare individuals for careers in medical settings. The CHOC Fellowship offers specialized training in child clinical psychology applied in a general pediatric tertiary care setting. Postdoctoral Fellows are supervised by Psychology faculty with expertise in child clinical psychology, as well as specialized interests in neuropsychology, pain management, disruptive behavior disorders, infant development, and sports psychology. The Program provides experience with consultation/liaison to sub-specialty pediatric units, neuropsychological assessment, and work in our outpatient Pediatric Psychology and ADHD Clinics. One position is with our Early Intervention with Attention and Learning Disorders Program, which is jointly sponsored by the Department of Pediatrics, University of California, Irvine. The training program is housed within the Department of Pediatric Psychology which provides comprehensive psychological services throughout the Children's Hospital. Postdoctoral Fellows share some training experiences and seminars with interns in an APA accredited psychology internship as well as medical residents. Further, fellows have the opportunity to evaluate/consult/treat a wide variety of families from multicultural backgrounds. Fellows participate in research activities and complete a research project during their fellowship.

Program Description:
Children's Health Council (CHC) is a private, non-profit, multidisciplinary agency offering outpatient mental health and special education services to children with emotional, behavioral, and/or developmental problems. The patient population served by CHC ranges in age from infancy to early adulthood and includes the full span of socioeconomic levels, cultural groups, and range of clinical problems. CHC is affiliated with Stanford University Medical Center, and the Children's Hospital at Stanford acts as a primary training site for outpatient child psychiatric care and training. The CHC currently offers 2 one-year postdoctoral fellowships in child clinical psychology. Postdoctoral Fellows receive intensive training in psychodiagnostic assessment and treatment of children and families in a multidisciplinary setting. Opportunities for focusing on training in Pediatric Neuropsychology or Young Adult Assessment/Treatment are available. The postdoctoral fellowship follows the training guidelines of the APA as detailed by APPIC as well as Section 1 of Division 12 (Child Clinical Psychology). Each fellow spends approximately 50% of the time per week in direct clinical service (e.g., testing, psychotherapy, consultation) and 50% of the time in supervision, seminars, research activities, and various non-patient clinical meetings (e.g., case conferences, clinical rounds). Supervision and didactics are provided primarily by psychologists at Children's Health Council and clinical faculty members of Stanford University Medical School. Applicants from APA approved internship programs are encouraged to apply.

Program Description

The Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at Stanford University School of Medicine offers: 1) clinic-funded fellowships for those planning careers in clinical service; and 2) NIMH-funded research fellowships for those preparing for academic careers. Clinical fellowships are currently available in the Behavioral Psychiatry Clinic, which specializes in treatment of anxiety, eating disorders, depression, chronic pain, insomnia, personality disorders, and couple and family problems; and in the Child Psychiatry Clinic, which provides evaluation, assessment, and treatment of children and adolescents. Clinical fellows spend approximately 75% of their time engaged in direct clinical activity, with the balance in supervision, case conferences, seminars, and research activity. Clinical fellowship appointments are full-time, for one year. However, fellowships may apply for a second year of training at the midpoint of the academic year. NIMH-funded research fellowships are for two years. Research opportunities for NIMH fellows are in the following areas: depression, anxiety, eating disorders, sleep disorders, and developmental psychopathology. NIMH fellows spend at least 80% of their time in research-related activities, generally working with one primary faculty mentor. Our fellowships are open to PhDs and PsyDs from APA-accredited clinical or counseling psychology programs, who have completed APA-accredited internships. Our program is also open to candidates who have completed programs accredited by the Canadian Psychological Association. NIMH research fellowships are also open to MDs.

Program Description

The fellowship program subscribes to the guidelines for the specialty of Clinical Health Psychology advanced by the American Psychological Association and espouses a strong scientist-practitioner model. Training emphasizes the following 4 core competencies: (1) research/scholarship; (2) advanced clinical practice; (3) interprofessional training; and (4) program development/policy guideline implementation. With the assistance of the training committee, fellows develop an individualized training plan to meet these 4 core competencies. While fellows are invited and encouraged to participate in existing projects (i.e., current research, teaching, clinical, or program development activities), training opportunities in other areas of behavioral medicine of particular interest to a fellow are also supported. A brief summary of the 4 core competencies is below:

- RESEARCH: Current faculty research interest areas include: adherence, alcohol-tobacco interactions, smoking cessation, nicotine dependence, chronic pain, diabetes, health promotion, obesity, patient-provider interactions, primary care psychology and telemedicine.
- CLINICAL PRACTICE: Several clinics are supported by the Clinical Health Psychology Section, including (but not limited to): Primary Care Clinics, the Comprehensive Pain Management Center, the Smoking Cessation/Substance Abuse Clinics, Obesity Management Clinics, and Health Promotion Programs (stress management, healthy lifestyle).
- INTERPROFESSIONAL TRAINING: Opportunities to teach, mentor, and supervise other trainees (predoctoral interns, practica students, and undergraduate research assistants) as well as to coordinate a yearlong didactic seminar series for all psychology trainees are provided.
- PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT: Most opportunities include the development of innovative, integrative, and multidisciplinary models of care and involvement in hospital-, regional- or nation-wide program development projects.

Program Description

The postdoctoral fellow will provide individual, group, and couples counseling in the Georgia Tech Counseling Center. This will be the sole location of the rotation. During the typical 40-hour work week, the postdoctoral fellow will be expected to provide 22 hours of face-to-face client contact. This contact will consist of intake hours, emergency walk-in duty, and individual, couples, and group counseling as well as psychological assessment if desired. The specific allotment of time to these areas will be determined by the needs of the postdoctoral fellow in consultation with his/her supervisor. Typically, a postdoc might lead one group per week (two hours), and may devote two to four hours to psychological assessment if that type of experience is desired. Opportunities to supervise practicum students are also provided. Part of the postdoc's responsibility includes co-facilitating a weekly training seminar for the practicum students in association with the training director. The remaining hours will be spent in maintaining case files, attending committee meetings, studying for the licensure exam, and participating in the general workings of the counseling center. This will involve responding to requests by campus organizations as well as initiating outreach programs. The staff is diverse in theoretical orientation and includes cognitive behavioral, interpersonal, and systems centered, among others. The primary treatment modality is short-term (16 sessions), but some long-term opportunities are also available. There is no limit on group participation so individuals often transition into group treatment after completing their individual work. The group offerings are extensive.

Program Description

The primary purpose of the Psychology Postdoctoral Training Program at RWSIR is to prepare fellows to function autonomously as licensed psychologists in a medical, rehabilitation, or vocational setting. While there is a neuropsychological component to the postdoc, it is designed as a postdoc in rehabilitation psychology. The experiences and training available are primarily clinical. The primary goal of the program is to provide more intensive and advanced training in the practice of psychology with medical and vocational rehabilitation patients in order that fellows will develop a professional identity that is appropriate for a psychologist working within a multidisciplinary treatment team environment. We encourage a collegial relationship between psychology staff and fellows, where the primary difference between the two is breadth and depth of knowledge and experience. Fellows are encouraged to assume clinical responsibilities at the level that their skills and experience allow. Psychologists at the Roosevelt Institute are committed to training and mentoring and are responsible for providing adequate supervision and to be accessible mentors for postdoctoral fellows. Fellows are provided with opportunities to serve both in the Medical Rehabilitation Unit (MRU) and the Vocational Rehabilitation Unit (VRU). They are required to work in each of the following three areas: 1) Neurological Rehabilitation Program, 2) Orthopedic Rehabilitation Program, and 3) Vocational Rehabilitation Unit. The fellow will provide psychotherapy and psychological assessment. The fellow will maintain a long-term therapy case and provide psychological assessment throughout the year in the VRU. In the MRU, the fellow will spend half the year in the Neurological Rehabilitation Program and half the year in the Orthopedic Rehabilitation Program. See http://www.rooseveltrehab.org/psychologypostdoc.asp for a more detailed description.

Program Description

The Kapi'olani Child Protection Center's Post-Doctoral Psychology Residency and Fellowship Training Program was started in 1992 to provide specialty training in child clinical psychology with an emphasis in child maltreatment. This training program is part of KCPCC's Training Institute, which includes Pediatric Residency training, Nurse Specialist training, Social Work Practicum training and the Argosy University-Hawaii clinical psychology graduate practicum training. The program offers the opportunity to work in a multidisciplinary setting with multicultural families. The program provides 2,000 hours of supervised training within a one year period. Meets requirements of licensure for Hawaii and most States. Training includes: Training in comprehensive psychological evaluations and report writing. Supervisors and Center Director observe initial psychological evaluations, provide feedback and supervise interpretation and report writing. Residents complete an average of eight to ten child or adult comprehensive evaluations per month, focused on the impact of child maltreatment, parenting abilities and treatment/service planning. Referrals are screened and assigned according to increasing complexity throughout the training year. Training in psychotherapy is ongoing throughout the training year. Intakes are presented weekly and cases are assigned with increasing complexity. Training is provided regarding case management; i.e., working with Child Welfare Services social workers, Guardians Ad Litem, foster parents, school counselors, etc. Training in family therapy for reunification with biological parents is provided as needed. Training in Parent Child Interaction Therapy is also provided. Caseloads average six to eight clients per week. Residents receive training regarding the Peer Mentoring Program and assignments for the year's activities are made. Residents participate with supervisors as co-therapists for group therapy.

Program Description
The Fellowship provides Fellows with a generalist clinical psychology training experience in which they: 1) attain advanced clinical skills with an adolescent population which manifests a broad spectrum of psychopathology, and 2) develop expertise in the challenges prevalent among adolescents exhibiting delinquent behavior and substance abuse issues, and 3) develop and enhance their family therapy skills while working with families of adolescents, and 4) refine group therapy skills through their exposure to adolescent and family groups. At the core of a fellow's training are his or her clinical work, individual supervision and participation in the team-work of the department. Fellows are viewed as emerging professional colleagues and are given the collaborative support and guidance they need to participate fully in the multidimensional service delivery typical of community mental health settings. With the concentrated exposure to adolescent clinical population, Fellows hone their formulation and treatment-planning skills, and they develop practical understanding of developmental issues, pathology, substance abuse issues and systemic factors. Fellows complete the fellowship year with 1875 license-eligible hours of supervised practice and with a consolidated sense of their professional competence and personal career direction. Fellows select rotations to tailor their training experience. Please visit our website at www.omniyouth.org for a complete description.

The postdoctoral fellowship training program at OMNI is comprised of a combination of activities that emphasize learning through participation in the multidimensional roles and functions of community mental health practitioners. Five members of the permanent OMNI clinical staff form the Training Committee Team. Training staff represents considerable expertise in community counseling and psychology, as well as a long history of dedication to training new professionals.

Program Description

The program subscribes to the APPCN Resident Matching Program (Code 9882) and is supported by the departments of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences and the Cognitive Neurology and Alzheimer's Disease Center at Northwestern University Medical School. Neuropsychology also has a graduate level training program within the Clinical Psychology division at the medical school. This provides opportunities for teaching and clinical supervision of graduate students. The goal of training is to provide fellows with advanced skills in clinical evaluation and diagnosis and in short-term treatment aimed at patient and caregiver education; to provide research opportunities; to provide teaching and supervision opportunities with graduate students and visiting scholars. A pervasive theme within the program is the importance of multidisciplinary cooperation at all levels - clinical, research, and academic. To this end, neuropsychology fellows participate in joint academic and research activities with fellows and staff from other disciplines, including psychology, psychiatry, social work, and basic and cognitive neuroscience. One to two postdoctoral fellowships in clinical neuropsychology are offered annually or every two years depending on availability of funding. Clinical responsibilities consist of inpatient evaluations of adults with a range of disorders including dementia, stroke, epilepsy, neoplasm, traumatic brain injury and psychiatric disorders. Outpatient experience in a multidisciplinary clinical/academic unit specializing in behavioral neurology and dementia. Research activities include Alzheimer's disease and other dementias (primary progressive aphasia, frontaltemporal dementia), aging, attention, and language. Opportunities to work with the Human Brain Mapping group using functional magnetic resonance imaging are available. Direct supervision is provided by Sandra Weintraub, PhD, Robert Hanlon, PhD, and Nancy Johnson, PhD. See website: www.brain.northwestern.edu.

Program Description

Connection’s Day School (CDS) is a private therapeutic day school, founded in 1998, which serves high-risk children and adolescents in Lake County who require an alternative school program that is both educational and therapeutic. CDS utilizes therapeutic, educational, family and community connections to promote academic achievement and personal/emotional growth. CDS Staff Members employ a variety of methods to help students make academic progress, and develop/improve their coping and social skills. By utilizing a combination of respect, humor, empathy and kindness balanced with firmness, Staff Members are able to establish and maintain supportive, nurturing relationships with our students. In turn, these relationships can help them be more open to learning the life skills required for long-term success. We require highly-motivated individuals, who have experience working with challenging young people, and are interested in being an active part of our dynamic clinical staff. Please contact Dr. Pollina to receive more detailed information about Connection’s Day School and the Post-Doctoral Fellowship Program.

Program Description

Correctional Psychology Training Program at Dixon Correctional Center (DCC) is the primary mental health facility for the Illinois Department of Corrections. This all-adult male population is quite diverse regarding ethnicity, culture, religion, education, mental and medical health needs. In addition to General Population which houses approximately 1500 inmates, DCC has specialized housing programs which include: the Special Treatment Center (STC) which houses approximately 550 inmates; Dixon Psychiatric Unit (DPU) which houses approximately 210 inmates; and, the Hospice Unit which houses over 40 inmates. Training Rotations: The Post Doctoral Resident will participate in three distinct four month training rotations at this facility, specifically: STC, medium security, which houses both mentally ill and developmentally disabled inmates; DPU, maximum security, which houses mentally ill inmates in general population and segregation; and, General Population, which includes the Hospital and Hospice Unit. In coordination with a multidisciplinary team, treatment is provided via multiple modalities including: rounds, treatment planning, medication management, brief individual therapy, and group therapy. On an as needed basis, assessment batteries are performed to determine differential diagnoses and treatment interventions. Post Doctoral Duties: Formal supervision of interns and practicum students. The Correctional Psychology Training Program provides comprehensive mental health assessments services. The intern will conduct group therapy, individual therapy and crisis intervention; provide psychological screening of offenders; provide psychological testing to evaluate the emotional, behavioral or interpersonal difficulties, to determine differential diagnosing, and to develop a comprehensive treatment plan; and provide training sessions or workshops on topics related to mental health for facility staff.

Program Description

The Lovick C. Miller Fellowship in Pediatric/Clinical Child Psychology allows the postgraduate fellow to develop an individually tailored experience in a multidisciplinary pediatric and child psychiatric setting. Clinical populations available include outpatient children and adolescents seen through the facilities of the Bingham Child Guidance Center, the fourth oldest such facility in the country (established in 1913). This includes individual and group therapy with youth as well as parent involvement through group and individual modalities. Extensive experience is available with pediatric patients via the Pediatric Consultation-Liaison Service with Kosair Children’s Hospital and other area hospitals in the U of L HSC system. Patients with chronic illness and serious medical problems (cystic fibrosis, childhood cancer including bone marrow transplantation, chronic fatigue syndrome, fibromyalgia, juvenile diabetes, heart transplantation, traumatic injury, brain injury, burns, etc.) are routinely seen on this service, with opportunities for outpatient involvement. Patients with more severe psychopathology are seen through both the Keller Partial Hospitalization Program and the Ackerly Child and Adolescent Psychiatric Inpatient Service. Clinical experiences include assessment and therapy from a variety of modalities and case consultation with primary care and specialty care providers. Fellows participate in individual and group supervision, seminars, case conferences, and service rounds. Approximately 20% of the fellow’s time is allocated for research, and a number of ongoing projects are accessible for involvement. The multiple facilities of the University of Louisville Health Sciences Center, Norton/Kosair Health Care System, and the Bingham Child Guidance Center provide state-of-the-art resources for the training program.

Program Description

LAST YEAR’S INFORMATION - CONTACT PROGRAM FOR CURRENT INFORMATION The Postdoctoral Fellowship Program in Pediatric Psychology is designed to provide trainees with assessment and therapy experiences that are consistent with the professional expectations of a pediatric clinical psychologist. The goals of the fellowship are to familiarize the trainee with pediatric populations, to introduce assessment and therapy techniques that are relevant to and adapted for the acutely or chronically ill child. The fellowship is also designed to provide experience working with child and adolescent outpatient populations and their families, and to promote professional development through experience within an interdisciplinary model. A mentoring model of training is followed and consists of assigning the Fellow to one primary supervisor for the entire year, with additional supervision provided by staff involved in the trainee’s specialty rotations. In addition to verbal feedback, training will consist of observation and modeling from staff in clinical settings. Fellows will receive at least two hours of individual supervision and one hour of group supervision on a weekly basis throughout the fellowship year. The supervision provided meets post-doctoral supervision requirements for licensure by APPIC and the Louisiana State Board of Examiners of Psychologists. A competitive stipend is provided for the 12-month fellowship position. The hospital also provides a full benefits package for the fellow. Applicants should send a letter stating their interests and goals, a current vita, and 3 letters of recommendation.

Program Description

The TUHSC postdoctoral program offers broad focused training in assessment and consultation with inpatients and outpatients. Patient population is 70% adult and 30% children/adolescent; 60% physician referred and 40% forensic (civil). Follow-up treatment (individual and couples psychotherapy) is very possible. Close involvement with faculty at the Neurology Division at the clinical, didactic, and case conference levels. The assessment approach is a fixed eclectic battery, encompassing standard measures of each of the broad areas of neurobehavioral functioning. There is a new opportunity to consult at the Tulane Oncology Center, with a patient focus on brain tumors, effects of radiotherapy and chemical therapy, and organ transplants. Additionally, a new program for epilepsy surgery is currently in place and will offer the chance for the postdoctoral fellow to be actively involved in consultation, assessment, follow-up, and treatment. The primary focus of this program is comprehensive assessment and forensic (civil) neuropsychology. There are a variety of ongoing research projects ranging from the investigation of dissimulation in litigation patients to functional neuroimaging. NOTE: BECAUSE OF THE EFFECTS OF HURRICANE KATRINA, TRAINING SITES AND FACULTY ARE IN A STATE OF TRANSITION. ACCORDINGLY, PLEASE CONTACT ME DIRECTLY BY EMAIL (PREFERRED) OR TELEPHONE TO OBTAIN THE CURRENT STATUS OF THE FELLOWSHIP, AND THE AVAILABLE TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES. Program Description
We offer and implement advanced Clinical Psychology training with a rural psychology emphasis, in accord with a scholar-practitioner model. Within the substantive area of Clinical Psychology, we offer advanced postdoctoral training emphases in Posttraumatic Stress Disorder/Mental Health and Geriatric Neuropsychology. At the postdoctoral level, we aim to train ethically grounded, culturally aware clinical psychologists with advanced competency in thoughtful development and application of empirically supported psychological assessment, treatment, and consultation skills for the benefit of persons and organizations, particularly within a rural environment. Training consists of 2080 hours with concurrent training experiences in at least three different treatment settings. We are located on spacious wooded grounds five miles east of Augusta, the state capital of Maine. The PTSD/Mental Health emphasis position represents a one year appointment. The Geriatric Neuropsychology emphasis position normally involves re-appointment for a second year, and is thus only open every other year. Please note that we DO NOT anticipate a neuropsychology position opening for the 2007-2008 training year. Start date is variable: July 1, August 1, or September 1.

Program Description
The Department of Behavioral Psychology provides clinical services to a variety of pediatric populations with learning, behavioral and developmental disabilities. The Department's philosophy is that the principles and procedures of behavioral science form the basis for effective and ethical clinical services. Fellows typically elect to develop their expertise through advanced training in one or two clinical services under the direction of an identified mentor(s). Specific training opportunities include hospital consultation in severe behavior disorders, family therapy, pervasive developmental disorders/autism, and pediatric feeding disorders in both outpatient and inpatient programs. Research participation is strongly encouraged and typically integrated into clinical experience. Fellows have the opportunity to work with their mentor to tailor the training experiences to meet their needs with regard to clinical, supervisory, research, and didactic training.

Program Description

The scientist-practitioner training philosophy of the postdoctoral program involves an integration of professional activity and training from four primary domains: clinical; program development and administration; supervision and teaching; and research. All residents train in the provision of psychotherapy supervision to practicum students, provide both individual and group psychotherapy, engage in research or program evaluation, actively become involved in program development and administration, and present professional development and didactic seminars for psychology interns and hospital staff. The resident is afforded considerable flexibility regarding training experiences and clinical focus within each of the four domains. The residency program offers four positions within three areas of emphasis: Center for Integrative Psychotherapy (2 positions); Center for Integrative Psychotherapy (2 positions); Center for Integrative Psychotherapy (2 positions); Center for Integrative Psychotherapy (2 positions). In collaboration with the Director of Training, the two residents will assume primary administrative and program development responsibility within the Center. Within this role, the resident will be free to pursue their individual clinical and research interests. Within this residency position, the resident will be a part of an interdisciplinary team of post-graduate fellows (including psychology, psychiatry, social work and nursing). Over the course of the year, the fellows will train within two primary psychosocial rehabilitation venues, and will also become actively involved in program development and educational dissemination activities. Within this residency position, the resident will assume a lead role with regard to supervision and mentoring of psychology interns as well as administration and program development activities within the Memory Disorders Clinic. The resident will also spend one full day per week at the Alzheimer's Disease Center, where a range of research opportunities and clinical work are available.

Program Description

All requirements (clinical, academic, administrative) for the doctoral degree must be completed prior to September 1st and verified before July 1, 2007. Training Programs: The Consortium offers postdoctoral training in the following areas: (1) Geropsychology (1 year); (2) Neuropsychology (3 years); (3) PTSD - Primary Research Focus (2 years); (4) PTSD - Primary Clinical Focus (2 years); (5) Substance Abuse (1 year); (6) Rehabilitation Psychology (1 year); (7) Medical Psychology (1 year). Note: Not all programs are offered each year (see current Training Brochure and website for availability). Philosophy and Mission: The mission of the Postdoctoral Fellowship Training Program of the Boston Consortium in Clinical Psychology is to produce independently functioning psychologists. Our model for training entails four core components: (1) To identify, respect, and nurture the unique personal attributes that the Fellow brings to his or her work with patients, by providing an environment with support and guidance through supervision and collaboration with faculty actively working in the field; (2) To encourage and model a scientist-practitioner approach to professional psychology, wherein empirically-informed knowledge informs psychological assessment and intervention with children and adults and wherein questions arising from clinical practice drive research endeavors; (3) To provide a range of training settings and experiences that allow Fellows to develop a breadth of expertise in psychological practice, as well as options for developing more specific interests in depth; (4) To provide training in multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary care environments in which the Fellow develops confidence as a local mental health expert who collaborates effectively with a range of providers in the context of a large medical care system. We are an Equal Opportunity Employer committed to excellence through diversity.

Program Description

The Mental Health Service of the Harvard University Health Services offers full-time post-doctoral fellowships in clinical or counseling psychology to start September 1. The multidisciplinary staff of more than thirty clinicians serves an extremely diverse population of students, staff, faculty and their family members. All students are eligible for services, as are those faculty and staff members (and their dependents) who select Harvard University Group Health Plan (HUGHP) as their HMO; fellows conduct evaluations and therapy with currently registered students and possibly their dependents. The staff is augmented by a cadre of consultants who are available to provide additional supervision. Supervision in dynamic psychotherapy and cognitive/behavioral therapy (either or both) is provided. Training opportunities in couples and group therapy may also be elected. Diagnostic testing may be a small part of the training experience. Sixty percent of the Fellows' week is direct patient care, the majority of which is short-term therapy. Some long-term therapy cases may be available. The remainder of time in the fellowship is comprised of supervision and seminars with different modules addressing adolescence, eating disorders, diversity and boundary issues. There is a weekly lecture series of invited professionals from the Greater Boston mental health community. While there may be only two psychology Fellows in any given year, there is a sizable trainee group comprised of part-time psychiatric residents and social work fellows. This program began more than 30 years ago and is not APA-accredited. Please remit the following information by January 2nd to Maureen Rezendes, Ph.D.: curriculum vita, letter of interest, letters of recommendation from three current or recent supervisors, a letter from a faculty member outlining your current status in your doctoral program, and an original transcript.

Program Description
The Clinical Psychology Training Program prepares Post-Doctoral Fellows in Psychology to understand and treat persons suffering with a broad spectrum of emotional distress. Using a scholar-practitioner model, our curriculum emphasizes a biopsychosocial approach to the understanding of people and values the use of psychotherapy and assessment. With close faculty-trainee interaction, we provide a solid grounding in treatment and assessment that takes into account ethnic and cultural influences. We also teach Fellows to integrate a variety of treatment modalities while working with persons with an array of psychological problems, including persons diagnosed with major mental illness and severe personality disorders. A distinctive feature of our program is that Psychology Fellows can pursue a wide variety of individual specialty interests in the context of a Fellowship program that emphasizes growth as a professional clinical psychologist. All Fellows meet together weekly in a Professional Development Seminar, which includes such topics as providing supervision, teaching in both medical and academic settings, writing for publication, obtaining grants and conducting research, licensing procedures and legal and ethical issues for the psychologist. Fellows are evaluated by supervisors and training directors twice yearly, and the program follows the Cambridge Health Alliance’s due process and grievance procedures. There are currently seven different Psychology Fellowship options available. They are: 1. Neuropsychology (Adult and/or Child) 2 yr outpatient; 2. Clinical Psychology (Behavioral Medicine Clinic); 3. Clinical Psychology (Child Adolescent Inpatient Services); 4. Clinical Psychology (Couples and Family Clinic); 5. Clinical Psychology (Cultural-linguistic Clinics: Latino, Portuguese, Asian or Haitian); 6. Clinical Psychology (Program for Psychotherapy) 2 yr requirement; 7. Clinical Psychology (Victims of Violence Program).

Program Description

The fellowship is designed to provide postdocs with a training experience that is first concentrated on deepening their diagnostic and clinical skills, and second, representative of university mental health practice today. We are a relatively large counseling service, highly utilized on this campus of over 14,000 students. In this setting fellows are actively engaged in the varied roles and functions of our work: evaluation and treatment of students; crisis and emergency response; consultation; and outreach programming. Boston College students are diverse and talented. At an institutional level, BC is invested in the integration of students' intellectual development with their personal formation. This makes for a psychologically rich population with which a postdoc can explore closely and intensively the practice of psychotherapy. A fellow's clinical work and individual supervision, which are the core of his/her training, are embedded in the more encompassing experience of being part of a clinical staff that is committed and thoughtful in its work. In formulating client difficulties, we emphasize psychodynamic, developmental, and culturally sensitive approaches. Formal training functions include individual supervision (3 hrs weekly); case conference; a case-based seminar in culturally competent practice; a professional practice seminar; and administrative participation. Distinct features of this advanced training experience include: 1) fellows normally advance their formulation and treatment-planning skills significantly; 2) they learn psychotherapy process with a particular class of clients who are highly functioning while also very troubled diagnostically; and 3) they develop a practical understanding of the intersections of psychopathology with developmental forces. This is an eleven-month fellowship. We have trained postdoctoral psychologists for over 13 years, and as a university service, have a history of longevity, stability and growth. |

Program Description

The Austen Riggs Center is a JCAHO-accredited not-for-profit private psychiatric hospital and residential treatment center with 72 patients and 26 full-time Ph.D. and M.D. staff. Situated on Main St. in the Berkshire Hills town of Stockbridge, the Center has maintained an open setting for over 85 years in which patients collaborate in all aspects of treatment. A psycho-social treatment model, drawing on the work done at Riggs by E. Erikson and other psychoanalysts, includes four times weekly intensive psychotherapy, groups, medication, activities, and family work in the context of an active therapeutic community of examined living. A full range of assessment, including diagnostic psychological testing, is provided to each patient. At least ten hours per week are devoted to seminars, supervision, and case conferences. Research opportunities are available and presentations at national meetings are encouraged and fully supported. We offer a two-plus-two year post-doctoral Fellowship/Advanced Fellowship with benefits such as health and life insurance, annual vacation, and 2 years of psychoanalysis. We require a doctoral degree from an APA-approved program and APA-approved completed internship.

Program Description

YEAR ONE: Clinical practice and consultation in primary care - Seven half-days per week. The fellow spends the majority of his or her time as a member of a primary care treatment team in one of the family practice residency clinics. This involves observing resident physicians in their practice, seeing patients jointly with physicians, and carrying a caseload referred by physicians in the practice. Program for School-Aged Children: One half-day per week. This is a child therapy/counseling/assessment and treatment clinic. Faculty members are Dr. Blount and Dr. Braden. A developmental/behavioral pediatrician: Behavioral Medicine practice - One half-day per week. Working in practice with Dr. Blount at Hahneback Family Health Center in Worcester. This half-day is "open clinic" when patients can come without appointments. Team Precepting: One half-day per week. Team precepting is a process in which a medical faculty member and a behavioral science faculty member work together with a resident who sees a regular half-day of patients in front of the one-way glass. Seminar in Primary Care Psychology - Fellows, joined by other psychology trainees or mental health staff, take a weekly seminar in Primary Care Psychology taught by Dr. Blount with occasional guest lecturers. Fellows also round with residents on the Family Medicine inpatient unit.YEAR TWO: Clinical practice and consultation in primary care - Seven half-days per week. As in the first year, the fellow spends the majority of his or her time as a member of a primary care treatment team in a family practice residency clinic. There is special emphasis on consultation to help residents care for patients that they would have referred before and on developing population-based clinical care. Teaching and consultation at a Family Medicine Center: One day per week. Fellows research: One half-day per week.

Program Description
Our APA-Accredited training program is based on the scientist-practitioner model. It prepares psychologists for academic careers or positions of leadership in clinical and educational settings. The program consists of a core professional development curriculum and graduated research and clinical training experiences over two years in the areas of Clinical Adult Psychology, Clinical Child Psychology (APA Specialty Accreditation), and Clinical Neuropsychology (APA Specialty Accreditation). The core curriculum exposes fellows to cutting edge topics in psychology and health care, and enhances fellows' understanding of medical/legal issues, ethical dilemmas, career development, grant writing skills, and sensitivity to cultural diversity. The Clinical Adult Psychology track focuses on depression, anxiety, and clinical outcome, and emphasizes scientific behaviorism and learning theory. Fellows are expected to become knowledgeable about and to employ empirically-supported interventions for the treatment of self-management and self-regulation disorders, anxiety, depression, and various other psychiatric conditions. The Clinical Child & Adolescent Psychology specialty track emphasizes the developmental and social contexts of child psychopathology, and the use of empirically validated assessments and interventions. Fellows gain expertise in diagnosis, assessment, and treatment of children with a wide range of psychological difficulties. They also participate in clinical research and prepare to function as independent, programmatic researchers. The Neuropsychology specialty track participates in the APPCNC match process for matching applicants. This track provides advanced training in the application of knowledge of brain-behavior relationships and Clinical Psychology for the benefit of patients suffering from disorder, disease, or injury to the central nervous system. It will prepare fellows for eventual board certification in Clinical Neuropsychology.

Program Description
As the first program in the nation to be specialty accredited in Clinical Health Psychology by the American Psychological Association (APA), we are pleased to offer a 24 month long postdoctoral residency in association with Michigan State University/Flint Area Medical Education (MSU/FAME) and the three area affiliated teaching hospitals - Genesys Regional Medical Center, Hurley Medical Center, and McLaren Regional Medical Center. Within each of these institutions consortium faculty and fellows provide clinical and didactic teaching to a variety of medical residency training programs, medical student programs, and allied health programs. Consistent with experts in the field of health psychology, the residency works toward the goal of training professional psychologists in general knowledge and skills as well as specific proficiencies and competencies. The common training elements of the residency programs include: Group Supervision (2 hrs./week), Individual Supervision, a year long Psychopharmacology curriculum, a Pathophysiology course, a Seminar Series (3 hrs./week), Continuing Medical Education lectures, Grand Rounds, noon conferences, and visiting guest lecturers. Upon graduation, fellows are ready to assume leadership roles in Clinical Health Psychology and medical education. Their training prepares them to be effective collaborators with physicians and allied health personnel, to understand the culture and language of medicine, to be able to design and implement effective education programs which incorporate sound psychological constructs.

Program Description
Our training program follows a Scholarship/Practitioner model with an emphasis on mentoring and self-directed development, and training which provides both breadth with depth. We emphasize a scholarly approach to clinical work and an integration of scientific data into the varied training experiences. Fellows may choose up to two areas of special emphasis including Health Psychology, Rehabilitation Psychology, Neuropsychology, and/or Serious Mental Disorders. Training in Health Psychology focuses on the application of psychological theory and research to the prevention, assessment, and treatment of physical illness and the promotion and maintenance of health. Training in Rehabilitation Psychology focuses on the practice of assisting individuals with disabilities in achieving optimal psychological, physical, and social functioning. Training in neuropsychology focuses on brain-behavior relationships. Fellows will gain proficiencies in neuropsychological assessment techniques and instruments, interpretation of test results, report writing, and selected methods of intervention. Training in severe mental disorders focuses on the evaluation and treatment of psychopathology to enhance quality of life. Training emphasizes the multifaceted nature of complex mental disorders.
We have two different postdoctoral fellowships. One is in human sexuality and the other is in behavioral medicine. There is opportunity for some fellows to have a split fellowship if desired. This is a two-year full-time fellowship with an outstanding faculty and extensive supervision provided. The emphasis is on clinical experience and training, however there is a required research or scholarly project requirement as well. The human sexuality fellowship is offered through the Center for Sexual Health which is an outpatient clinic which treats a variety of sexual disorders and disorders. The behavioral medicine fellowship is offered through one or two of our family practice clinics which are training sites for family practice residents. The Department of Family Medicine and Community Health is one of the largest departments in the country with a very strong behavioral medicine emphasis. This is an excellent opportunity to be involved in behavioral medicine in a busy outpatient family practice clinic serving an ethnically diverse and urban client population. The fellows are also involved in the behavioral medicine teaching component of the residency training program. We are in the process of filling a position for 2006. Get applications immediately.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities
- Mental Health emphasis: general mental health, substance abuse, PTSD, individual and group psychotherapy, psychological evaluation including neuropsychology, supervision, teaching, and program administration and management.

Program Description
Please see our website www.avapl.org for more detailed information and application instructions. The philosophy of training at the KCVAMC is best described as a “scholar-practitioner” model. The training experiences have a strong clinical focus. However, knowledge and use of empirically supported processes and interventions are expected and encouraged in all aspects of the program. At the end of the program, residents will be prepared to function autonomously as practicing clinical or counseling psychologists in a broad range of applied, teaching, and research settings. Applicants must have completed an APA accredited doctoral program in clinical or counseling psychology, including an APA accredited internship, prior to the residency start date. We especially encourage applications from students with knowledge and experience in diversity issues. Applicants are required to have a strong interest in mental health issues and treatment with long-term goals to provide service and contribute to this area in psychology. In addition, residents must be interested in studying and utilizing different theoretical orientations in their clinical work including cognitive, psychodynamic, and existential-humanistic. Candidates must be citizens of the United States.

Program Description

In early 2002, the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP) launched a new treatment program for personality disordered offenders. A Post-Doctoral Fellowship provides the opportunity to participate in the expansion, provision, and evaluation of this relatively new program. Inmates referred to the program are typically the most troublesome in the system, due to long histories of self-injurious behavior, suicide attempts, emotional instability, excessive demands for staff time, poor interpersonal skills, protective custody needs, substance abuse, angry outbursts, impulsivity, and sexual promiscuity. The Axis II Program is the first of its kind in the BOP. Although located at a medical center, patients are not psychiatric inpatients. Rather, they participate in a program which primarily uses cognitive-behavioral principles, with a foundation in Dialectical Behavior Therapy (DBT). Typical treatment goals include reducing self-injurious behavior, suicide attempts, the need for medical care, emotional instability, demands on staff time, time in special housing units, and disciplinary problems. The purpose is to make the inmates more manageable for staff and to improve the quality of life for the inmates by teaching new skills and coping strategies. Postdoctoral fellows would be involved in all aspects of the program, including program development, management and treatment of patients, supervision, case consultation, crisis intervention, report writing, and research.

Program Description

The Clinical Psychology Residency program focuses on learning the supervision and management of mental health patients, staff, finances, and facilities. Further learning in psychometrics, diagnostics, evaluations, and intervention continue to be a strong part of the training experience. This is a 2-year position. The Child and Family Residency Program prepares psychologists to work within a systemic perspective. This slot prepares residents to work within a multidisciplinary team of psychologists, family physicians, pediatricians, health and human service workers and school personnel. Opportunities exist to work clinically within integrated facilities and in rural communities. This is a 2-year position. The Medical Psychology/Psychopharmacology position is a position developed to train residents at APA LEVEL III Psychopharmacology/Prescriptive Authority and eligibility for The Academy of Medical Psychology. The resident will complete The Psychopharmacology Institute coursework, practicum, and preceptorship while continuing to develop skills in the applications of this knowledge in clinical, medical, and health psychology. The residency requires 3 years to complete. The Forensic Psychology Residency Program is designed for board eligibility as well. The program is 2-3 years and residents can complete the MLS degree via the University of Nebraska College of Law. Other didactics are also required. Evaluation, consultation and expert witness work will be conducted for both civil and criminal legal cases. Program Description

"LAST YEARS INFORMATION  CONTACT PROGRAM FOR CURRENT INFORMATION  Neuropsychology Postdoctoral Fellowship training at Montefiore Medical Center is based on the integrated model of specialty training that was advanced at the Houston Conference and endorsed by the ABPP and APPCN. In this model, the two-year fellowship is seen as a time to extend specialty preparation in science and professional practice in clinical neuropsychology. Our fellows gain experience in assessment, treatment, consultation, and research with a varied population of neurologically and psychologically ill patients. Training seminars, didactics, individual/group supervision and case conferences supplement and enhance direct clinical care experience. One of the distinguishing characteristics of training in an academic medical center, such as Montefiore, is the variety of patients who present for treatment. We offer inpatient and outpatient care for patients with a wide variety of psychiatric and neurologic conditions and we have many specialty clinics to serve these patients better. As neuropsychologists, fellows have the opportunity to work with other disciplines, reflecting the multi-faceted nature of health and illness, and the necessity for multiple sources of assistance in the hospital and community. We have funding for 2 Fellowship positions with a stipend of $35,000 per year, plus benefits, with a two-year commitment. The start date for the Fellowship is September 1, 2006. The clinical experiences, comprising 60% of the fellows' time, occur on the inpatient wards, in community treatment settings, and in outpatient clinics. Research, representing 40% of the fellows' time, occurs onsite, at satellite clinics, and in the community. We also place great emphasis on supervision, representing at least 3 hours per week (2 hours individual supervision, 1 hour group supervision), with faculty specializing in various aspects of clinical neuropsychology.

Program Description

Two year intensive scientist-practitioner training within a rehabilitation research setting of a large urban medical center as a NIDRR Advanced Rehabilitation Research Training Fellow. Fellows spend 80% time working closely with a multidisciplinary team of researchers within a NIDRR funded Research and Training Center on TBI interventions. Opportunity include collaboration with the team to develop, implement, evaluate and disseminate clinical rehabilitation research interventions. Primary research focus are two RTCs: one on the efficacy of group cognitive remediation and the other on the efficacy of cognitive behavioral therapy for depression in individuals with brain injury. 20% time will be spent in direct clinical experiences in an outpatient setting focused on neuropsychological assessment and treatment for individuals with varied acquired brain injuries. Additional opportunities may include working within a NIDRR Model Systems of Care for TBI and for SCI. Three to four hours of research and clinical interventions provided on a weekly basis. Involvement in teaching activities within an APA internship program is encouraged. When indicated, fellows will participate in master’s level courses in epidemiology and biostatistics to round out their research expertise.

Program Description

LAST YEAR’S INFORMATION - CONTACT PROGRAM FOR CURRENT INFORMATION

The basis of the CMHS postdoctoral training program is an apprenticeship model which promotes the independent practice of the fellow to competently perform in positions in which advanced level psychologists function. To this end, the fellowship is tailor-made to accomplish the following three objectives: 1) Add to competencies already established by rounding out training (i.e., increasing one’s depth and breadth of brief treatment) and develop one’s level of teaching and supervising to a level commensurate with that of an already established psychologist; 2) Begin to understand administrative functions in which psychologists engage (fellows will gain an inside perspective on the ensuing struggles among academic, clinical, and financial goals competing in the current health care market); and 3) Develop a specialized area of expertise. The latter is done in conjunction with a selected mentor and may include a clinical specialty, outreach area, or scholarly endeavor. This may result in a paper submitted for publication, presentation at a relevant conference, or in establishing a program. Possibilities are numerous and are determined in conjunction with one’s mentor. In addition, fellows conduct individual, couples and group psychotherapy, receive 4 hours of supervision, and attend selected case-oriented seminars.

Program Description
Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center is one of the largest children's hospitals in the country with a reputation for excellence in clinical care, teaching, and research. Fellowships are available on a one- and two-year training cycle across several sub-specialties and offer a combination of training opportunities across research and clinical care. An apprenticeship model focused on active mentoring, career development, professional role identity, and development of skills in clinical research and care that ensures success as a clinician-practitioner, is a hallmark of the training program. Postdoctoral training focus areas include 1) Developmental and Behavioral Pediatrics, 2) Neuropsychology, 3) Pediatric Psychology (including Biobehavioral Assessment and Treatment, and Risk and Prevention, and Clinical Child/ADHD). Training is specific to each focus area but is expected to take place in clinical care (not less than 25%), research, teaching, administration, professional development, and community activities. Each program is developed within the focus area such that the fellow will be eligible for licensure at the end of the fellowship. For all areas applicants must have a doctoral degree from an APA approved program, completed an APA approved internship, and defended their dissertation prior to beginning the fellowship. Some of the fellowship positions are supported by an NIH/NIDDK Postdoctoral Training Grant in Child Behavior and Nutrition.

Additional Information About Training Opportunities

There is a possibility that NCOD will fund a research postdoctoral position for candidates with primary interests in organizational research. This position would also carry with it some clinical responsibilities.

Program Description

The VHA National Center for Organization Development (NCOD) offers a two-year postdoctoral fellowship in Organization Consulting and Development. The Center serves VHA facilities and offices nationwide. The Center's practice is based on an action research model, and its services include executive coaching, leadership development and assessment, team building, strategic planning, large and small group facilitation, work redesign, survey design and analysis, and psychodynamic interventions. The postdoctoral training program offers trainees the opportunity to "learn by doing," and they are involved in all aspects of the Center's work. All trainees participate in weekly didactic seminars based on readings from psychology and business sources. The supervision model affords trainees the opportunity to learn from several senior psychologists and practitioners. The Center's staff provides rich, intensive feedback to trainees on an ongoing basis. Trainees must be willing to travel frequently (at least two weeks per month) and to work on evening and early morning shifts when needed. Trainees will accrue the clinical hours necessary for licensure in the state of Ohio during their tenure in the program, and candidates are expected to attain licensure by the end of the two-year training program. Candidates from doctoral programs in clinical, counseling, social, or I/O psychology are encouraged to apply. Candidates must have completed all requirements for their doctorate, including defense of a dissertation, prior to the start of the postdoc in September, 2007.

Program Description

This one- or two-year Fellowship in the Department of Psychology at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia is designed for individuals who have completed all doctoral degree requirements and who aspire to academic careers and leadership positions in pediatric medical settings or university departments supporting Ph.D. training programs. Diverse pediatric populations, including infants, preschoolers, school age, and adolescent cohorts presenting with developmental disorders, behavior problems, and/or chronic illness/disability receive family-centered services within an interdiscipliarity context. Opportunities exist to acquire or refine skills pertaining to Clinical-Child Pediatric Psychology, Pediatric Neuropsychology, Early Childhood and ADHD/Community Schools Psychology. Training occurs in both in-and outpatient clinical settings. Training and supervision is provided in vivo, in office, and during small and large group rounds. Video-mediated training facilities are available. Research opportunities are abundant. We offer the opportunity for fellows to be involved in federally funded research programs in psychosocial interventions within pediatric oncology, community-based ADHD intervention, violence prevention in urban schools, and pain intervention with adolescents with sickle cell disease. Other available research initiatives include developing parenting skills in an urban group of mothers, and adherence to treatment for chronic pediatrie diseases. Didactic seminars, conferences, and rounds are frequent and address multiple topics and methodologies. Fellows have direct access to all faculty and staff and work closely with one or two mentors who ensure programmatic integrity and continuity. Fellows receive instrumental support when searching for career-enhancing positions.

Program Description

The purpose of the residency is to engage the resident in all aspects of University Counseling Center service and administration in order to provide preparation for a career in university counseling. To this end, the core of the resident's training includes individual counseling with students, crisis response, individual supervision, participation on the Center's Consultation/Outreach Team, and participation in department projects and initiatives. The residency begins with two weeks of orientation prior to the start of the fall semester. Once the semester begins, residents begin to build a caseload of individual clients up to an average of 20 per week. Upon completion of training in our career assessment process, residents also begin to see clients for career counseling. In September, residents begin to take "on-call" duty on a rotating basis. As residents become more comfortable and familiar with the center and the university, they are asked to take on more responsibilities. Residents are sometimes asked to take the lead on administrative projects, such as coordinating research efforts or organizing outreach functions. They are often asked to participate in university functions as a representative of the Counseling Center. By the spring semester, residents are expected to function as senior staff at the center. They are offered the opportunity to form and lead a group on the topic of their choosing. While still under supervision, residents are expected to take more initiative and demonstrate increasing independence in their work. Residents are formally evaluated at the mid-point of the residency and at the completion of the residency. In the event of a grievance, due process is followed and grievance procedures are in place to assure fair resolution. The residency consists of 1800 hours of supervised professional psychological activities, and it meets the post doctoral supervised experience requirements for licensure in Pennsylvania.

Program Description
The Consortium offers 2 types of fellowships, hospital based CLINICAL-RESEARCH fellowships and NIH funded research fellowships. THE NIH RE- SEARCH FELLOWSHIPS are: NIMH Research Training in Child Mental Health; NIAAA Research Training in Alcohol Intervention/Treatment; NIDA Research Training in Substance Abuse Intervention/Outcome Treatment; NIA Research Training in Dementia Research; NIMH Training in Treatment Research; NHLBI Training in Cardiovascular Behavioral Medicine. The CLINICAL-RESEARCH fellowship provides a training experience which en- sures the development of competency in a specific area of clinical psychology including: Adult Clinical, Child Clinical, Behavioral Medicine, and Clinical Neuropsychology. 20% research time minimum in all clinical-research fellowships. The exact nature of training is decided on an individual basis by the Fellow and his/her primary faculty mentor. The clinical experiences vary greatly depending on patient population and hospital settings. Train- ing objectives are achieved through an apprenticeship model where the Fellow works closely with a faculty member in the provision of clinical ser- vices and/or in conducting research. Faculty member serves as primary supervisor and role model, and the close supervisory relationship permits the Fellow to develop clinical and research skills as well as role identity. In most fellowships, there are typically at least 2 other supervisors di- rectly involved with the Fellow. Number and type of fellowships vary from year-to-year and most are 2 years in duration.

Program Description

This post-doctoral psychology program (2 positions) exists within an interdisciplinary training program and provides more intensive supervised training in clinical psychology with an emphasis in substance abuse. In this program, postdoctoral psychology fellows address the problem of chemical dependency among veterans as members of interdisciplinary teams. The psychology fellow combines psychological assessment and individual and group psychotherapy both to conceptualize the psychosocial needs of the substance-abusing veteran and to facilitate the veterans’ development of adaptive coping strategies as alternatives to continued substance abuse. These goals are achieved by performing assessments as needed and as requested by the treatment team, conducting individual psychotherapy, co-leading psychosocial and process-oriented group psychotherapy, attending continuing education programs on substance abuse, and participating actively in all interdisciplinary treatment team meetings. Other fellows (N = 3) in the fellowship program include members from the following disciplines: social worker, psychiatric nursing, occupational therapy, and chaplaincy. Opportunities exist to work with veterans diagnosed with HIV or AIDS, with families, with elderly veterans, with veterans with dual diagnoses, and with homeless veterans. A minimum of two hours per week of individual supervision with a licensed psychologist will be provided, and the fellow will be required to attend training seminars and case conferences throughout the year. Applicants must have received their doctoral degree in clinical or counseling psychology and must have completed a predoctoral internship, both of which must be accredited by the American Psychological Association.

Program Description

The postdoctoral program at UTMB provides specialty postdoctoral training in clinical health psychology. The positions are typically funded by NIH, HRSA, and NIDDR grants. Clinical settings are focused on health psychology and combine research and clinical service (approximately 50% each). The clinical component provides psychological services including evaluation, consultation, and treatment in a number of settings including pain management, oncology, and/or pediatric psychology. Research opportunities are dependent on funding. Teaching opportunities exist in the clinical psychology course and the sexual health and rehabilitation course both coordinated by the training director. Inpatient work is also available on the geriatrics unit and a wide variety of surgical units focusing on pain management. Opportunities exist to work with children and adolescents at the Shriners Burns Hospital. It is expected the postdoc will work in conjunction with on-going research projects and develop at least one project with the goal of publication or grant funding. UTMB has a scientist practitioner model of training and includes didactics and supervision of no less than 2 hours per week of individual face to face supervision. The program is designed to enhance research and clinical skills to prepare the trainee for a position in a medical or academic setting.

Program Description
This one-year postdoctoral training program is based in a private psychiatric hospital which is well-known for high quality patient care. The theoretical orientation is broadly psychodynamic, but with opportunities for cognitive-behavioral and other empirically-based approaches. The educational mission of Menninger is to train promising young clinicians in advanced concepts of psychotherapy and psychological testing. Postdoctoral fellows work as primary clinicians with a multidisciplinary team in a fully integrated, biopsychosocial model. The primary clinician is responsible for coordinating patient care, administering and interpreting psychological tests, providing individual and family therapy and group therapy to patients. Patient treatment episodes range from approximately 2 weeks to 4-5 months, affording an opportunity for intensive psychotherapeutic interventions and complex diagnostic work. Clinical supervision of 3-4 hours per week and didactic training round out the training experience. The program has recently moved from Topeka, Kansas to its new location in Houston, Texas where it is affiliated with the Baylor College of Medicine and Methodist Hospitals.

Program Description

We seek to integrate the training program into a school-affiliated hospital setting. There are three postdoctoral residency training tracks: a one-year specialty track in Neuropsychology, a one-year residency in Family Psychology, and a one-year specialty focus-track in Palliative Care Psychology. All tracks are accredited by the APA, and the Neuropsychology track is approved by APPCN. All residents are required to plan and conduct research projects, make professional presentations, and complete program evaluation projects, in addition to their clinical training experiences. The program is designed to provide a comprehensive training experience in the treatment of neuropsychological disorders. Residents are expected to complete a research project and to present their findings at a national or regional meeting. Applicants should contact the Director of Training after that date regarding any openings not filled by internal candidates.
The United States Air Force offers one-year Postdoctoral Fellowship positions in Clinical Health Psychology (CHP) to qualified psychologists. The fellowship is a comprehensive program of supervised clinical training, teaching, supervision, and research in the specialty area of CHP. The positions are located in San Antonio, Texas, at Wilford Hall Medical Center (WHMC), the largest medical center in the United States Air Force. WHMC is a teaching hospital with over 50 medical specialty and allied health training programs. The fellowship is a comprehensive training experience in Clinical Health Psychology with a foundation of education, treatment, and research. The education program consists of weekly workshops, professional seminars in CHP, Distinguished Visiting Professor Program, and attendance at one national psychology conference. The treatment programs include working as part of multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary teams including the following programs: Pain Management, Diabetes Education, TMD/Orofacial Pain Treatment, Bone Marrow Transplant Service, Tobacco Cessation, Cardiac Rehabilitation, and the Sleep Center. Fellows also gain experience as behavioral health consultants in Obstetrics. Fellows participate in active research protocols and are expected to produce professional presentations and papers for submission to peer-reviewed journals or presentation at a national conference. In recent years most fellows have been selected from those already on active duty as a licensed Air Force clinical psychologist with several years of professional experience. Highly qualified civilian applicants with similar credentials will be considered for acceptance into the fellowship training program. The program usually accepts applicants who are licensed psychologists with one or more years experience beyond the completion of their psychology internship program. The application due date is approximately 1 year prior to the start date of the fellowship program.

Program Description

ECC and EFI are dedicated to providing excellence in Christian psychological and counseling services. EFI, which residents in clinical psychology, interns, and practica students are affiliated with, provides therapeutic and educational services, counselor training, and world mission support. The integration of Biblical truth with empirically-based treatments provides a basis for treating individuals in the community and church to transform lives and reduce human suffering. Clinical staff draw from a number of theoretical orientations, such as cognitive-behavioral, family systems, and experiential as appropriate. Specialized training in Parent-Child Interaction Therapy (PCIT), Dialectical-Behavior Therapy (DBT) and marriage/family therapy are available. Residents are supervised by two licensed clinical psychologists, and also receive group supervision. In addition to being assigned to the main office in Norfolk, residents will provide therapeutic services in several other settings within the Hampton Roads area, such as Portsmouth and Chesapeake. In addition to the didactic seminars facilitated by clinical staff at ECC, residents have the opportunity to attend monthly colloquia at Regent University, which has an APA-accredited Psy.D. program, and to attend monthly seminars at a local psychiatric facility. Although it is not required, residents are encouraged to participate in research and to present on their findings in their area of specialty for the edification of the organization and for professional development purposes.

Program Description

Postdoctoral Fellowships are available with an emphasis in either substance abuse or PTSD. 1) A fellowship in addictions treatment is offered through the Center of Excellence in Substance Abuse Treatment and Education (CESATE) - one of only two programs funded nationally by the Department of Veterans Affairs to offer a specialized clinical fellowship in the interdisciplinary approach to substance use disorders. The primary goal of this fellowship is to provide clinical training in the interdisciplinary assessment and treatment of substance abusers, intended to prepare fellows to assume clinical, academic and/or administrative positions in a variety of settings. 2) A fellowship in PTSD is available in the Mental Illness Research, Education and Clinical Center (MIRECC). This two-year fellowship has a research emphasis (75% research/25% clinical time). The primary goal of this training is to prepare fellows for independent investigator status in VA Medical Center and academic settings, with expertise in trauma disorders. Applicants for all positions must be U.S. citizens, and must have completed a doctoral degree from an APA accredited graduate program and an APA accredited internship prior to the start of the fellowship. Inquiries should be directed to Steve McCutcheon, PhD, at the above address.

Program Description

The Post-Doctoral Fellowship in Pediatric Psychology at Madigan Army Medical Center is an intensive two year training program in the Department of Psychology with an emphasis upon child development and behavioral medicine. The program begins in September. One position is open to licensed military active-duty psychologists and one position is open to civilian applicants. The primary goal of the fellowship program is to provide advanced training in pediatric psychology. Major areas of focus are normal child development, developmental pediatrics, behavioral medicine interventions, dysmorphology, developmental and intellectual assessment, childhood psychopathology, pediatric consultation/liaison services, and military related adjustment. During the year the fellows provide services in various settings within the medical center. These areas include the development of pediatric clinic, high-risk newborn follow-up clinic, pediatric ward, well baby clinic, dysmorphology clinic, and pediatric subspecialty clinics (e.g., pediatric neurology, pediatric oncology/hematology, pediatric endocrinology). Additionally, fellows are expected to develop one area of specialization and produce a publishable professional project. The fellowship program is geared toward training fellows who can deliver high quality clinical services and who can train and supervise other pediatric psychologists. Finally, the fellow has the advantage of cross training in weekly clinicals with pediatric fellows from the Developmental and Behavioral Pediatric Fellowship at Madigan Army Medical Center, as well as residents from the Pediatric Residency.

Program Description

The University of Washington (UW) Department of Psychiatry, Division of Public Behavioral Health and Justice Policy, and Western State Hospital (WSH), through the Washington Institute for Mental Illness Research and Training, conjointly sponsor a postdoctoral fellowship in forensic clinical psychology. The fellowship runs from September through August, full time. The goal of the fellowship is to produce clinical specialists in the practice and research of forensic clinical psychology who will lead the development of the field. The fellowship provides abundant opportunities for supervised practice and advanced training in the integration of science and practice. Some fellowship training activities (e.g., seminar and cross-training with law students) occur in tandem with our ACGME-accredited post-doctoral training program in forensic psychiatry and a forensic post-doctoral training program in juvenile forensic psychology and adolescent treatment offered by the University of Washington at the Child Study and Treatment Center (CSTC), adjacent to WSH. Work sites include WSH, CSTC, local correctional facilities, community, and private practice settings. Duties include forensic evaluations of defendants, assessment, treatment and consultation of mentally ill offenders and correctional inmates; supervised report writing and testimony; independent study and research. Eleven psychologists, several psychiatrists, and one neuropsychologist are available for supervision, training and consultation. Four to six hours of face-to-face clinical supervision are provided each week. A demanding nine-month, weekly forensic seminar series provides further didactic education. UW and WSH offer extensive collaborative opportunities for education and training. The fellowship program also maintains an active, collegial relationship with the Seattle University School of Law. WSH has a long-standing and fully APA-approved pre-doctoral internship program.

Program Description

The Postdoctoral Psychology Fellowship offers one position in each of two specialties: Pediatric Psychology and Child/Adolescent Clinical Psychology. The Pediatric Psychology Fellowship is designed to train in the assessment and treatment of the problems of children and adolescents with medical disorders. The Pediatric Psychology Fellow spends half of each week in supervised experience on the inpatient pediatric medicine service and the other half in the outpatient Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Health. The Child/Adolescent Psychology Fellow is trained in the assessment and treatment of the problems of children and adolescents with medical disorders. Fellows receive approximately three hours of individual supervision per week, participate in weekly postdoctoral seminars and are encouraged to attend other conferences within the medical complex. The faculty utilize a variety of therapeutic approaches, but the prevailing approach is behavioral or cognitive-behavioral embedded in a developmental and systematic understanding of the child. The fellowship is one year with the option to apply for a second year. Fellows are encouraged to consider applying for a second year. The goal of the program is to facilitate the development of professional psychologists with advanced skills in child and pediatric psychology to function independently in a variety of practice settings. Most of our program information and the application are available through the clinic website at www.marshfieldclinic.org.

Program Description
The program operates within a scholar-practitioner model. There are three fellowship positions each with a specific area of concentration: one in Geropsychology, one in Palliative Care, and one in Psychosocial Rehabilitation. Fellows will be prepared for psychological practice either with older adults, with patients with end-stage disease, or with the seriously mentally ill, including those with co-morbid substance abuse. While the training primarily occurs within the context of the delivery of psychological services, training needs always take priority over service needs. The objective of the fellowship program is to provide the environment and experience that will promote in-depth development in each area of concentration. The goal of effective independent practice requires competence in assessment, interdisciplinary consultation, individual and systems-based interventions, program development and evaluation, staff training and development, and bioethics. Within each area of competence, sound clinical skill and judgment, an active knowledge of current research, and an ability to teach and communicate will be required. Fellows will be trained to conduct research during the fellowship, the major emphasis is on clinical practice.
